Sell-Out Crowd Attends Poultry Banquet

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LANCASTER — A sell-out crowd attended the Lancaster County Poultry Association's Annual Banquet on Thursday night at Olde Hickory Inn.

Robert E. Zimmerman, vice-president of the organization, said 100 additional tickets had to be printed to accomodate the 464 people who attended.

According to County Agent Jay Irwin, Lancaster County chickens laid 72 eggs per second last year. Those statistics again support the strength of the county's poultry industry. The organization reported on their yearly activity and Clair and Shirley High who headed Ephrata Fair Food Booth in September presented a $3,167.38 check to Milton Landis, president. The check represented the profits from the sale of chicken corn soup and other poultry entrees sold at the sale.

The county poultry queen and her alternate received their scholarships last night. As queen, Theresa Martin, a junior at Messiah College in Grantham, accepted the $500 scholarship and Lonna Rohrer, Paradise, was given a $300 one. Both Theresa and Lonna have been busy representing the industry at fairs and promotional events. The queen reported that they have perfected their omelet making skills and "if you need any hints come to us."

Four new members were nominated to the association's board of director. They are as follows: Joseph K. Hemler, Jr., Lancaster; Roger C. Garber, Mount Joy; Paul M. Wolgemuth, Jr., Elizabethtown; and J. Doug Wolgemuth, Elizabethtown.

Katie Brooks and Band entertained the audience with their foot-stomping, hand-clapping show "Country...On Stage."

The Referendum: An Important Issue For PA Voters

BY STANFORD M. LEMBECK
Penn State
Associate Professor

UNIVERSITY PARK — The state-wide referendum on November 3 concerning farmland preservation is a complex and important issue for all Pennsylvania voters. This is not just a rural issue nor will it be decided by rural voters alone.

The loss of Pennsylvania farmland has been a public concern for over 20 years. In the late 1960s Governor Raymond P. Shafer created the Governor's Committee for the Preservation of Agricultural Land to study the problem. Since that time, many of the Committee's recommendations have been enacted by the General Assembly. The most well known of these are popularly referred to as Clean and Green, Right-to-Farm, and Agricultural Security Areas.

The November 3 voters will be asked to approve a $100 million bond issue to fund a state-wide agricultural preservation program. Proceeds from the sale of bonds will be used to finance the purchase of agricultural conservation easements from farmers, ensuring the long-term retention of Pennsylvania farmland.

The term agricultural conservation easements, also known as development rights, refers to landowners' rights to develop or improve their land for many non agricultural uses. Because farmland may be more valuable as residential, commercial or industrial land, farmers forego the development value of that land by keeping it in farming.

However, by selling the development rights to the county as specified under the proposed program, the farmland owner would be compensated for development without having to take the land out of production. Counties would be able to prevent nonfarm use of these properties by holding conservation easements.

The bond referendum, together with implementing legislation now in the General Assembly,

Farm Credit Owners Have Opportunity To Exercise Local Control

BY KATHY E. GILL
Special Correspondent

BALTIMORE, MD. — The general election on November 3 is not the only opportunity Middle Atlantic farmers have this fall to cast votes for their chosen representatives. Owners of the Farm Credit System also have until December to cast a vote for an at-large director to represent them on the Board of Directors of the Baltimore Farm Credit System.

The issue of local control is one Congress is debating as it struggles with Farm Credit legislation. But as that theoretical discussion rings through the Capitol, a practical application exists today for Middle Atlantic farmers. At issue is not only the first at-large election of a Farm Credit District director but also the balance of power on that Board.

Until this year, the Board of the Baltimore Farm Credit System has been composed of two representatives from the Production Credit Associations, two from the Federal Land Bank Associations, two from the Bank for Cooperatives and one appointed at-large.

Today, that at-large position is open for a District-wide vote. The current composition of the other six Board seats is one each from Delaware, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and three from Virginia. After this election Pennsylvania will have two directors or Virginia

Several Thousand Farmers Attend Agway Meeting

SYRACUSE — Several thousand farmers here this week heard the president of their farm cooperative report a good year; received the announcement of a major seed corn distribution agreement; accepted the retirement of their board chairman and elected 2 new directors from Pennsylvania.

Speaking at the 23rd Agway annual meeting, William A. Hiller, president and CEO, stated that information and knowledge are the basis of the new economic order that has emerged throughout the world.

"We're in the midst of a major restructuring of the agricultural production system in the United States," he said. "Tomorrow's most successful farmers will be those who continuously and effectively apply technological developments combined with sound business management procedures."

Referring to a recent report entitled "Toward 2005," commissioned by the Northeast Regional Council of the National Joint Council on Food and Agricultural Sciences, Hiller stated that action is necessary to reverse a trend of falling market share. Northeast agriculture must reclaim a strong competitive position in comparison with agriculture in the rest of the United States.

Hiller predicted four key technological changes on Northeast farms in the years immediately

Boyd Honored For 4-H Support

UNIVERSITY PARK — Everybody needs a friend and the 4-H program is no exception. Over the years Darwin Boyd, Akron, has been a friend the extension office can count on. In appreciation for his dedicated service, Boyd was awarded the Epsilon Sigma Phi—State Friend of Extension Award. The extension's honorary fraternity presented the award at their annual meeting held on Tuesday at Penn State University.

Boyd is vice president and director of the Agri-Finance Department of Hamilton Bank for Annual PA State Grange Convention

BY CAROLYN HILSDON GILLES
Crawford Co. Correspondent

BUTLER — An estimated 500 PA Grangers were assembled Sunday evening, October 25, in the Auditorium of the Butler Area Senior High School as the first event in the week's convention activities was opened by Wanda Gallimore, PA State Grange Director of Deaf Activities. Gallamore was Mistress of Ceremonies for the Sunday evening program that served as the kick-off for the 1987 PA Grange convention. The event showcased first-place winners of the State Junior Grange Talent Contest, which was held in June at the All-Granger Summer Jubilee, and presented state finalists in the Deaf-Sign-A-Song Competition. Program events were interpreted for the evening by signer Mimi Loughead from the Mid-West Intermediate Unit IV.

Gillamore called upon Dave Parker, founder and leader of a group called "Breakthrough," to perform the program's opening number. Parker heads a non-profit Pittsburgh-based troupe that joins the beauty of sign language with music. Gillamore introduced Parker's number as "the ultimate in sign-a-song." Parker's solo performance delighted the crowd and got the evening off to a lively start.

Gillamore then turned the

Component Pricing Could Be Just Around The Corner

BY LISA HAMM

LITITZ — Getting the most for your product is the goal of every businessman regardless of whether the product is a car or a toothbrush. Perhaps this is what motivates the current interest in component pricing, which refers to paying for milk on the basis of its components.

Most farmers in the northeast receive a blend price on 100 pounds of milk plus a bonus for the percent fat in the milk that is more than the standard 3.5 percent.

ACRES CORN UPDATE Corn futures closed from 1/2 to 1-1/2 cents lower today, posting session lows in the closing minutes Declines late in the session were linked to persistent nervousness over the Dow Jones, with trading in the corn pit mirroring outside market activity Selling late in the session was tied to a lack of interest in holding large positions in such a choppy market, with price declines limited by strength in basis levels, slack movement and a strong export line-up December closed at $1 80-3/4, down 1-1/4 cent Generic certificate premiums are steady at bids of 105-105-1/2% and offers of 106-106-1/2%

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE Soybean futures prices settled mostly lower today with new session lows posted in the final minutes of trading Buyers were discouraged by the ongoing gyrations of the Dow Jones and were hesitant to hold positions November was pressured by long liquidation in front of first notice day, with ideas on potential deliveries varried Firm cash markets and slack movement were supportive along with firm processor demand November beans lost three cents, closing at $5 35-3/4 with January posting a 3-1/2 cent loss at $5 44-1/2

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE. Wheat futures settled lower today from 1/2 to 3 cents pressured by the slow-moving Dow Jones Further pressure came from selling tied to the positioning of hedges. Supportive to prices were higher Gulf basis levels and a bright near-term export line-up with Iraq and possibly the USSR. The December option closed one cent lower at $2 95-3/4

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE Live cattle futures closed higher this afternoon supported by cash-connected buying as talk surfaced that fed cattle traded at $67.00 Ideas that futures were oversold influenced additional buying along with steady midday dressed beef prices. Feeders closed higher supported by strength in the live cattle pit, with technical indicators signalling an uptrend which fueled buying interest.

FUTURES MARKET TRENDS

CME FEEDER CATTLE SETTLEMENT PRICE: 10/26/87 $74.67 dn $ 74.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: cash - steady futures-steady.

ACRES HOG UPDATE. Live hog futures closed higher today, but close to session lows as liquidation near the close pressured prices. Support came from ideas that cash prices tomorrow would firm and spillover from the rebound in the cattle futures. Further support came from steady to better midday pork product prices. Christmas hogs posted a gain of two points, closing at $43.72 after posting a daily high of $44 10.

Corn That Stands Through The Fall

That corn crop you've labored over won't do you any good if the ears are lying on the ground at harvest time But Funk's G-Hybrids will stand right through the harvest

And they'll not only stand, they'll produce record breaking yields With varieties like G-4027, tops in its field in New York Or G-4446, a record yielder in Pennsylvania Or G-4626, a standout in southern PA and Delmarva areas

And each Funk's variety is backed by Hoffman research We annually run more than 50 test plots to ensure that only the best yielding varieties reach your fields

When you're looking for outstanding yields this planting season, call your local Hoffman seed representative Or call Hoffman Seeds direct We'll deliver a corn crop that stands through the fall

OPINION

On Tuesday It's Yes

Next week is the Farmland Preservation Referendum. A question on the November 3 election ballot will decide the issue. The way the voters vote will determine if the State Farmland Preservation Act on the books will have the dollars to accomplish its task.

With all the discussion that has taken place on this issue in recent weeks, it's regretable that such a small group of Pennsylvanians will decide this important issue. Since only about half of the eligible voters are registered that immediately cuts the voting ranks. In addition, statistics show that only a small percentage of the registered voters actually vote on an off-year election. And of the few who do vote, many don't even bother to check the referendum questions.

Someone has estimated that maybe only 7 to 8 percent of the population will decide if money is available for farmland preservation in Pennsylvania. That is the apathy of freedom, we guess. But it does make your vote all that much more important.

So just before the vote, let's go over a few facts again.

The program is voluntary and only for farmers who are already in an agricultural security area. Let's say a farmer has a desire to keep his farm available for his children to farm, but also needs the market value of his land for his pension. This farm family could place a deed restriction on the land, sell the farm to the children at land value for farming and receive the difference from development value from the bond money allowed by a yes vote on the referendum to buy the development rights.

After 25 years, depending on the type of restriction placed on the deed, the children could then make their own decisions as to whether the deed restrictions should be continued. And since 25 years is for all practical purposes a generation in the life of a farmer, this seems like a very reasonable period of time if we are to have any real effect on preserving the balance between agriculture and industry or urban sprawl in Pennsylvania. The farm family continues to own the land with only the development restriction.

The amount that would be paid for the development rights would be the difference between two appraisals of the land. One appraisal estimates the full market value of the land for any use, and the second estimates the agricultural use value of the land. On the case of the 25 year restriction 1/10 of the difference is paid.

Certainly it is hard to be totally objective on this issue for anyone who loves farming and the good earth. And not everything about this referendum is what we would like. Many side issues and other farm issues should also be addressed.

But at this point, we have not been given the option to vote maybe. And the side issues will need to wait for another time. On Tuesday it's yes or no.

State Senator Noah Wenger sent out a questionnaire recently, and the results showed that nearly 70 percent of the more than 2,000 persons who responded favored the state's support of farmland preservation. In light of all the facts, we agree with this majority. Vote yes in the farmland referendum this week on election day.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Observe Weed Populations

Now that most of the corn is harvested, we can plainly see what weeds failed to be controlled in those fields. We are seeing more of the persistent, hard-to-control weeds appearing in our crop fields during the past 10-12 years. In part, this is because we have changed our farming methods, particularly tillage techniques and we're not using crop rotations in the case of continuous corn.

Bindweeds, horsenettle, hemp dogbane, curly dock, Canada thistle, Johnsongrass, and yes, even woody plants such as brambles and small volunteer trees have appeared in increasing numbers. We need to note the presence of these weeds now and then prepare to deal with them.

When you notice a new weed, have it identified and take appropriate control measures before that weed becomes a menacing problem. If weeds are presently escaping from your control efforts, find out how to change your weed management program.

To Winterize Small Engines

Many small engines on farms and around homes will be hard to start next spring. But you can change that by properly winterizing your small engines. Here are some suggestions:

- After running the engine to reach operating temperature, drain the crankcase and refill with new oil of proper weight, as specified in the operator's manual.
- Add a few teaspoons of gasoline stabilizer into the gas tank and run the engine for several minutes to make sure the additive flows throughout the fuel system.
- If the engine is water cooled, be sure the anti-freeze in the cooling system is sufficient for the lowest temperature.
- Remove the spark plug and pour a tablespoon of clean oil into the cylinder. Also clean and regap the spark plug or replace with a new one.
- Use an air gun to blow loose dirt and chaff from the engine. Remove and service the air cleaner.
- Finally, cover the engine with a piece of canvas and store in a dry place under cover.

To Check Stand-By Generators

The winter season brings with it snow and ice storms that can damage and knock out our supply of electricity. Most farmers are badly crippled without electricity so the need for a stand-by generator is recognized. I know that many poultry farms in particular already have this equipment. However, if the generator is not in good working condition, it may not do the job in case of emergency. These generators should be run once a week to reassure yourself that it's in good running condition. If it is a tractor hookup type, then take the time to make that connection each week. When the power goes off, you don't have time to run tests of the equipment to make sure it's in the proper working order.

To Notice Spiny Pigweed in Pastures

An annual summer and fall weed we see increasing in pastures is the thorn covered redroot or pigweed. The weed is a first cousin of our common redroot -- except this one has spines on it.

No animal eats it for obvious reasons. Spiny pigweed grows freely in too many pastures, causing considerable loss in grass production in our County.

The weed can easily be seen. It appears red all over, particularly the stem, in the fall. Touch the plant (careful now!) and you will come in contact with the horrible spines. Grazing animals avoid it 100%.

Control — Spiny pigweed can easily be controlled by Banvel or 2,4-D applied in late May and early June when in its seedling stage. A second herbicide application likely will be needed as a cleanup to get late germinating weed seeds. Mowing the pasture helps but the weeds will always recover.

FARM FORUM OUR READERS WRITE

Editor:

At first glance it seems like a good idea to have a 100,000,000 bond issue to buy development rights to farmland. However, I have my doubts. Governmented bodies still have the right to condemn ag land. Is ag land more lost if it goes for housing rather than a road or landfill? The issue of condemning ag land has not been adequately addressed.

The bond issue might buy development rights to 100,000 acres. Development pressure will still be there. Prices will be bid up on non-saved acres. More bond issues, higher prices, like topsy turvy.

In recent years, many Amish and Mennonites have moved to places like Perry County. They get along very well and maintain their identity. Unlike Lancaster County, they aren't gawked at by tourists.

Development isn't all bad. Many ag areas have few jobs.

Is the proposed bond issue to help tourist traps in Lancaster County? Farmers might be better off without the bond issue and concentrate on eliminating condemnation of ag land.

When the animal rights activists are getting after the poultry farmers, I have to write about some serious facts.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

NOBODY'S PERFECT

November 1, 1987

Background Scripture:
Genesis 30:25 through 31:55.

If you go looking for human perfection in the Old Testament, you won't find it. In fact, many of the Hebrew "heroes" were not even close to being perfect. Moses was a murderer. Abraham was a blatant liar, passing off his wife Sarah as his sister for fear of the Egyptians. David was an adulterer and arranged for the death of Uriah, Bathsheba's husband.

And then there was Jacob— who shamelessly deceived his own father and cheated his brother, Esau, out of both his birthright and his father's dying blessing. Nor was he the kind of man who, having sinned, stayed to face the music. With the encouragement and help of his mother, Rachel, Jacob ran away from his family and home rather than face the consequences.

RUNS IN THE FAMILY

When at last Jacob arrived in Haran, it seems that he is ready to settle down. His mystical experience at Bethel seemed to have made a profound impression upon him. And so, Jacob the ruthless schemer seems to become Jacob the honest, hard worker.

But Jacob soon finds that his Uncle Laban is just as ruthless as he had been. In fact it would seem that deceit and subterfuge run in the family. Just as Jacob had cheated Esau, so Laban cheats Jacob.

Laban and Jacob are "family," but that doesn't keep them from trying to put something over on each other. In other words, the same dynamics we find in many families today are present in the story of Jacob, even though the details may be quite different and considerably more subtle. There is jealousy, deceit, envy, greed, and exploitation.

NO CARDBOARD SAINTS

The people in the story of Jacob are clearly no cardboard saints. Neither are they thoroughly depraved. Like many of us, they are somewhere in-between. They are seriously flawed, but they have their good points too. When Jacob first arrived at Laban's home, it appeared as if this was going to be a good positive relationship. Out of it comes tremendous prosperity for Laban and recognition for Jacob. As Laban later admits to Jacob, "I have learned by divination that the Lord has blessed me because of you" (Genesis 30:27).

The relationship, it seems, is going to be beneficial for both Laban and Jacob. But then, as it often happens even today, the good prospects are ruined by human emotions. Instead of being grateful for the prosperity that Jacob has brought him, Laban decides he wants all of it for himself. Jacob overheard his cousins complaining, "Jacob has taken all that was our fathers; and from what was our father's he has gained all his wealth" (31:1). It wasn't true, but they believed it.

Yet, despite the fact that none of these people — Jacob, Laban, Rachel — are anywhere near perfect, we can see God working to bring about this purpose. They were real people struggling with real problems. So what makes Jacob a great Hebrew patriarch is not so much that he was "wonderful," but that God was able to do wonderful things through him.

Just as he is able to do in, with and through us! No need to wait, he can use you as you are!

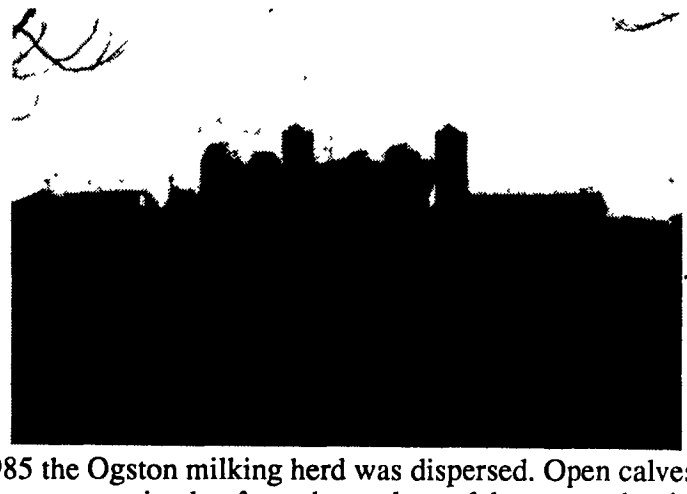
F.M. Brown's Sons, Inc. Congratulates John "Jack" Bishop - Ogston Farm - Columbus, N.J. - Recently Selected By The Dairy Shrine As - 1987 DISTINGUISHED DAIRY CATTLE BREEDER

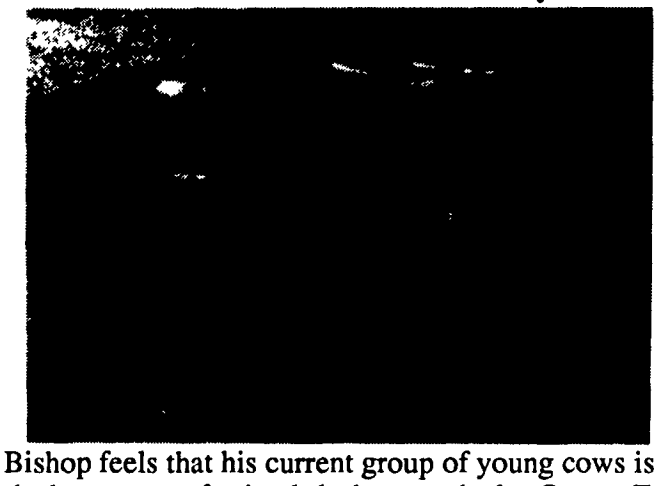
Ogston Farm has been in the Bishop Family since 1806. Jack has been the manager for the past 50 years, splitting his time between two full time careers as a dairyman and partner in a prestigious law firm. He is recognized by the Dairy Shrine for developing the Ogston herd of Jersey cattle and the contributions this group of cattle has made to the genetic pool of the Jersey breed.

Ogston Farm - Columbus, N.J.



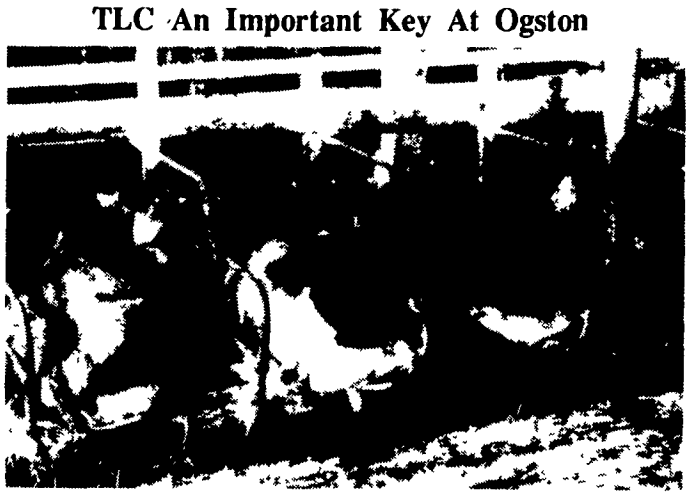
In 1985 the Ogston milking herd was dispersed. Open calves and heifers were retained to form the nucleus of the current herd. Currently 107 head average 14,071 milk, 4.6% fat and 652 lbs. An outstanding average for a herd with 52% 1st calf heifers.

Future Genetic Leaders of the Jersey Breed



Jack Bishop feels that his current group of young cows is genetically the best group of animals he has ever had at Ogston Farm. He credits top genetics and the efforts of his farm crew, including his herd manager Bill Phares and Bill's wife Deb with part of the success of the Ogston herd.

TLC An Important Key At Ogston



The Ogston herd is maintained in free stalls and milked in a parlor. Cows receive haylage, corn silage, hay, pasture and high moisture shelled corn - all produced on the 900 acres that make up Ogston Farm. Brown's 30 H-M Balancer and Brown's 20 HiEnergy Pellets are currently used to supplement home grown forages. Both are custom modified using Brown's Flex-Formula Ration Balancing system to insure all cows receive the nutrients they need to express their genetic potential. Jack states that he appreciates the Brown's approach to manufacturing and selling feeds, especially the routine visits by a sales representative and the excellent services the drivers provide.

The Udder of Waverly Farms Brass Julie - EX

Julie was purchased as a calf to add to the genetic base of the current Ogston herd. After freshening at 1 year 10 months in 181 days Julie has produced 10,459 lbs. milk at 4% test and 422 of fat. She is projected to make 20,587 milk on a 305 day 2X-ME basis and 831 of fat. Julie is typical of many of the high producing, sound uddered 2 year olds in the Ogston herd. They show good functional type and a high degree of production persistency. Calves grow well on Brown's Calf Starter and then switch to a home ground heifer grain mix containing Rumensin. In summing up his heifer raising program Jack says he tries to grow them fast and breed them early.

At Brown's we are pleased to help customers like Ogston Farm obtain the most from their animals. We congratulate John Bishop VI on being recognized by the Dairy Shrine as the 1987 Distinguished Dairy Cattle Breeder.

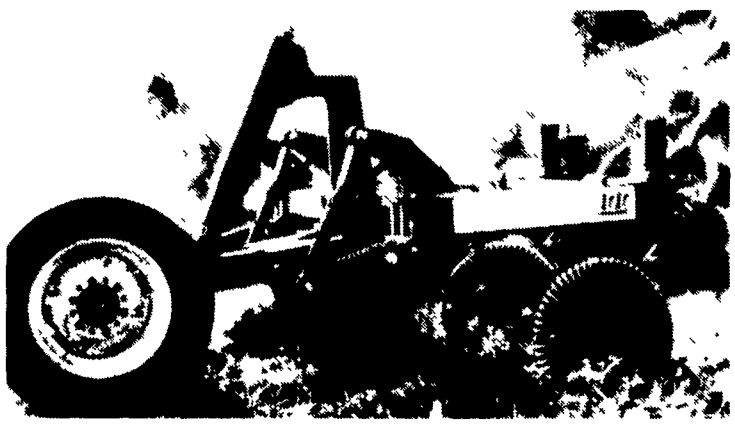
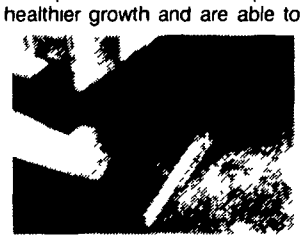
INCREASE YOUR PROFITS WITH THE TWO SEASON CONSERVATION TILLAGE COMPANION. THE BLU-JET SUB-TILLER II.



Quick change points on BLU-JET s Sub-Tiller II now make it easy to use one machine for fall and summer tillage!

Designed for use in standing row crops, summer till points increase moisture absorption 10" to 14" deep without root disturbance Roots are given room for healthier growth and are able to go deep through the shattered hardpan to reach trace minerals



Summer till point

Fall till point

After harvest, the Sub-Tiller II s fall till points penetrate 14" to 16" deep and fracture soil up to 20' on either side of the shank Rigid or spring cushion coulters easily cut through heavy trash And because the crop residue is not disturbed, erosion is controlled and cattle can continue to graze

Today s heavy equipment causes severe soil compaction Don t let it squeeze your profits Put the two season conservation tillage companion to work, BLU-JET s Sub-Tiller II Available in 3, 5, 7, and 9 shank units, 3 point or pull type, with shear bolt or flex trip design

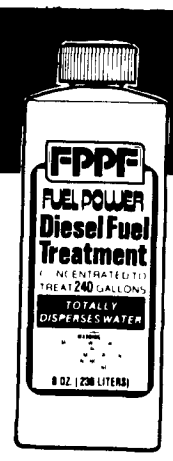
FUEL INJECTION & TURBOCHARGER SPECIALIST



Most people think that diesel fuel additives are only used in the winter months to solve winter-type problems.

The real benefit of FPPF Fuel Power is to solve the year 'round problems that only a unique product like Fuel Power can solve:

* Totally disperses water to protect the fuel injection system
* Prevents the growth of algae
* Decarbonizes the entire fuel injection system which gives greater power.

Available in 8 oz. bottles, 1 gallon cans, 5 gallon pails, and 55 gallon drums.

A Secure Market is as

SIMPLE AS A D C

ADC stands for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative.

The largest, full-service cooperative in the Northeast is owned and operated by dairy farmers who know that dairying is a tough business. They believe their personal growth is best assured in a strong organization with stable marketing programs. This is particularly important with today's critical shortage, when everyone is looking for more milk, and some are waving short-term inducements at milk producers.

ADC stands for its members.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative was formed earlier this year by a merger of Inter-State Milk Producers and Lehigh Valley Farmers.

The tradition of service goes on. ADC is committed to:

- develop long-term guaranteed markets for our members.
- secure enough milk to meet consumer needs.
- get the best possible prices for the milk.
- maximize the dividends paid to our members.

Dairy Nutrition Schools Announced

LANCASTER — The Lancaster County Extension Service announced that it will be conducting two three-day Dairy Nutrition Schools for dairymen, herdsmen and other interested personnel in Lancaster and surrounding counties.

The first school is scheduled for November 10, November 24 and December 8 in the Manheim-Mount Joy area. Reservations are necessary and can be made by calling the Lancaster County Extension Service before Friday, November 6; telephone (717) 394-6851. A registration fee will be charged to cover the cost of lunch, refreshments and course materials.

A second school will be conducted in Eastern Lancaster County on December 9, December 16 and January 5. Contact the Lancaster or Chester County Extension Office for more information. The Chester County number is (215) 696-3500.

These schools are designed to help people learn more about dairy nutrition, feeds and feeding. Feeding and nutrition affect many aspects of a dairy farm operation. It is important for dairymen, and for those who advise him, to understand the interrelationships of feeding, milk production, fat tests, reproduction, and herd health. Also important is feed quality, and the ability to evaluate the many products and services that are available.

The schools focus on a variety of topics, including: The Principles of Ruminant Nutrition, Feeds and Feed Nutrients, Forages and Forage Evaluation, New Protein and Carbohydrate Concepts, Feeding and Managing Dry Cows and Springing Heifers, Feeding and Managing Cows at Freshening, Ideal Flesh and Body Condition, Feed Additives, Ration Formulation and Evaluation, Fine-Tuned Feeding, Feed Costs and Returns, etc.

The Cooperative Extension Service is an affirmative action, equal opportunity educational institution.

Dairy Board Launches Campaign

Washington, D.C. — " Don't Forget The Cheese," is the theme of the new generic ad campaign created by DDB Needham Worldwide (Chicago) for the National Dairy Board. The $22.5 million campaign is being launched this month and will continue throughout 1988. The target audience is women, age 25-54, who use cheese at moderate levels.

"According to research, the best and most viable target for cheese is the light to medium user. These people are not aware of the simple ways to use cheese more frequently," said George de Jager, the Dairy Board's senior vice president of marketing and evaluation.

The first phase of the campaign is comprised of eight 15-second spots giving quick, easy ways to use cheese to add flavor, color and taste to everyday foods. Broccoli smothered with cheese, mozzerella-topped tomatoes, swiss cheese on chicken and melted cheese on peas or "whoopeas" are some of the serving suggestions. Sixteen additional 15-second spots are planned.

The campaign media schedule focuses on shopping days since research indicates cheese is a "shopping list" product consumers plan ahead to purchase. The total television buy is $19 million.

Burket, Freese Discuss Philosophies Of Holstein Breeding Program

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK — A panel discussion featuring two well-known cattle breeders headlined the annual York County Holstein meeting and banquet, held October 21 at S. Matthew Lutheran Church.

David Burket, East Freedom, and Glen Freese, Oxford, detailed their philosophies of breeding dairy cattle in a question-answer forum, moderated by Jed Beshore.

The Burket's three sons are all involved in the Blair County operation, with 90 registered milking Holsteins, including both red and polled bloodlines, and cropping of 350 of the family's 700 acres. Rolling herd average is at the 20,000 level. With notable success on the showring circuit, Burkett Falls has bred an All-American and reserve winners, plus several All-American nominees.

Freese's Chester County farm includes 70 head of registered Holsteins, with a rolling herd average of 22,000 milk and 770 fat, and croping 200 acres for feeding. Merchandising of the herd's high production, high-indexed herd is the key emphasis at Glee-Hi Farms, and a heavy use of embryo transfer technology from selected individuals. At present, Freese has 22 bulls, all under a year old, head for A.I. organizations.

Burket, a leader of the Breeders Majority, a grassroots Holstein industry movement to restructure current "numbers" indexing formulas, stressed his emphasis on type conformation and a "generally good cow" when selecting matings.

"What constitutes a good cow, and who should decide what consistitues a good cow are where a lot of the differences lie," believes Burket, of the continuing industry debate on the value of the "numbers" computer indexing genetic valuation of cattle.

Burket Falls cattle have beenmated over theyears through use of the AAA coding. although Burket emphasizes that many successful cow analysis-mating programs are available.

"If you breed a cow with longevity, and she gives you several daughters, only one is needed to replace her," he added. Other daughters are then available for herd upgrading or merchandising. And, if cows are mated properly, Burket believes, lower TPI sires can be used and result in quality offspring.

Few cattle are purchased by the Burkets, and cow index is not a major factor in those acquisitions.

"A purchased cow would have to be one I can look at and like," stressed Burket. "I would buy a cow on looks, if she milked, but never on index alone."

He added, however, that he would be "one of the last to do away with numbers and indexing entirely, but they're too heavily emphasized."

Freese acknowledged that he, too, is interested in a "good" cow, adding, "I don't like a good-looking cow that doesn't milk, or a good milker that doesn't look good."

Breeding programs, he figures, do not have to be complicated. The three-point program he has followed for 17 years has resulted in a herd B.A.A. of 106. Freese had bred 20 Excellents 102 Very Good individuals in that time.

First step in his program is AAA analysis, initially after heifers freshen at two years, and again as three-year-olds.

Continuing study of the "Red Book," USDA's semi-annual listing of sires, is Freese' second breeding program focus. Of the top 100 TPI sires, he considers only the highest 25, and then, lastly, matches those with comparable AAA codings to each his herd individuals.

Freese holds to a ceiling of $40 on the sires he chooses, except for cows being flushed for embryo transfer.

"Breeding is not as precise as we think it might be," Freese suggests. He adamantly believes that quality management, from calfhood through maturity, can add five to seven points to an individual's type score, while poor management may cost an animal 10 to 20 points.

Income from merchandising of cattle has equalled the income of the Glee-Hi herd's milk production for the last three years, according to Freese. And the herd's top selling individuals each of the past five years have averaged over $70,000.

"We keep registered cattle to give our family a good standard of living, and provide money for investment," he emphasized.

Using a tru-type Holstein picture he received as a gift in 1959, Freese noted differences in what was considered the ideal cow nearly 30 years ago to present conformation standards. No one knows, he added, what the ideal cow will look like in another half-century.

The Chester County breeder also compared credibility of proofs of stud-proven sires to breeder-proven sires. For his consideration, breeder proven sires must have higher percentages of repeatability and be "honestly" done, according to Freese. Fabrication of proofs and records will eventually "catch up and weed out the problems, correcting themselves."

Other speakers at the York meeting included national Holstein director John Cope and PHA membership director Ken Raney.

Cope briefly reviewed the activities of the national Holstein Association, noting that traditional income methods no longer provide adquate funding and creative new finance methods are being studied. Registration volume is down 23,000 applications from the level of one year ago, running about 2,000 less monthly.

However, due to the cattle export activity generated by the Farm Bill's Export Enhancement Program, Cope related that the Holstein Friesian Services, Inc. (HFS), is in a very positive condition and has "wiped out" a previous debt to the parent Holstein organization.

Exports are expected to continue, according to state membership director Ken Raney. The past year's high level of export activity has generated some $5.7 million worth of business for PHA.

"Cattle are moving well, prices are up, and we're looking for another busy year," Raney said.

Recognition for her five years as York's dairy extension agent was extended to Shannon Neumann.

Three new directors were elected for three-year terms during the annual business meeting. Filling those board seats are Jed Beshore, New Cumberland, Dale Fuhrman, Hanover, and Melvin Marks, Airville.

York County's Holstein Association is sponsoring a three-day trip to the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto Canada, November 12-14. A few seats remain for that tour; individuals interested in participating are asked to immediately contact Tom Boyer, York, at 717-225-5240.

Dairymen, Inc. Honors Long-Term Members And Top Quality Producers

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG — Benchmark membership anniversaries and producers shipping high quality milk were recognized during the Awards Luncheon at the annual Middle Atlantic Division meeting of Dairymen, Inc.

Honored for fifty years of continuous membership with Dairymen, and the former Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, were Chester T., Charles L., and Richard L. Black, New Windsor, Maryland. .

Twenty-five-year continuous membership honors went to 17 producers in the Middle Atlantic division's area. Recipients were John and Charlotte Stiles; Benjamin G. and Jane S. Stanton; Paul W. and Mary I. Satterfield; Bruce I. Neibert; David H. Martin; William E. and Frances M. Forbes; and K.W. and N.J. Myers, Ken-Je-Myr Farm.

Other 25-year membership recipients were John F. Stitely; Charles W. and Wayne E. Rhoderick; Charles E., Florence A., and Alan L. Brauer; B.&B. Dairy; Marvin P. and Vera V. Abbott; Donald E. and Thelma L. Beard; Fred and Vivian Carbaugh, Cedar Lane Farm; William Bontrager, Wilbon Farm; Burnell M. and Janet L. Boerner; and Samuel B. and Robert Jones, Hawks Hill Farm, Inc.

High quality milk production earned 28 members award recognition at three levels. Members awarded quality honors must initially meet all requirements of the Division's Honor Roll Program. That includes a monthly Standard Plate Count of less than 5,000 and monthly Somatic Cell County under 500,000. In addition, a member may have had no antibiotics, no suspensions, a Sediment level of Excellent or Good, freezing point of .530 or better and have shipped milk the entire month of each Honor Roll period.

Silver level winners must meet Honor Roll standards 11 of the 12 months, and had an SPC under 50,000 during the exception month, while maintaining an inspection score of 92 or above.

At the Gold quality level, Honor Roll standards must be met all 12 months, with inspection scores at 92 and above. Members on the Honor Roll all 12 months, and with inspection scores of 99 or 100, an Excellence Award is presented.

Three division members earned the coveted Quality Excellence award. Recipients were Joseph B. and Nancy J. Yoder, Salisbury; Dan G. Delp and Eva Delp Cole, the Delp Farm, Whiteford, Maryland; and Norman E. and Paul L. Sellers, Panora Acres, Inc., Manchester, Maryland.

Gold level certificates were earned by eight Dairymen members. Those awards went to M.F. and C.W. Chamelin, Aerie Farm; Dale L. Barshinger; Melvin W. and Inez C. Cooper; Marshall and Walter Harkins; Samuel B. and Robert Jones, Hawks Hill Farms; Jonas Z. and Annie A. Kinsinger; Daniel A. Rohrer Jr.; and Glenville L. and Kenneth L. Shade.

Seventeen members received awards at the Silver Quality level. Recipients are Mark D. and Donna I. Garber; David L. and Amanda F. Beiler; Edwin L. and Carolyn L. Calhoun; Claude M. and Kevin C. Cooper; Edward H. Ensor; Flint Hill Farms, Edgar A. and Noah L. Schaeffer; Ray M. and Roger A. Garber; and Millard D. and Nancy N. Kefauver.

Also, Levi H. and Lydia A. Kinsinger; Kevin R. and Robin D. Martin; Robert L. and Nancy J. McCuller; Charles E. Null, Sr., Michael's Home, Inc.; Thomas H. and Ethel C. Muller, Charles H. and Marie T. Nevius; Norman M. and Mary B. Stauffer; W. Kenneth Vansant, Jr.; and William A. and Donna L. Myers.

Atlantic District 32 To Meet

VIRGINVILLE — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative District 32 will hold its annual dinner meeting November 2 at 7 p.m. at the Virginville Grange Hall.

Dr. Paul E. Hand, Atlantic s General Manager, will be the guest speaker. Hand will report on the cooperative's fiscal year and will review the Atlantic merger.

MILK AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

Lancaster 4-H Dairy Project Winners

The Lancaster County 4-H Dairy Project Award is based upon 4-H dairy record book scores. This book takes into account the care and attention members give to their animals at home, their interest in 4-H and in their project, their participation in 4-H activities, and how well they showed their animals at the round-up and how well they completed their record books. Presented with this award at the 4-H Dairy Awards Banquet last week were:

1. Janice Garber, 2. Angie Spickler, 3. Beth Kauffman, 4. Karen Kauffman, (3 tied for 5th) 5. Helen Arrowsmith, 5. Jeff Balmer, 5. Beth Spickler, 8. Sandra Kauffman, 9. Andy Graybill, 10. Heather Becker.

Boyd Honored

Berks, Lancaster, Chester, Lebanon, York and Dauphin counties. In the six-county area that Hamilton Bank serves, Boyd has provided financial support for 4-H awards and recognition banquets that purchases awards for outstanding 4-H leaders and members. Not only has Boyd made financial support available but he has also served as a spokesperson for 4-H and has recruited other business associates to support the extension services.

Boyd's attachment to 4-H began as a 4-H member in a Lancaster County Club. According to the committee who presented the award, Boyd excelled in the program when he was ayouth and stimulated other members to pursue opportunities for statewide and national achievement.

Later Boyd attended Delaware Valley College and completely financed his undergraduate studies with proceeds from his 4-H club projects. From 1966 until 1972, Boyd served as 4-H program director in Seoul, Korea.

Over the years, Boyd has received recognition and awards for his many outstanding services for community and extension service involvement.

PA's Last Acre Mapped

Bedford County Soil Scientist Rob Knight labels Pennsylvania's "last acre" of mapped soil as Philo.

SCHELLSBURG — Soil Scientist Rob Knight stepped into the shallow pit, brushed his hand across its surface, gathered some pebbles from the bottom, and explained to some 50 dignitaries surrounding the site: "It's a flood plain soil with mottled color; there's a gravelly layer, very porous to water...It's an excellent agricultural soil, good for your corn." With that he picked up a large map and penned the classification of Pennsylvania's "last acre" as Philo soil.

After 44 years, all 28,881,800 acres in Pennsylvania have been classified and mapped. The "last acre" ceremony, observed by federal, state and local officials, was staged at Camp Living Waters near here October 23.

Although the State's soil classification and mapping project began in 1943, the effort was pursued with determination here in Bedford County only in the last seven years, according to County Soil Conservation (SCS) Director Terry Miller. Initial soil identification efforts in the Commonwealth date to 1900 in Lancaster County. Pennsylvania is the only state of its size to have completed mapping.

While the State's soil mapping is finished, the soil survey isn't, pointed out Richard Arnold, director of the Soil Survey Program, SCS, Washington, D.C., as he addressed the gathering. The survey is a publication containing soil maps with accompanying manuscript descriptions.

Added Fred King, deputy secretary with the State Department of Agriculture, "Now we have the basic natural resource data necessary to help in municipal planning, in farming decisions, in government decisions." The mapping and subsequent surveys will help "so we can make wise decisions for land use," he said.

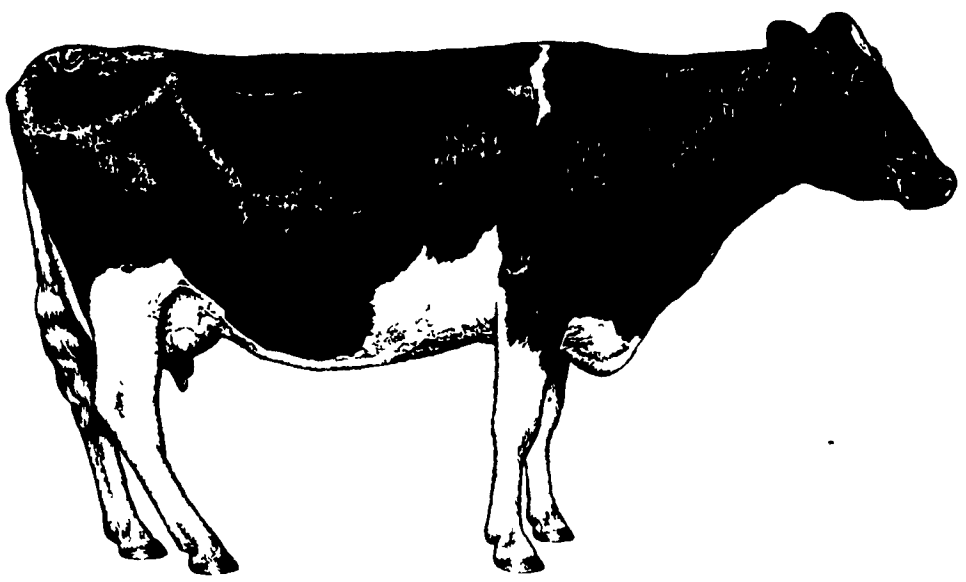
Gerald Lipscomb, SCS state soil scientist, noted that soils information on every acre of land in the Commonwealth is now available. Published surveys will be available for all Pennsylvania counties by late 1991, he added.

Arnold likened soil mapping to the building of a structure, which begins with a foundation, stone by stone. Mapping is the foundation on which additional land use decisions can be made. "We have humanized our landscape," Arnold pointed out. "It is more beautiful than when it was all natural. We need to take care of our soil resources so that we continue to have one of the most beautiful humanized landscapes in the world."

From the foundation of mapping and published surveys, the next step, according to Lipscomb, is to digitalize the information so that it will be available via computer. Also, surveys published earlier now will be updated.

Cooperating in the state's soil classification effort, in addition to the soil scientists who walked the land and augered its actual acres, were SCS officials in Harrisburg and Washington as well as scientists at Penn State University and officials with the Commonwealth's Departments of Agriculture and Environmental Resources.

Rob Knight served as party leader of the team completing Bedford County's classification and mapping.



VITAMIN E

Recent Ohio Research indicates that the increased incidence of mastitis and retained placentas is caused by inadequate levels of Vitamin E in Dairy Cow Rations. This is prevalent in the Selenium-Deficient Northeast. As a result, Agway immediately increased Vitamin E levels in all formula feeds and mineral premixes.

Other feed companies will probably follow suit. Shouldn't you be using FEED FROM THE LEADER?

podium over to PA Junior Grange Director Jeff Wetzel who lauded Jr. Grange as being "one of the oldest youth organizations," boasting 100 years of service. Wetzel said the PA Grange was "the #1 Grange program in the USA" and promised that, later in the program, the local chapter would kick-off a celebration that would end next year in Allentown. Wetzel then introduced the first-place winners of the State Junior Grange Talent Contest and awarded them cash prizes of $25. Winner in the Vocal, Age 5-9 division, Kelly Webster of Curfew Jr. Grange, Fayette County, was recently asked to represent Pennsylvania with a performance at National Grange on November 13.

Next, Rebecca Knappenberger of Snecksville Jr. Grange, Lehigh County, played a piano rendition of the theme from "Beverly Hills Cop" which won her first place in the Instrumental, Age 5-9 division.

The Other Acts, Age 5-9 division of the State Contest was represented by second-place winner Lesley Zug of Walker Grange, Juniata County, who performed a "bunny dance." Courtney Allen, the first-place winner, was unable to attend Sunday's event.

Next, Amy Beck of Scrubgrass Jr. Grange, Venango County, sang "The Greatest Love of All," the song that won her first place in the Vocal, Age 10-14 division, followed by Lisa Geschwindt of Virginville Jr. Grange, Berks County, first-place winner in the Instrumental, Age 10-14 division. Lisa performed a piano interpretation of the "First Movement of C River Piano Sonata."

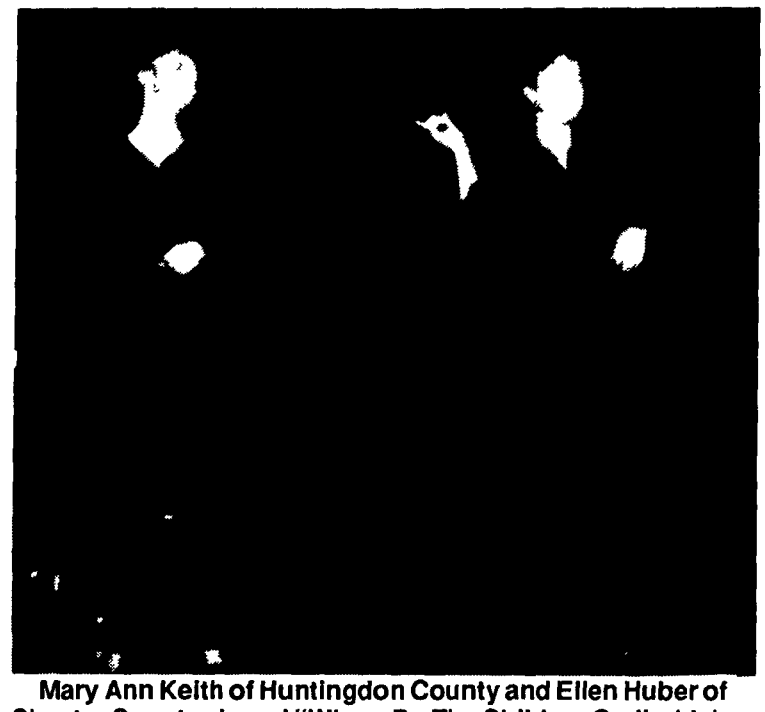
The talent showcase ended with Allison and Jaimee Wetzel of Virginville Jr. Grange, Berks County, rendering their award-winning gymnastic routine for "Love Will Keep Us Together," which took first place in the Other Acts, Age 10-14 division.

Gillamore then introduced the state finalists for the Deaf-Sign-A-Song competition. Judges for the competition were Sheila Throne, Cheryl Gealey, Sandra Sheppeck, and Doris Patterson.

In the Junior, Age 10-14 competition, Jenny McCullon of Scrubgrass Jr. Grange, Venango County, signed the song, "God Bless the USA;" Gina Gallimore of Biglerville Jr. Grange, Adams County, signed "Diamonds;" while Amy Beck of Scrubgrass Jr. Grange, Venango County, chose the song, "Pass It On," for her signing entry. Jenny McCullon won first place in this division, with second place going to Amy Beck, and Gina Gallimore coming in third.

At a break in the program, Wanda Gallimore, PA State Grange Director of Deaf Activites, took the opportunity to introduce one of the four judges for the evening, Sheila Throne, founder of Interpreters of the Deaf of Butler County. Gallimore presented her with a donation of $300 to help her group with expenses of a needed copier and some TTD's. Gallimore cited that the State Deaf Activities District Committee has distributed $4,000 across Pennsylvania and $2,000 to national program scholarships and hearing protection programs.

Next in the program were the entries for Individual Adult Competition: Ellen Huber of Goshen Grange, Chester County, signing "Daddy's Hands;" Ginny Buffington of Kennett Grange in Chester County signing "Say Amen;" Mary Ann Keith of Lincoln Grange in Huntingdon County signing "Giggle;" Laura McMillen of Westfield Grange, Lawrence County, signing "The Rose;" Nancy McMillen of Westfield Grange, Lawrence County, signing "My Tribute;" and Randy Hoge of Butler signing "Only In My Dreams." Ginny Buffington was third-place winner for this division, with second prize awarded to Ellen Huber. First place in the Adult Individual Division competition went to Mary Ann Keith who will now go on to represent Pennsylvania at the Mid-Atlantic Regional Competition, competition involving five states, to be held in April.



Mary Ann Keith of Huntingdon County and Ellen Huber of Chester County signed "Where Do The Children Go," which earned them first place in the group division of the Deaf-Sign-A-Song state competition.

In the final category of Group Competition, finalists were: Dean Miller of Adams County with Ellen Huber of Chester County signing "Next Time I Fall In Love;" and Mary Ann Keith of Huntingdon County with Ellen Huber of Chester County signing "Where Do The Children Go." The Miller/Huber duo placed second in this division with the Keith/Huber team taking first place.

Following the signing competition, the Grange members from across the state were treated to a performance by "Breakthrough." This troupe of eight performers, under the skilled and often humorous leadership of Parker, treated the assembly for an hour of razzle-dazzle entertainment that was educational as well as entertaining. The audience appreciated, participated, and gave a standing ovation at the conclusion of what Gillamore introduced as a performance combining "the beauty of dance with the beauty of sign to create a dance of the hands."

The evening's festivities drew to a close as Jr. Grangers, 118 strong, assembled on stage to sing "Happy Birthday" while State Jr. Grange Director Jeff Wetzel gave the signal to release balloons to signal the start of the year-long celebration to celebrate the 100th Anniversary of Junior Grange.

The Referendum: An Important Issue

would create an state-wide agricultural preservation option not presently available. It also raises a choice for voters.

The referendum asks Pennsylvanians to express their opinion about the importance of farmland retention. It asks voters if they will support spending public dollars for farmland preservation. Up to this time, preservation legislation and efforts to reduce farmland loss have been targeted to the municipal or county level, not to the state as a whole.

If the referendum is successful, it will allow farmland preservation to be shared among all who benefit. The financial burden of preservation usually falls on farmers because it is they who must withhold their land from development. However, urban, suburban and rural citizens concerned with aesthetic and environmental quality also may benefit from farmland preservation.

Existing preservation laws do address some aspects of farmland retention, but they offer relatively short-term protection. Preferential tax assessments (Clean and Green) and Agricultural Security Acres have a seven-year lifetime. Agricultural zoning that protects farm acres can be changed at any time.

Public purchases of development rights would hold farmland for farm use for a minimum of 25 years or in perpetuity. Under the proposed system, the time period would be the landowner's choice as would the decision to sell development rights in the first place. This longer preservation horizon means that farm and community plans can be developed on a reasonably permanent basis. Agriculture, which is a significant part of the economy and lifestyle of many communities, would then be retained by removing the pressures of development.

Pennsylvanians should look at all sides of the proposition before deciding how to vote on the bond referendum. A development rights purchase program is expensive. Do the expected benefits justify the cost? Growing communities need land for stores, homes and factories. Will there be enough land, not covered by conservation easements, for new growth? Communities also must consider the growth of their local tax base. What are the values of farm and nonfarm development to a voter's community?

Some people see the issue of farmland preservation in terms of production, arguing that there is more than enough agricultural land to meet our needs for food and fiber without purchasing easements to retain land. This concern needs to be weighed against the significance of farmland in protecting environmental resources and sustaining Pennsylvania's rural economy and lifestyle.

Whatever your view on farmland preservation, I urge you to express your opinion -- vote on November 3.

Forage Marketing Is Topic At Maryland Conference

BELAIR, MD — The keynote address at this year's Central Maryland Forage Conference will be given by Dr. David Petritz from Perdue University. Dr. Petritz will discuss the fundamentals of forage marketing from producer to consumer in a talk entitled "Find Your Hay Market First." This will be a very interesting discussion for anyone in the business of producing and selling forages.

Also on the agenda are discussions of forage crop establishment principles and practices, pasture systems for any forage/livestock system, and a panel discussion of new innovations in round bale packaging.

There will also be many displays set-up for viewing and the opportunity to talk with product representatives.

The Central Maryland Forage Conference is scheduled for December 10, 1987 at the Agricultural Center in Westminster, Maryland. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. and the program will commence at 9:30 a.m. Tickets are $5 each and include coffee and donuts in the morning followed by lunch in the afternoon. These are available at your County Extension Office. The program is open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin and should wrap-up by 3:15 p.m.

Agway Meeting

ahead: the adoption of on-farm computers, increased farm mechanization, milking center automation, and biotechnological advances in both plants and animals.

The farm leader commented on the problems of the Farm Credit System and acknowledged that the Springfield and Baltimore Banks for Cooperatives had been one of the sources of Agway financing for many years. These are two of the stronger operations in the 13-bank system, he said.

"There are no questions in my mind that 13 banks are not needed," he said. "At the same time, I'm not convinced that complete centralization is the answer. The lowest-cost distribution system must be the driving force. Bank member-owners should have a right to vote on their preferred system instead of one mandated by Congress."

Hiller reported that Agway operations for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1987, had shown good results. Despite lower prices for feed, energy, and crop needs, market share remained strong. Consolidated sales were $3.3 billion, on budget at a figure $245 million below last year. Consolidated earnings before tax and member refunds were $31.4 million, up substantially from last year. The consolidated report includes Agway's investments in Curtice Burns Foods, H.P. Hood, and Texas City Refining.

Sales for Agway Inc., the traditional member business, were on budget at $1.4 billion. Earnings before taxes and member refunds were $17.8 million, essentially equal to last year, he said.

Hiller reported the Agway balance sheet remains strong with retained earnings at 30 percent of average assets and member and employee investments at 38 percent, up three points from last year.

Based on management's recommendation, the Agway board voted to pay a $2.4 million refund to members, based on one half percent of their dollar volume with their cooperative. An additional $22 million was paid in interest and dividends on Agway securities.

Hiller announced that more than 1,000 new Agway members had been signed during the year increasing membership to over 102,000 in the 12 northeastern states. Many of these were young farmers under 35 years of age where major emphasis in recruiting is being placed.

AGWAY TEAMS UP WITH DEKALB SEED

According to an announcement by President Hiller at a press conference Thursday, Agway and DeKalb-Pfizer Genetics of DeKalb, Illinois, have signed an exclusive agreement for the distribution of DeKalb brand seed products in the northeastern United States.

The marketing areas involved in the agreement include the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Hiller said the DeKalb-Pfizer Genetics sales management organization in the Northeast will remain intact. Current DeKalb brand seed dealers will have the opportunity to continue selling DeKalb brand seeds. In addition, Agway stores in the territories covered by the agreement will begin offering DeKalb brand products as of November 1, 1987.

Kent Schulze, president of DeKalb-Pfizer Genetics, reported that this was their first exclusive marketing agreement of this scope in the U.S.

RICHARD CRONER RETIRES

And Richard Croner of Berlin announced his retirement as chairman and a member of the 18-member board of directors.

Croner was elected a director of Eastern States Farmers Exchange in 1957 and was named second vice president in 1963. With the merger of GLF and Eastern States in 1964, he became a member of the Agway board, serving continuously since that time. He was elected vice chairman of the board in 1980 and chairman in 1982.

Croner operates a 1,200-acre dairy and crops farm in partnership with his son, Tom. They have a milking herd of 150 Holsteins and 100 young stock. They grow potatoes, corn and barley.

MINOR AND WENGER NEWLY ELECTED

In balloting Thursday afternoon, Samuel F. Minor, Washington, and Joel L. Wenger, Greencastle, were elected to the Agway board of directors. In addition, the following directors were reelected: Ralph E. Winsor, Harpursville, New York; Peter D. Hanks, Salem, New York; Carl D. Smith, Corinna, Maine and Donald E. Pease, Susquehanna, Pennsylvania.

Mature Cow Selected As Champion

NEW HOLLAND — Forty dairy cows competed in eight classes at the New Holland Sales Stables annual dairy show and sale on Wednesday. Competition was stiff as judge John Morris from Frederick, Md., selected Alfred Albright's mature fresh cow as grand champion. The Landisburg man's cow, rated as excellent, was sold to Dale Hostetter of Annville (Lebanon), for $3,700.

The reserve champion, 3-year-old Quality Ultimate, was owned by Melvin Kolb of Lancaster. Peila Brothers of Manchester, Ct., purchased the cow, which is milking at 75 pounds, for $3,400.

The 3-year-old fresh heifer shown by Charlie Myers of Lancaster was selected as having the best udder fresh and was bought by Paul B. Zimmerman of Ephrata for $3,450. Best udder dry was a mature cow shown by Peila Brothers. It was purchased by Rodney Greist of Coatesville for $3,500.

Herb Hartman, Hartman Farms of Dundee, Ill., bid $8,600 on the second-place mature dry cow for the high bid of the sale. The 3-year-old fresh heifer from Don and Harold Welk's Stonehurst Farms of Strasburg, placed second in its class and brought the second-highest bid of $6,900 from David Rama of Cattle Exchange in Delhi, N.Y. The average price for the cows was $2,321.

Pomona Grange Supports "Vote Yes On Ag"

ELIZABETHTOWN — Lancaster County Pomona Grange No. 71 was hosted by Elizabethtown Grange No. 2076 at their October 17 meeting. The Grange voted to go on record as supporting the "Vote Yes on Ag Preservation" issue to be decided in the November election. A donation was designated to go to the Lancaster County Committee for Ag Preservation.

The Grange also voted to go on record with PennDot as supporting Alternative No. 6 of the proposed Route 23/30 highway. This alternative would have the new Route 23/30 extend north to Blue Ball before looping south to link up with the Chester County Route 30 expressway.

Pequea Valley Grange issued an invitation for the January meeting to be held at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant, Paradise, on Saturday, January 16, 1988. The literary program featured a patriotic flag service. Pennsylvania State Grange will be held in Butler, Pennsylvania October 26-29, and National Grange will meet November 9-15 in Syracuse, New York.

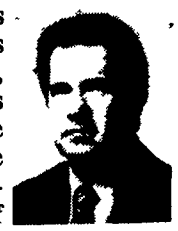
SOMETHING OLD AND SOMETHING NEW FOR INCOME TAX MANAGEMENT

Larry C. Jenkins
Extension Economist



Even though its "power" is vastly dimished, the capital gains provision of the Internal Revenue Code is still important as a tool of income tax management. Capital gain is the term used to describe gain from disposal of capital assets; that is, assets the taxpayer holds for investment or personal purposes. Special provisions of the Internal Revnue Code permit gain from disposal of property used in a trade or business to be treated as capital gain. Under pre-1986 law, that provision provided significant tax benefits to farmers. Sales of cull breeding animals, for example, could qualify for the 60 percent capital gain exclusion and only 40 percent of the gain was taxed.

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 contains major change in the tax rules for capital gains. The 60 percent capital gain exclusion is no longer available. The loss of that exclusion removes part, but not all, of the tax benefits of capital gain income.

Farmers will continue to benefit from capital gain qualifying sales and should be conscious of the advantage of increasing this type income as compared to ordinary income. For upper income taxpayers, capital gain is taxed at a minimum 28 percent rate as compared to top rates of 38.5 percent in 1987 and 33 percent in 1988 for ordinary income. Legislation recently introduced in the U.S. Congress proposes freezing tax rates at the 1987 level or adding a 5 percent surcharge on rates provided by the new tax law. Regardless whether one of these or other "revenue enhancing" measures finally become law, the distinction between capital gain and ordinary income will be an important feature of future tax law.

Capital gain income is not treated as earned income for purposes of self-employment tax. Thus, taxable income that results from capital gain qualifying sales is taxed at a rate more than 12 percent lower than if the income were classified as ordinary income. This provides some incentive for the producer to arrange production patterns so as to qualify more sales as capital gain qualifying sales.

Producers who maintain livestock breeding herds can qualify more sales for capital gain by increasing culling rates. If breeding animals are held long enough to meet the holding period requirement (2 years for cattle, 1 year for hogs), sale of the cull animal is treated as sale of a capital asset. Income received from these sales is not subject to self-employment tax. If the producer is careful in selecting replacement animals, he or she may be able to improve quality and productivity of the breeding herd at the same time tax savings occur due to increased culling rate.

Sales of timber can also produce capital gain income. The seller's decisions and actions determine how timber sales are treated; they may produce ordinary income or they may qualify as capital gain.

A farm operator who cuts and sells timber from owned land may treat the income as ordinary income when the sale is a minor part of the total farm business. In the typical case, there is a zero basis in the timber and all income, except cutting and selling expense, is taxed.

Income from the sale of timber can qualify as sale of a capital asset in either of two situations:

1. The timber is harvested by the owner and he or she elects to treat the cutting of the timber as a sale. Provided the timber was owned more than six months, the difference between fair market value of the timber and it's basis at the time of cutting is capital gain (or loss). The capital gain (or loss) is reported in the year the timber is harvested even if the cut timber is not sold that year. The fair market value of the timber when cut becomes the basis for computing grain or loss at the time the cut timber is finally sold. That final sale produces ordinary income or loss.

2. Timber disposed of under a cutting contract qualifies for capital gain if held more than six months prior to sale. This form of timber sale requires the owner to retain an economic interest during cutting, that is, the owner is paid a set amount per thousand board feet as the timber is harvested.

Using the Net Operating Loss to Reduce Income Tax

Economic conditions sometimes adversely affect farming with the result that individual farm businesses incur a loss. When this occurs, the business may have a net operating loss that can be used to recover tax paid in prior years or to reduce future tax payments. Unfortunately, some farm operators have not been aware of this provision of tax law. Consequently, they have paid more tax than required because they did not take advantage of the net operating loss provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.

A net operating loss (NOL) is an excess of allowable business deducations for a tax year over gross income for the same year. The NOL may be carried back three years to recover tax paid in an earlier year or, if not totally used in the carryback period, carried over up to fifteen years to reduce tax that would become due in a latter year. The NOL provides tax relief for nearly all types of taxpayers except partnerships. Individuals, corporations, estates, and trusts can all use the NOL in alleviating the tax obliation.

Partnerships are not allowed a NOL carryback or carryover. However, each member of the partnership may enter his or her share of partnership loss on the individual tax return. If the loss exceeds income for ayear, the loss can be carried back three years and forward fifteen years.

"S" corporations, like partnerships, also are not permitted a NOL carryback or carryover. If a loss occurs, it may be passed to the individual "S" corporation shareholders on a pro-rata basis just as with the partnership. There are special rules for determining the number of years to which a loss may be carried back or forward.

NOL carryback and carryover:

The NOL of an individual is first carried back to the third year preceding the year of loss and applied against income in that year. Tax is then recomputed for the earlier year and a claim for credit or refund is made for the amount of tax reduction. If the NOL is not fully used in the third year preceding the year of loss, the amount not used is carried to the second year and then to the first year preceding the year of loss. The NOL can also be used in the years following the year of loss and can offset income for up to fifteen years after the year of loss.

Two steps are essential in carryback of an NOL. The first of these is to convert the accounting loss to a net operating loss. The accounting loss is the amount of loss reflected in the record book at the end of the business year. The accounting loss is converted to a net operating loss by using a worksheet that is attached to the tax form used in filing the NOL. The worksheet is indentified as form 1045, schedule A.

The NOL is usually slightly smaller than the accounting loss reported by an individual. The reason for the difference is that certain deductions can be taken in determining the accounting loss that are not allowed when computing the NOL. These nondeductible items for purposes of the NOL include the personal exemption, NOL from other years, and some types of capital losses.

Step two in filing a NOL is to complete a form 1045, entitled "Applilcation for Tentative Refund." This form is used to report income and tax as originally filed and the corrected information due to carryback of the NOL. The amount of the tax refund is also computed on the form 1045. The completed form 1045 must be filed by December 31 of the year following the year when NOL occured. For example, an NOL in 1987 must be filed by December 31, 1988.

The NOL is a valuable tax management tool because it provides the taxpayer with a method of connecting a given tax year to earlier years and subsquent years. Losses from a given year can be applied against earlier tax payments or used to reduce taxable income in future years. In either case, total tax paid over a period of years can be reduced by application of the net operating loss. (Admittedly, it is preferable to never have a NOL but they sometimes occur, even with the best of management). The net operating loss provisions can be used to partly compensate for the loss of income averaging which was repealed December 31, 1986 as part of the Tax Reform Act of 1986.

his chickens on the open range or in a chicken yard. That was the most profitable and healthy way to raise good chickens and produce eggs. It is impossible to do it htat way now thanks to the hawks, owls, foxes and other predators that quickly kill off the chickens. The wildlife lovers, bird watchers, U.S. Wildlife Service and the Game Commission know this, but they don't give a hoot about it. They protect the hawks, owls and predators with heavy fines and penalties. And they have been told of these severe damages and said, "Don't you touch the owls or hawks or foxes."

A chicken yard has to be fenced in tight top and bottom so none of those predators can get in. If a chicken gets out, it is a goner to them. Hawks, owls and foxes ate up our chickens.

As of now there is hardly no game or pheasants where they were by the hundreds, thanks to the hawks, owls and foxes.

On "Wall Street crash day" I saw two hawks fighting in the sky and a half hour later I saw where one of them ate the other. Meat must be scarce! The hawks are killing our guineas as I saw it happen.

With all these harsh facts, that is why the chickens must be handled the way they are handled now. The predators prevent any other way and quickly eat up the profit. Coyotes eat up 15 to 25 percent of the lamb crop but those unconcerned yahoo pressure groups don't care. They don't elect our law makers, but they coerce and tamper with our law makers so that it is a mismanaged mess as of now. Those pressure groups have got to go and be abolished and the skies cleaned of these predators, likewise the foxes. They've done too much damage to the farmers and nation's bread basket. It must be decided—who shall eat, the people or the predators!

Editor,

The Schuylkill County Fair Association members would like to thank everyone who helped make the fair a reality and a success. The fair has come a long way because the people of Schuylkill County worked hard to see their dream become a reality.

The road ahead is a long one. The fair association is in the process of finalizing the deal for the purchase of about 70 acres of land known as Happy Holiday Park East of Summit Station. The cost for the land and the improvements already on the site will be over $200,000. Also, before the 1988 county fair can be held at this site, additional improvements will have to be made at an estimated cost of $100,000. Since the fair association does not own the present fair site near the Schuylkill Campus, the site cannot be sold to help pay for a new fairgrounds. Therefore, the fair association needs the help of all Schuylkill Countians to show their support once again.

If you think back to the '87 fair, a number of market animals were purchased by area businesses. These 4-H and FFA animals were donated back to the fair. The market animals were then slaughtered, packaged and frozen. This meat is one part of a major fundraising effort to aid in purchasing a new fairground site. To participate in this fundraising effort, all you have to do is send a $5 check payable to the "Schuylkill County Fair Association" and then mail your contribution to the fair association at PO Box 445, Schuylkill Haven. You may be eligible to receive some of this meat for your freezer and at the same time you'll be helping to make the '88 fair the best yet. To insure your eligibility, mail your contribution before November 10th.

Thanks again to everyone for your support!

UDIA Meeting Focuses On Promotional Progress

COLUMBUS, Oh. — "Progress for Tomorrow" was the theme of the 17th annual meeting of the United Dairy Industry Association, held September 8-9 at the Marriott O'Hare Hotel, Chicago.

During the two-day event, UDIA's House of Delegates reviewed and conditionally approved 1988 program plans and budgets for UDIA operating areas.

In addition, UDIA delegates approved a recommendation to support National Milk Producers Federation's changes to the Dairy Promotion Order. The amendments, filed with Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng in May, call for the creation of one dairy promotion organization with one chairman, one Board of Directors and one staff.

UDIA Leaders Speak Out

UDIA Chief Executive Officer Edward A. Peterson and Chairman J. Douglas Webb urged the delegates to have faith in a brighter future for dairy promotion. Both men expressed their firm beliefs that a merger of dairy promotion organizations will occur and will benefit the dairy farmer.

Edward Peterson reinforced Webb's message, citing the implications of 18 months of effort to create a unified dairy promotion program organization structure.

"Our main concern is that the new organization be directly accountable to those that fund the promotional efforts — the American dairy farmer," Peterson said.

Guest Speakers Talk Promotion

Delegates heard about the importance of promotion from three guest speakers — Jo Ann Smith, chairman, Cattleman's Beef Promotion and Research Board; William D. Smithburg, chairman and chief executive officer of the Quaker Oats Co.; and C. Wayne Callaway, M.D., director of the Center for Clinical Nutrition at the George Washington University Medical Center.

Jo Ann Smith reminded of a potential problem common to all promotion organizations, "we have a tendency to produce what we want, instead of what the consumer wants." She warned that all promotion groups should be sensitive to that problem.

Smith also expressed a firm belief in the positive results of promotion. In response to those in government who claim that commodity groups should not advertise, she replied, "If promotion doesn't work, why do Ford, Chrysler and General Motors spend so much to advertise basically the same commodity?"

William D. Smithburg, who has risen quickly through the ranks of Quaker, elaborated on his three-step formula for marketing success: effective market research; innovative products and aggressive, well-directed marketing strategies.

C. Wayne Callaway praised the dairy industry for taking an active role to support studies that try to put broad-based health guidelines into the proper perspective for individuals. He said that there appears to be a current fad using "food fortification as a marketing gimmick," and urged dairy farmers to continue promoting the health aspects of milk and dairy products.

UDIA conducts a total promotion program to increase sales of U.S.-produced milk and other real dairy foods. UDIA and its member organizations, including Mid East UDIA, and affiliated Dairy Council Units invest $110 million annually in a unified promotion program.

Mid East UDIA is the advertising and promotion arm for dairy farmers in Ohio, western Pennsylvania, parts of Kentucky, West Virginia and areas of adjacent states.

Northeast Milk Handlers Agree To RCMA Premium

BATAVIA, N.Y.— Most if not all of the major fluid milk handlers in the Northeast have now agreed to pay the premium charged by the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency (RCMA). These agreements between the milk handlers and RCMA are the culmination of many months of negotiations between the milk handlers in New York and New Jersey and the RCMA cooperative during a time of tight milk supplies.

According to Ed Anna, RCMA's Executive Director, "The Northeast dairy farmers stuck together and convinced the handlers that it was in their best interests to pay the RCMA premium and help stabilize the regional dairy industry."

Anna went on to note that though all of the fluid handlers have agreed to pay the premium, they were not necessarily happy to do so and did not sound enthusiastic about RCMA's long-term success. They have been trying to break RCMA during the past months by offering premiums and incentive plans of their own. However, once they saw that the dairymen were going to stand united they decided that it was in their best interests to cooperate by paying the dairymen a fair price for their product.

"There are still many small pockets of dairymen throughout the Northeast who have not signed RCMA contracts," says Anna. "Thus we are conducting a major RCMA membership drive effective immediately in New York and Pennsylvania to try and sign these and other dairymen to contracts to strengthen RCMA. Perhaps now they will realize the benefits of working together with their fellow dairymen for higher prices."

RCMA is a cooperative established by dairy cooperatives and non-affiliated dairymen for the purpose of allowing the dairy farmers themselves to establish a fair price for the milk they work so hard to produce 365 days a year. Milk supplies are at an all-time low in the region due to the Federal government's whole-herd buyout program and the recent financial hardship on the farms caused by declining prices.

"Now that we have agreements with the handlers we can set a timetable for distributing the premiums among the RCMA members," says Anna. "Everything is now contingent upon RCMA receiving the data from the handlers concerning how many pounds of RCMA milk they are receiving. Then we can send out the bills, collect the premium, and distribute it among RCMA members."

RCMA's Executive Director stressed that if RCMA receives all the data by October 19th as planned, RCMA premium checks should be sent to producers by early to mid-November.

"As RCMA matures we will be able to improve on both the timeliness and size of the payments to members," says Anna. "The Class I differential should increase in coming months and the RCMA premium paid its members will increase as well."

MD Sheep Breeders Flock To Banquet

BY SHARON B. SCHUSTER
Maryland Correspondent

MARYLAND — Approximately 125 Maryland sheep breeders flocked to the 31st annual banquet meeting in Mt. Airy last Saturday evening. After a meal of roast leg of lamb prepared by president, Bill Christoffel, the members elected officers for the coming year.

Bill Christoffel will serve another term as president of the Maryland Sheep Breeders' Association. Elected as vice president was Larry Fisher. Martin Hamilton will serve as treasurer, and Peggy Howell, secretary. Directors for the Association are Martha Berger, Tyson Cramer, John Fleishell, Nancy Greene, Chris Cochran and Cindy Soth.

The Coveted Shepherd of the Year award was given to Harvey and Edith Miller, center. Duane Miller, right, who was the 1986 recipient, holds the plaque he is presenting to the Millers. Couple in the foreground are unidentified club members.

Christoffel said that the strength of the organization "is the tremendous amount of willingness to share. Whenever you want something done, you can call someone and they'll do it and do it well." He further congratulated the Maryland Lamb and Wool Queen, Susan Morris, who represented the association at fairs and promotional events around the state. Mary Streaker was recognized for her untiring commitment to organizing the annual Sheep and Wool Festival.

The members anxiously awaited the award of Shepherd of the Year, presented by the 1986 recipient, Duane Miller. Since this award was first started, the association has recognized twenty individuals for their contribution to the sheep industry. Harvey and Edith Miller of Damascus, Maryland, were awarded the crook and a plaque declaring them to be "Shepherds of the Year" for 1987. The Millers raise Shropshires on their Damascus farm.

Featured speaker of the evening was Nancy Ann Sayre. Sayre spent a year working at Halden Sheep Station in New Zealand where the Booroola Merino sheep was developed. These sheep carry a dominant fertility gene for multiple births. The gene can be introduced to other breeds without changing the characteristic of the breed.

Nancy Sayre, featured speaker, told sheep breeders about her studies at a New Zealand sheep station where Booroola Merino ewes are known for multiple births of five or six lambs.

Photographs taken at Halden Station revealed a rugged but beautiful country with steep hills and picturesque coastlines. "In the shadow of every mountain are sheep, sheep, and more sheep," said Sayre. In a country where there are 10 million cattle, 70 million sheep and only 3 million people, Sayre said the focal point of the country's industry and research is in the sheep industry and the technology that accompanies it.

There are 90,000 sheep on the Halden Station. With ewes and lambs scattered over thousands of acres, and the nearest town 40 miles away, Sayre said "airplanes are a way of life there."

Halden Station is home to the Booroola Merino. Ewes were seen with as many as five and six lambs at their sides. "That's not a realistic goal," said Sayre. "We want to see ewes running with two lambs instead of one." Now that the Booroola Merino semen is available here in the U.S., Sayre said "the potential is here."

The Booroola Merino was first discovered in Australia in the early 1920's. The breed was sent to New Zealand for study and development where it now thrives and represents a promising breakthrough in the sheep industry of the world. The Booroola Merino is the only sheep in the world that has the ability to pass on one gene which increases fertility, to its progeny, without changing carcass weight, quality of wool or other characteristics of another breed.

Dairymen Facing Federal Budget And Support Price Cuts

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG — Milk production nationwide has dropped nearly 12 billion pounds and government purchases are close to 5 billion pounds, the trigger level on which a legislated price support cut on January 1, 1988 will hinge.

But, says Fred Butler, president of the Middle Atlantic Division of Dairymen, Inc., production is already climbing in some dairy-intensive states, with October production in California up an estimated 12 percent.

Butler reviewed the rapidly-changing dairy production picture during his president's report to nearly 300 members and guests attending the division's annual meeting, held Octqber 23 at the Gettysburg Sheraton Inn.

"Projections are, today, that we will most likely get a cut on January 1, which is supposed to be 50 cents," Butler noted. "In my opinion, the 5 billion pound figure is so close that we could get a 25-cent cut in the support price on January 1 and again on July 1, if overall production starts to climb."

In addition, agriculture is facing $1.3 billion in proposed budget cuts under the mandated federal deficit reduction of the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings legislation. Dairy producers could face a 4 to 6-cent per hundredweight assessment to fund their share of that mandated budget cut.

Still, producers have recently seen more positive prices, with Dairymen's Middle Atlantic members receiving as much as ten cents per hundredweight over the Federal Order 4 announced price during the past five months.

Some $7 million of equity will be revolved to the 6400 members of Dairymen on December 1, Butler added, even while the Louisville-based cooperative's five-year equity revolving program has been extended by board action to a six-year plan, to maintain desired equity levels.

Some Middle Atlantic division members have added as much as an additional 60 cents per hundred to their price, through Dairymen's Fall Incentive Plan, according to division manager John Collins. An average per hundredweight increase, through the incentive to produce milk when it is most needed, has been 7 cents. Dairymen's board has voted to extend the Fall Incentive program through at least 1988.

Collins lauded dairy producers in the Federal Order 4 area for efforts which earned members of the Middle Atlantic Cooperative Milk Market Association (MACMMA) an over-order premium of 21 cents per hundredweight for September production.

Appreciation was extended to members for high quality milk supplies being produced in the Middle Atlantic division, and to employees whose efforts have resulted in profitable supply and equipment operations.

Addressing Dairymen's regional and corporate picture were regional manager John Reynolds and chief operating officer Jim McDowell.

Reynolds also cited changing market conditions in the industry as being, "as out of control as the weather is." Assessments, diversions, falling support prices, and the Federal Land Bank's financial problems are all changes which have played havoc with milk price stability, dairy producer income, and dropping production volumes.

McDowell reviewed dairy-related legislative proposals under consideration by Congress and the trade and budget deficiencies burdening the nation's economy.

While milk production shows some indications of an upward trend, the Dairymen operation's officer isn't predicting a production explosion. Present favorable feed costs may only be short term, and producers are using improved income levels to pay down debt, rather than invest in new equipment, cattle and facilities.

McDowell also briefed members on Dairymen's signing of a letter of intent to joint venture the Flav-O-Rich subsidiary's fluid processing facilities with those of the Borden company.

"We must meet the economic needs of the members if a cooperative is to stay in business," said McDowell. "The alignments with other companies, the diversification with other businesses, must happen for long-term returns, while still maintaining farmer control."

During the business session, members ratified the election of six directors to the division board. Renominated and ratified for three-year terms were, Marlin E. Martin, District 12; Jesse I. Burall, District 4; Paul R. Waybright, District 13; Joyce A. Bupp, District 7; Harry W. Hummel, District 11; and Albert H. Mellinger, District 14.

Component Pricing

Under this system, more money is going toward the non-solids in milk. This compensates high-volume herds, but fails to recognize high-solids herds such as Jerseys and Guernseys.

These farmers, recognizing that the solids in their herd's milk is marketable, are pushing for a change to component pricing based on the amount of protein in a herd's milk.

Jersey and Guernsey breeders argue that most of the milk produced today goes into manufactured dairy products such as cheese, yogurt, and ice cream and that fluid whole milk consumption is down. Milk that has a high-protein, high-fat content yields more cheese. Therefore, since it is more efficient for cheese producers to have the high-solids milk, Jersey and Guernsey breeders feel they should be rewarded for producing it.

Component pricing not new

Component pricing isn't a new idea. Paying for milk on fat and solids-not-fat has been going on since the 1940s. Currently Europe pays for milk on this basis as does California and certain areas in the Midwest.

It has not been popular in the northeast for several reasons. First, most of the dairy herds in the region consist of Holsteins, which are long on volume but rather low on solids. "The current butterfat pricing system benefits Holstein breeders," commented Glenn Shirk, Penn State extension dairy specialist. "For decades the pricing structure for milk has been more attractive for non-solids, which is what Holsteins have been bred for. Holstein breeders resist the component pricing system, which they don't see as profitable for them."

Component pricing hasn't caught on yet with most cheese manufacturers who for some reason haven't recognized the value of high-solids milk. "Cheese manufacturers just aren't aware that more protein yields more cheese. This is partly because they aren't set up to segregate the milk and run comparisons," said John I. Collins Jr., district manager for Dairymen Inc., Middle Atlantic Division, a milk cooperative in Sykesville, Md. "We have to increase their awareness and convince them that high-solids milk is more efficient for their uses."

Because Jersey and Guernsey breeders are scattered, it is costly to gather a load. This cost factor has kept many co-ops from being willing to work with high-solids milk producers in gathering a load of high-solids milk.

The roadblocks for component pricing are falling away as more and more farmers are negotiating special bonus plans with cooperatives. Some of the current programs, according to Dr. Jack Kirkland, extension dairy specialist for Adams County, include:

•Dairymen Inc. is paying a group of southern Lancaster County farmers 12 cents for every point of protein above the standard 3.2 percent, a bonus that is tied to the somatic cell count (SCC).

•Dairylea Inc. has a protein payment program where producers are paid 13 cents per point for milk with a protein percentage over 3.3 percent and with a SCC of less than 350,000 and no antibiotic contamination.

•Leprino-Eastern is giving all producers a premium plus giving 10 cents per point of protein greater than 3.3 percent. The base protein percentage moves higher as the SCC increases and no protein premium will be paid for milk with a SCC higher than 750,000.

•Empire Cheese Inc. has a protein payment plan that is determined on a quarterly basis. The protein percentage is established each quarter and currently is 7 cents per point for milk over the base if the milk meets their quality standards.

•Sunnydale Farms of Brooklyn, N.Y., is paying a 30-cent per hundredweight premium as well as paying a protein premium. Their plan pays 10 cents per point of protein over 3.2 percent.

•Winfield Cheese Cooperative and Farmers Cheese Inc. use end-product pricing to pay producers for their milk. The formula takes into account the SCC, casein content (protein), and butterfat content and pays farmers on that basis. The prices paid also depend on the wholesale price of cheese and cream. With the end-product pricing, the higher the solids level in the milk, the higher the price to producers. The proportion of cheese products is directly related to the level of solids in the milk, the higher the solids, the greater the output of cheese.

Many dairymen believe component pricing is an idea whose time has almost arrived for the northeast. "I believe that component pricing eventually will become the pricing system," said Shirk. "There tends to be a movement in the marketplace in trying to price most commodities on their true value in relationship to the desires of the public."

Shirk feels that component pricing will be adopted slowly because currently more producers stand to loose. "But in the long run," he added. "The ones that gain will have a higher gain than the loss experienced by the majority of those that loose." This monetary gain will influence farmers to shift emphasis from volume to solids.

Or, as Dr. Truman F. Graf, agricultural economics specialist from the University of Wisconsin-Madison said, "Consumers are putting more emphasis on the nonfat solids portion of milk. If the dairy industry hopes to maximize per capita sales of dairy products, it must recognize and react to the increased consumer demand for nonfat solids. With the nonfat values included in pricing, individual farmers would benefit by getting paid for extra nonfat solids, and thus encouraged to produce more nonfat relative to fat and thereby improve their marketing situation."

Winners Of Maryland 1987 National Soil And Water Award

ANNAPOLIS, MD — Governor William Donald Schaefer has congratulated Montgomery County farmer Howard H. Williams and his wife, Christina, who are Maryland's winners and one of ten national finalists for the 1987 National Soil and Water Conservation Award presented by the National Endowment for Soil and Water Conservation and funded by the DuPont Company.

Williams, who farms 700 acres near Boyds, Maryland, was recognized for integrating sound, innovative, and cost-effective conservation techniques into his farm management program. Working with his wife Christina, Williams has incorporated best management practices such as conservation tillage, contour stripping, crop rotation, construction of grass waterways and diversions, sediment control ponds, and use of integrated pest management into their farm management plan. Williams was one of the first farmers in Maryland to participate in the Maryland Agricultural Cost-Share Program, and is anxious that the public gain a greater appreciation of the efforts of farmers in preserving the environment.

In a letter to the Williamses, Governor Schaefer stressed the importance of public recognition of all of Maryland farmers who make conservation a priority in their day-to-day operations, and who have collectively placed over two hundred thousand acres under conservation plans since 1980.

"Agriculture is one of Maryland's most important industries," said Governor Schaefer, "and conservation is an investment which pays dividends in a healthy agricultural economy. Maryland is often thought of as an urban state," the Governor continued, "but here is a farmer who keeps farming right in the shadow of Washington, D.C. We are proud of Maryland farmers like Howard Williams and his family, and I want people to know that both conservation and agriculture are alive and well in Maryland."

The Williamses are among ten national finalists chosen from the state winners, from which three national winners will be selected. Each winner will receive a $1,000 cash award.

The purpose of the Endowment is to form a partnership between the public and private sectors to conserve our agricultural resource base.

Urash Retires From Erie Co. Extension

UNIVERSITY PARK — William Urash, senior extension agent and county extension director for Erie County, has retired from Penn State's Cooperative Extension Service after 36 years.

He joined extension after graduating from Penn State with his B.S. in dairy science in 1951. His first position was as assistant extension agent in Union and Snyder counties. He moved to Erie County in 1954, and since 1956 has served as county extension director.

William Urash

Urash's main responsibilities involved staff support and development in agriculture, youth and family living. "I've found the most satisfaction over the years in staff development," he says. "We've had some fine people come through Erie County, and a number of them are still here. It's been rewarding to see these people develop in extension and in other careers."

Urash says he has seen new technologies develop in extension during his career. "Technology has changed our programs in agriculture and family living as well as youth work. Young people are still young people, but our programs and methods in reaching them have changed. I think these changes are positive -- they're helping to carry out extension's mission."

He and his wife, Lucille, have three children. Stephen, a graduate of Penn State Erie, The Behrend College, is a sales manager for Prudential Insurance Company in Erie. Cathy, who also lives in the Erie area, is married and has three children. Jill, a graduate of Edinboro University, lives in Washington, D.C.

Urash is enjoying the relaxed pace of retirement, although "the weeks still aren't long enough."

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

— The colder weather is ending the season for the more tender crops but new production in more distant Southern and Western areas have sprung up and it is surprising how many good buys in fresh fruits and vegetables are available this week.

Among fresh fruits, apples are an outstanding good buy with prices the lowest in several years. Fairly good buys are avocados, limes, grapefruit, white seedless grapes, pears and for something different and unusual — persimmons. Also cranberries.

— The effect of lack of moisture on high corn population was illustrated graphically in the results of hybrid corn test conducted Tuesday on the farm of J. Wade Groff, R7 Lancaster.

Yields of corn in the plot planted to 18,000 stalks an acre were only eight-tenths of a bushel higher than the yields in the population of 14,000 stalks an acre.

— Having won honors with exhibits at past Pennsylvania Farm Shows, 11 Pennsylvania breeders of registered beef cattle are in line for attainment of national laurels next month.

— A new plant quarantine inspection station has been opened at the New York International Airport at Idlewild for the convenience of business firms and persons authorized to import plants and plant propagating material, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced.

Antique Tractor Club Hold Banquet

KEMPTON (Berks Co.) — You probably could call this antique engine tractor and toy club the fastest-growing farm organization in the world. Only organized last year, the club already has 313 members, and about 200 of them were out at the annual dinner social last Saturday evening at the Kempton Fire Hall. Everyone seemed to be having a wonderful time.

David Semmel, secretary-treasurer, and Sterling Zimmerman, chairman of the board, were honored as charter members, and Emma Burkhart, 86 years young, received the table bouquet as the oldest member present.

Four farm equipment dealers who happen to be members of the club were honored for long-time service to the community: Norman Flicker (Massey Ferguson), Kermit Kistler (John Deere), Charles Snyder (Ford New Holland) and Russel Angstadt (John Deere).

According to Mel Riehl, president, these dealers have served agriculture a combined total of 138 years. Some have the third and fourth generation now in the business. And in earlier times, they recall that farmers traded in horses and cows for tractors.

The Lehigh River Chorus, a barbershop group, presented the entertainment. To provide funds for the organization, model tractors were auctioned off to the highest bidder. The donated models brought $35, $42.50, $35 and $40 respectively.

Farm Credit

will have four directors.

Chester County dairy farmer William Moore has held the appointed position since 1982. He declined the opportunity to run for election, and after a lengthy nomination process, two candidates emerged for voter scrutiny and decision. Although both are leaders in their respective industries, there is a marked contrast in their cooperative and Farm Credit leadership.

One is 49-year-old York County dairy farmer Ralph McGregor. He is an involved cooperative member-owner, serving for six years as a director of the York Farm Credit Association; he is also past chairman. He also markets his milk cooperatively through Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and served as a district president in that organization.

Moreover, McGregor is a member of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Cooperative Director School Advisory Committee and is a graduate of the annual leadership school. He is also a member of the PFA Legal Defense Fund and vice president of the Dover Area School Board. Active in his community, McGregor is a member of the Washington Township Planning Commission and is active in the Lutheran Church.

He is opposed by a poultry processor/operator from Harrisonburg, Virginia, R.H. "Twig" Strickler. Strickler, a 59-year-old poultryman, retired in 1985 as chief executive officer of Rocco Enterprises, Inc; he currently serves as chairman of the board. Rocco is a vertically integrated turkey and chicken operation with 350 farmers.

Strickler also owns Dogwood Hill Farms, a poultry and sheep operation.

He is currently vice president of the Rockingham Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees, board chairman of Blue Cross of Virginia and a member of the Methodist Church. In the 1960s and 1970s, Strickler was active in the Virginia State Poultry Federation and the Virginia Agribusiness Council, serving as president of each.

The Baltimore Farm Credit District encompasses Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and Puerto Rico. There are approximately 52,000 farmer owners in this system; about one-third of those owners are from Pennsylvania. The System has nearly $2.4 billion in PCA and FLBA loans. Again, approximately one-third of that loan volume originates in the Commonwealth.

Ballots for the at-large seat were mailed the first week in October and must be received by the Farm Credit Administration by December 4. If you have not done so, find that ballot and vote. Biographical information on each candidate is available in your local Farm Credit office; information for this article was taken from those data sheets as well as a mailing Strickler made to Farm Credit borrowers.

System stockholders have a unique opportunity to exercise local control with the advent of this general election.

Editor:

The loss of farmland in Pennsylvania is reaching a critical level. Each year, thousands of acres of prime agricultural land are lost in our state as farms are converted to other uses.

Some people do not realize the impact of this situation. Less acreage available for agricultural production would be a detriment to a state whose number one industry is agriculture and agri-business. In fact, one out of every five workers in this state is employed by the agricultural industry — an enormous contribution to our economic vitality.

On November 3, the voters of the Commonwealth will be asked to decide whether the state should issue a $100 million bond to support a program targeted at conserving prime agricultural areas. If the bond referendum is approved by the voters, the $100 million in funds would be allocated to counties to use toward the purchase of development rights on prime farmland.

Farmers in designated farming areas who wish to participate in the program would be offered the monetary difference between the market price of the land if sold for farming and the price if it were sold for development. In return, the farmer would hand over only the development rights to the land for 25 years or perpetuity. The farm owner would retain all legal ownership to the land and would be free to sell the land at any time. However, the new owner would be bound by the development restriction held by the county. It should be emphasized that this would be a voluntary program and that no land owner would be forced to participate.

The need for this program is clear if we are to protect and preserve the scenic and productive qualities of Pennsylvania's rural landscape. For nearly 20 years, the state has been genuinely interested in saving farmland. In 1969, Governor Raymond Shafer appointed a committee to come up with recommendations for conservation of agricultural areas and every governor and General Assembly since the completion of that study has worked on developing a farmland conservation program. In 1981, the General Assembly passed the Agricultural Area Security Act (Act 43) which provided for a farmland conservation program, but funding to implement the program was not included. This referendum is intended to provide that funding.

As a major supporter of ag-land preservation, I encourage all Pennsylvanians, not just farmers and rural residents, to support the referendum on the November ballot. I am hopeful that the citizens of this Commonwealth will realize that only by protecting our rich and fertile lands can we hope to preserve the beauty and bounty of Pennsylvania agriculture.

Noah Wenger
PA State Senator

Editor:

On November 3, Pennsylvania voters will be asked to approve a program to finance the purchase of development rights of farmland. Agricultural conservation easements would be purchased for 25 years or in perpetuity on large tracts of mainly Class I and II prime farmland.

I urge everyone to vote for this program because urbanization is rapidly and permanently destroying prime farmland (a proportionally small area of land) when building homes and businesses elsewhere is economically feasible. Since 1960, Pennsylvania has lost almost half its farms and the current annual loss is 90,000 acres of all types of farmland. Also, urbanization destroys four square miles of prime farmland and eight square miles of other types of land in the United States every day. Agricultural zoning on marginal and prime farmland hasn't been adequate at controlling the loss.

Voting for this program will help to keep food prices down. Currently, two-thirds of Pennsylvania's food is from out of state. When farmland disappears, increased trucking raises food prices and food quality suffers. Prime farmland costs the least to farm, produces food at the lowest cost and this reflects in lower food prices for consumers.

Another benefit of this program is the preservation of Pennsylvania's number one industry—agriculture/agribusiness which employs 20 percent of Pennsylvania's workforce. Also, farmers will feel more secure, and they would improve their land and buildings for themselves and future farmers.

Other benefits are the preservation of wildlife habitat, open space and the visual appeal of picturesque farmland.

Twelve other states, including New York, New Jersey and Maryland, have farmland preservation programs. Pennsylvania's program would cost less than $10 per resident and would include all the benefits listed here and more. Please vote for farmland preservation at the November 3 election.

Editor:

To date I have read many articles concerning the "farmland referendum." Everyone from Extension Service officials, to conservation district officials, to voters leagues, to farm organizations, to associations of boroughs, commissioners, township supervisors, chamber of business and industry and so on are supporting the referendum.

I have read many times how important we are as farmers that my head is starting to swell! But I wonder why I have to keep working harder and longer! Everyone says we must save our farmland (and I agree), so we don't have to ship food because of the cost it would involve and, of course, so we have fresh food. All of the above mentioned groups don't want the consumer to have to pay higher prices for food, but the farmer shall work harder and sell cheaper. Did you read what's going to happen to milk in the next three years? "I feel important."

I think the farmer ought to receive higher prices for his products so he can be competitive with businesses and developers or whoever thinks he needs to buy our farms. We're important according to all these informative articles, but let's not give the farmer more money for his products. It will cost too much at the supermarket.

Richard Barczewski of University of Delaware says times have been bad for the farmer and things don't look good for the next several years. No, we don't need a $100 million bond, but we need prices for our goods so we can be competitive!

We just came through with RCMA. I thought the farmers were trying to help themselves and keep the government out, somewhat at least. Now we are hit with this on our ballot. Sounds like a case of "the government has regulated my farm business so badly that I am not sure just who does own it. I have been suspected, inspected, examined and re-examined, informed, reformed and misinformed."

"But I still pay the taxes!"

What happens to the farms taken by immanent domain? I have been reading too much of it lately. It must be stopped! Seems like these two things are fighting against each other.

When Representative Samuel Morris introduced the farmland preservation bill he also introduced HB 440. This is the one I have been wanting to see take priority and be publicized and put on the ballot. This would change the total tax structure. My representative tells me this is one of hundreds that have been introduced in the last 10 or 15 years. He says HB 440 probably will not come up for a vote, but the subject of the bill probably will be considered seriously either this year or next. I hope all you groups mentioned in the first paragraph and others get in the act and write many articles concerning this like you do the farmland referendum.

I read several times one in every five jobs in Pennsylvania is ag related. I think there are too many ag-related jobs already and the farmer pays for this in everything he buys, but the farmer shall sell cheap. Won't this referendum, if it passes, create more ag-related jobs. Guess I'll have to work harder and longer to help pay the eight-hour guy.

Yes, there are many good reasons for preserving farmland, but keep government out and let us be competitive with every other business or developer.

As the saying goes, "If someone wants something bad enough (a new car, TV, boat), he will get the money for it.

If someone wants food bad enough they will get the money for it also.

An old man (dead many years) once said, "Half the people in this world are here to devil the other half." He should be living now!

Hilda M. Blatt

P.S. I think I will run out and enroll in a real estate class!

A vote "YES" on Nov. 3 for approval of a referendum to raise funds to support "Pennsylvania Farmland Preservation" will be a move in the right direction.

Lancaster County, especially, needs to maintain a good balance of farming and industry to continue the present healthy economy.

Many a farmer, and his family, needs to be encouraged and helped in numerous ways to continue farming and preserve the farm for future generations. The AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION EASEMENT PROGRAM provides help to that end. Eastern Pennsylvania is famous for its high producing fertile soil, neat farm buildings and scenic beauty. The area as a whole cannot afford to lose these assets.

Let us back up Senator Noah Wenger who sponsored the bill and most of our elected officials favoring approval of the referendum such as: Gov. Casey, Lt. Gov. Singel, Sec. of Agri. Wolfe, Lancaster County Commissioners and many numerous organizations as well. Our VOTE also is needed. Let us give "PENNSYLVANIA AGRICULTURAL LAND PRESERVATION" a good send off on Nov. 3 with a "YES" VOTE.

The Lancaster County Poultry Association's annual banquet mixed pleasure with business on Thursday night. New board members were elected. Milton Landis, right, and Jay Irwin, left, welcome new board members Roger Garber and J. Doug Wolgemuth.

Good Grief! What is Charlie Brown and his gang doing in the pumpkin patch? Whatever the reason, Whitney Rossi of Lititz found it great fun to join them in the patch at Stauffers of Kissel Hill, Lititz. The store sold almost 90 tons of pumpkins grown by Lancaster County farmers.

Lebanon County Holstein Banquet Held

SCHAEFFERSTOWN — More than 150 members of the Lebanon County Holstein Club gathered at the fire hall here Thursday evening for their annual banquet.

Dr. Larry Specht, dairy science extension specialist from Penn State, was the meeting's featured speaker. He discussed the history of the diary industry in America with a special emphasis on Holsteins.

Awards were given to the Junior Holstein Club members who placed first, second, and third in the club's milk and fat contest.

Rebecca Sonnen, the State Dairy Princess, who is from Lebanon County, attended the banquet as did Angie Bollinger, the Lebanon County Dairy Princess. Rebecca entertained attendees with her account of the state dairy princess competition.

Attend Homemakers Holiday Meeting

KENNET SQUARE — The Chester County Cooperative Extension Service will hold their Homemakers Holiday Meeting on Wednesday, November 11, 1987 at the Masonic Hall, Center & Cypress Streets, Kennett Square from 9:30 A.M. until 2:15 P.M.

The program will feature Dr. Nancy Churchman Sawin, illustrator, author, educator, and entertainment by a local vocal group. The Make and Take will be a Victorian ornament filled with potpourri. A registration fee will include lunch.

Pre-registration is necessary by Friday, Nov. 6. For information contact the Extension Office at 696-3500.

Windswept Stables Pamper Horses And Riders

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent

COLUMBIA — Interest in horseback riding is increasing, and Jack and Jane Siegrist intend to make it easier for people to indulge that interest by providing "complete boarding service" and quality riding lessons" at their Windswept Stables.

Jack and Jane built their new facility, located about a mile west of Columbia on Norwood Road, in 1985 to hold 28 horses. Today, all stalls are filled. For them it is a realization of a dream.

Jack says, "It was really something we wanted to do and there seemed to be a market for it. It was a little scary at first because we didn't know how it would go." Jack explained that he had horses "off and on all my life. I always liked horses." They had purchased the 17 acres where they built their facilities on a farm next to the one where Jack was born and raised.

A big drawing card for their business is the newly completed indoor riding arena. This indoor facility, measuring 70 by 140, will feature a glassed in, heated observation room for parents to wait and watch while their offspring have lessons. It offers riders good protection from the weather, and the "footing" never freezes, so riders can work year 'round.

Jack has purchased a hammermill to make the arena's footing from special shredded bark mulch. This do-it-yourself project offers big financial savings for him.

The barn itself is a sharp contrast to what one expects in barns. Built on a hill, skylights make it bright, and special venting makes it very comfortable. The barn is also remarkably clean, and the Siegrists note proudly that they clean the stables daily. Jack comments, "I designed and built it, and came up with my own ideas." Each stall measures 10 by 12-feet and is constructed of solid oak, and each stall has its own 2 by 10-foot window.

The barn's lofty location contributed to the "Windswept" name, and Jane says, "It's very windy, and even in the summer it is nice. There is always a breeze." Jack agrees, "It is even cool in 100-degree weather."

Jack says that since light has a lot to do with the attitude of a horse, the skylights help a lot. The Siegrists say they quickly learn the personalities of their charges and often house the horses according to their personalities. He said, "We often know the horses better than their owners. We spoil them."

Jane adds, "We're with them more. They are all out pets."

It is their personal interest and enthusiasm that they feel gives them an advantage over other boarding stables. Jack says, "We feed them twice a day, and turn the horses out in the paddock daily. All the facilities here are available to the boarders."

In addition to the new indoor arena, the facilities include a 100 by 200-foot outdoor arena. There is also a comfortable, heated lounge where owners can spend time if they need to be on hand for an ill horse. They have access to the refrigerator, and there is cable television to help pass the time. The Siegrists have a large, clean tack room for owners to leave their riding equipment.

Animal health is an important consideration in a facility like the Siegrists, and Jack says, "We keep a strict schedule as far as the veterinarian." The shots and innoculations are all programmed, and a veterinarian visits at two-month intervals. They have a "barn vet," although owners may make their own request.

Jane states, "You really have to be careful."

Jack agrees, "We are very cautious and very demanding. We learned as we went, and we are still learning. This has been a new experience."

They also have two farriers who visit their stables on a regular schedule, about every two weeks.

Another feature the Siegrists hope to introduce is a series of clinics to help people learn more about horses. Jack says, "We are really trying to push horsemanship in Lancaster County. We hope to offer weekly clinics with information on how to buy a horse. The program will incorporate veterinarians, farriers and videos. We want it to be a real learning program. We hope to offer something for everybody. People can learn the proper ways to purchase and care for a horse.

Jack makes it very clear that he feels people need education before they buy a horse, since it can be very expensive. "Buying a horse can be very touchy. You can get a lemon, and 75 percent of the people get the wrong horse. A friendly horse can be terrible to ride. You must consider age, disposition and experience. It is just like a car. You should have a veterinarian check it out before buying. There is no perfect horse. If you don't know anything about horses, you should have someone who is qualified, like an instructor, help you make the decision."

Siegrist highly recommends that someone who is interested in buying a horse take lessons first. "It is the smart thing to do and that helps them learn what kind of horse they want and what they want to do with a horse."

Siegrist feels that riding is making a comeback, and he points out that it is an activity the whole family can enjoy. "It is a good clean sport or hobby." Jane adds, "Riding gives kids responsibility and keeps them busy."

The owners of Windswept feel strongly about making horsemanship fun for the whole family. To promote that feeling they sponsor monthly picnics in the summer for their boarders- owners. "They all get along well and enjoy the cookouts," Jack says. Horse owners come from a wide area, including Hershey, York, Lititz, Mountville, Millersville and Lancaster. Jack classifies most of the boarders as "pleasure riders," and Jane comments that most ride English.

There are often organized trail rides, and Siegrist says they can ride for about three hours. They check first with property owners to get permission for the trial rides.

Saying that good instructors are hard to come by, Siegrist is proud to have two instructors available for his boarders and the community. Vicki Guertin, Mountville, worked fulltime for a year and a half, and now is working on weekends there. Guertin offers 26 years of riding experience, and since 1981 has become involved fulltime with showing in dressage, training and teaching. She is a graduate of Penn State University in animal science. In addition to having students winning on the show circuit, Guertin says she has students who just ride for their own enjoyment.

Lori Wolgemuth is the "newest member of the team," according to Siegrist, and she brings 10 years of riding experience. Lori and her husband Steve manage Graemont Farm, a breeding farm, and compete in dressage.

Lori explains that although a person can master basic riding techniques in 5-10 lessons, "It takes years and years to develop into accomplished riders." Lessons are usually taken on a weekly basis, and Wolgemuth says she will teach any age. She notes that she likes to teach children for one-half-hour, adding, "I like them to have fun and feel comfortable."

Steve says that dressage is very fast growing and calls it the "ballet of horsemanship" and the "gymnastics of riding." The word dressage means "to train," and Steve says the concept is several thousand years old, which developed when a country's defense depended upon its cavalry. Dressage is now an Olympic sport, and its purpose is to work on harmony and obedience between rider and horse. "It makes a horse look more beautiful."

Lori stresses, "Dressage principles begin the first time you sit on a horse." Jack calls it "an advanced form of communication between horses and riders."

In addition to teaching dressage, Lori says she teaches English and a little jumping. "I like to help my students find their niche and get a good knowledge of riding."

Lori continues her own lessons in dressage while helping train young horses and assisting in sales and breeding at Graemont Farms.

There are "school horses" available at Windswept for people who want to take lessons but don't own a horse of their own. Jack says their most well-known horse is "Riley," who has retired from the Lancaster City Police forse and now makes his home at Windswept. He also noted that they make available all types of lessons.

Another option for people who would like a horse, but feel they can't afford to own one, is "leasing" a horse. In fact, Jane says that sometimes more than one person can lease a horse and work out their riding times accordingly.

(Turn to Page B4)

Jack and Jane wanted to have a business where they could work together and they have gotten their wish at Windswept Stables where they often put in 10-14 hour days, seven days a week.

Muffin and Ben check out newcomers to the barn. The solid oak stalls are cleaned out daily, and horses are turned into the paddocks daily.

Lori Wolgemuth, the newest riding instructor at Windswept Stables, is shown here at a show. She competes in dressage, and has been riding for 10 years.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

When I started writing this column, my two youngest children were just seven and ten years old. Then, Halloween meant something different than today.

We always cut a face in a pumpkin and then hunted for a short, squat candle to put inside it. The costumes that the older children wore were brought down from a high closet and tried on for size. Sometimes we bought a new one if the child was invited to a party. When they were younger it was fun to reverse roles and dress the boy as a girl and vice versa. Then I'd drive them to their grandparent's home and to several neighbor's houses as we live one mile down an unlighted country road.

One advantage to this situation was that not many children came to eat our candy, cookies and apples. I understand that folks in developments are expected to feed hoards of kiddies. I'd guess we'll have another quiet Halloween night.

This past month I've made many, many phone calls in order to reorganize a Bible Study group at our church. Last spring the number attending had dwindled to just a few. It takes just as much time to prepare a lesson for a few as for a lot and a hostess doesn't like to have two or three show up when she has prepared for ten.

Fortunately, my telephoning paid off. A roomful of women attended our first meeting and I taught a lesson from "Her Name Is Woman" by Gien Karssen. We also considered studying "Living Religions" by John Noss but the ladies decided they wanted to study women in the Bible.

I realize that it will take constant vigilance to keep up attendance as so many other pressing obligations seem to take precedence over Bible study. But, I feel that the fellowship that we have is important enough to warrant the extra effort.

Windswept Stables

Jane and Jack Siegrist are determined to make their boarding facilities attractive and one of the top facilities in the area. Their immediate goal is "to keep the barn full," and then to branch out into other avenues, such as the clinics.

To keep the facilities the way they want them requires 10-14 hour days, seven days a week. Jane notes that the boarders are free to come and and go at anytime, and "they like the stable owners to be here." They have occasionally stayed up all night with a horse that needs attention, although they generally expect the owners to do that. Grooming is also the horse owners' responsibility. Jack included a wash stall in the barn with hot and cold running water to make the grooming a little easier.

Jack, who says he likes farming, raises about 30 acres of hay to meet the demand of the horses. He says, "I am a jack-of-all-trades." Jane adds, "I do everything." In addition to planning the buildings and constructing them, Jack purchased a bulldozer and did all the clearing and grading for the buildings and the two rings. Jack and Jane credit two good friends, Wanda Steckley and Ed Burkman, with giving "hundreds of hours" of labor in the construction phase of the project, including the building of several miles of fence. Jack added, "A lot of friends gave up their weekends to help us."

It is obvious that while their new occupation is a demanding one, it is one which is bringing them both a lot of joy while fulfilling their original intention of "doing something together." Their devotion to their charges and their pride in their very up-to-date barns and arena is clearly evident.

Penn Manor FFA Does Well At Poultry Judging Contest

On September 18th, Donald Henry and Brian Eshbach, both from Penn Manor FFA, along with Andrew White from New Holland, traveled to Massachusetts to compete in the Eastern States Poultry Judging Contest against 9 other poultry teams from the 10 Eastern States. Pennsylvania team placed second out of ten. Out of fifty-five contestants, Donald Henry placed fifth, Brian Eshbach, sixth, and Andrew White, eighth.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

"That's disgusting!" grumbled the youngest as we sped to church one mid-summer morning, weeks ago.

Various things disgust this tall, lanky baby of the family. Like having to do homework instead of skateboarding, broken farm machinery, waiting nearly three more months to apply for a driving learner's permit, orders to get off the telephone, liver for dinner, and being called the "baby" of the family.

What prompted his disgust was none of the above.

It was instead the disfiguration of a piece of flat, rich, prime farmground two miles from our home, with several pieces of large earth-moving equipment. Ready on the sidelines were materials to begin what would be the latest addition to the wave of industrial construction, replacing growing crops in our beautiful bountifully-productive, southern York County countryside.

Sight of the ripped, gouged prime topsoil equally disgusted, frustrated, angered, and saddened me. Because I know that, in nearby communities, other properties stand empty, vandalized, non-profitable and non-tax-producing, a blight to the landscape and the economy.

We are tearing up our precious, irreplaceable, productive farmland while we abandon established population centers already serviced with water, sewer, emergency fire and medical systems, highways and support service industry.

And, at the same time, we are farther endangering those who still dedicate themselves to stewardship of the nation's food supplies and soils.

A frightening incident came quickly to mind, one which could have endangered this young son who finds this devastation of farmland so disgusting.

It was haying season, and he was moving a tractor and wagon to a distant field early one Friday evening. Far too much of our farm equipment movement must be made over a major, though rural, local-traffic artery. As industry and housing has burgeoned through the area, traffic has grown increasingly busy, especially at "quitting" time and busy weekend hours.

Friday evenings the road is incredibly busy, and this was a lovely, late summer one. As our son slowed to turn left onto another roadway with the equipment, with short visibility ahead, a vehicle whipped around him — in a great hurry — passing on the left. My opinion of such a driver is not printable in a family publication.

Not a youthful driver, as we might be tempted to assume, but a late-middle-aged gentlemen. Er, not exactly a gentlemen. After clipping the front tractor tire as it turned, and scraping the side of his own car, the driver went into a tirade against our son, attempting to shift the blame and hinting about calling the police.

Needless to say, one young man arrived home shaken and scared. Until I pointed out to him all the careless, stupid - illegal - moves the driver had made. None of our equipment was damaged, and we never heard a single word from the offending driver. To be honest, I hoped that painting and body work on the offending automobile was not cheap.

With each new taking of farmland for industry, for housing, for service areas, we increase the danger to existing farming communities of water pollution. Vandalism, Trespassing, Impatient traffic behind slow-moving loads of hay and grain. Nuisance lawsuits over dust, noise, and odors.

This upcoming week, Pennsylvania voters have the opportunity to vote on the philosophy of farmland preservation. The definitive rules and regulations, the fine details on the Farmland Preservation issue, have yet to be worked put. If the vote is a positive one, farm landowners will have the opportunity to help design those regulations, and must accept the responsibility to help do so.

Will Pennsylvania remain one of the nation's most important agriculture states, producing a bountiful variety of foods, close to the Northeast's population centers? Or will endless miles of traffic lights, industrial and housing sprawl, fast food establishments and shopping malls destroy some of the world's most productive cropland?

Tuesday, in the voting booth, you can have your say.

Please go vote your opinion on this critical issue.

EASY CHICKEN RICE SUPPER

1 cup uncooked rice
1 teaspoon salt
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 can warm water
2 pounds chicken parts
2 carrots peeled and cut in half

In a 3-quart microwave casserole, mix salt, rice, carrots, soup, and water. Place chicken parts, thick side out, around outside of casserole and baste with a bit of the liquid. Cover tightly and cook on high for 20 minutes. Shake casserole to stir. Don't lift cover. Cook on high an additional 10-15 minutes. Check for doneness. Cook another minute or two. Serves 4.

PINEAPPLE CREAM PIE

2 cups skim milk
4 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla
1½ teaspoon pineapple flavoring
Non-saccharin sweetner = ¼ cup sugar
2 cups unsweetened crushed pineapple (drained)
1 9-inch crumb or corn flake crust

Place drained pineapple in bowl and add sweetener to equal 1 tablespoon sugar and pineapple flavoring. Set aside. In non-stick pan or double boiler, scald 1½ cup milk. Mix together ½ cup cold milk, cornstarch, and salt. Add slowly to hot milk, stirring constantly until slightly thickened. Add a little of the hot mixture to yolks and then stir into hot mixture, continue stirring and cooking until mixture is thick. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Cool slightly and add rest of sweetener. Add pineapple. Pour into shell and sprinkle a few graham crumbs on top. Sprinkle lightly with cinnamon. Chill. Serve within 2 or 3 days.

Changes in lifestyles such as increasing consumption of vegetables, decreasing consumption of fats and discontinuing the use of tobacco products can lessen your risk of developing cancer, heart disease and sugar diabetes.

Here is a healthy recipe which you can try. It was submitted by Karen Thomas, home economist in Lackawanna County.

Layered Vegetable Medley

Grease a 9x13 inch glass baking dish
Layer the following:
2 cups thinly sliced carrots
2 cups frozen or fresh cauliflower cut in bite size pieces
2 cups frozen or fresh broccoli cut in bite sized pieces
2 cups frozen tiny onions

Cover and bake in 325 degree oven for 20 minutes, until vegetables are cooked but still crunchy. Remove cover and sprinkle with 1 cup grated cheddar cheese and ½ cup wheat germ. Bake uncovered for another 5 minutes and serve.

QUESTION - Mrs. Donald Rudolph, New Oxford, asks, "Does anyone know where to get wheat cereal like Flory's Mill in Rohrerstown sold?" She said the mill is now occupied by other craftpersons.

QUESTION - Dorthy Renninger, Culpeper, Va., would like a recipe for tomato preserves that is very light in color and can be used for pies.

QUESTION - Mrs. Cyril Cassner, Newburg, requests a recipe for seafood salad that tastes like that served at Caesar's Palace in Atlantic City, N.J.

QUESTION - Rebecca Allgyer, New Providence, would like good, moist non-chocolate cup-cake recipes.

QUESTION - Mrs. B. Smith, Jonestown, would like to know how to can meadow tea.

QUESTION - Betty Frey, Germansville, requests a recipe for Honey Cookies.

ANSWER - Edith S. Moore, Pennington, N. J., is very fond of pineapples and would like recipes using canned pineapple.

QUESTION - Martha Smith, Millerstown, requests a recipe for a cheese spread that uses sharp cheddar cheese and horseradish. She would also like recipes using salsify other than in soup.

QUESTION - Florence G. Nauman, Manheim, requests a recipe for homemade noodles made without egg yolks.

ANSWER - Sara Piko, East Berlin, wishes to thank the readers who mailed the recipes she had requested.

ANSWER - Grace Ikeler, Bloomsburg, wanted to know how to make pectin for jelly. Thanks Bea Barino, Great Meadows, N.J., for your recipe.

Apple Pectin

7 large apples
4 cups water
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Wash tart apples. Cut in pieces, but do not peel. Add water and lemon juice. Boil for 40 minutes. Press through jelly bag, then strain juice through a flannel bag without pressure. Boil juice rapidly for 15 minutes. Pour boiling juice into sterilized jars and seal. Process 5 minutes in boiling water bath.

Use for jelly making from such fruits as peaches, strawberries, cherries, or any fruit lacking pectin. Add 1 cup pectin for each cup of fruit used. Usually ¾ cup sugar to 1 cup of the combined juices is correct. Yield: 4 half-pint jars.

ANSWER - Fern Naugle, Mapleton Depot, requested a recipe for Texas Fries. Thanks Bonnie Menge, Newmanstown, for your recipe.

Texas Fries

Clean desired amount of potatoes, cut into wedges. Place potatoes on a jelly roll pan, sprinkle with salt, pepper, garlic powder and parmesan cheese (to suit your taste). Dot generously with butter. Place into a 375 degree oven, bake 30-45 minutes to desired tenderness. Stir every 10-15 minutes. They can also be made on the grill by placing them in a foil packet, turning and shaking often.

ANSWER - Estella S. Fink, Allentown, requested a recipe for creamy cold slaw and one for vanilla sauce for apple dumplings. Thanks Liz Heistand, Manheim, and Mrs. James Shirk, Hanover, for the recipes.

Creamy Cabbage Slaw

1 medium head cabbage, grated
1 cup salad dressing
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup diced green onion
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons celery seed

Combine all ingredients except cabbage in blender and mix until smooth. Pour over cabbage and chill before serving.

TUNA CASSEROLE
1 cup dry noodles, uncooked
2 cups mushrooms, sliced
4 tablespoons onion, chopped
4 tablespoon diet margarine
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup flour
2 teaspoon paprika
2 cups nonfat milk
2 cups half-and- half milk
4 cups pink salmon or tuna, water-packed, drained
1 cup Parmesan cheese, grated

Preheat over to 375 degrees. Cook noodles according to directions on package. Saute mushrooms and onions in margarine until tender; stir in salt, pepper, flour and paprika. Stir in milk slowly, cooking and stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Remove from heat; stir in half and half. Remove skin and bones from drained tuna or salmon and flake. Mix fish with noodles, mushrooms and all but a little of the grated cheese. Pour into casserole. Sprinkle remaining cheese on top. Bake 20-25 minutes.

Cole Slaw

1 large head cabbage, grated
1 carrot, grated

Dressing

1 cup sugar
1 cup mayonaise
pinch of salt
¼ cup vinegar
½ cup milk

Put dressing ingredients in blender until smooth. Pour over well-drained cabbage and carrot. Toss. Chill several hours before serving.

Apple Dumplings with Sauce

8-10 apples, sliced
2 cups of flour
½ teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
⅓ cup shortening
⅔ cup milk

Mix ingredients except apples together as you would a pie dough. Make 8 dumplings with cinnamon sprinkled on dough before wrapping around apple slices.

Sauce

2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups boiling water

Boil to the consistency of thin white sauce. Pour over dumplings and bake 40 minutes at 375 degrees. Makes 8 apple dumplings.

ANSWER - Mrs. Fannie Lapp, Myerstown, requested a recipe for cream cheese. Thanks to a reader from Frederick, Md., for your recipe.

Cream Cheese

1 quart whole milk
1 cup heavy cream
¼ cup buttermilk
1 junket tablet
1 tablespoon water
¼ teaspoon salt

Combine milk, cream, and buttermilk. Warm to 100 degrees. Dissolve junket in water and add to milk, stirring vigorously for 1 minute. Cover and let set undisturbed at room temperature until a firm curd (16-24 hours). Drain in a bag. Work in salt. Set cheese in bag in a strainer and let set 3 hours or until cream cheese consistency.

ANSWER - Mary Jane Jones, Mount Storm, W.V., requested a recipe for Shake-N-Bake Chicken. Thanks Mrs. Jacob Harnish, Willow Street, and Brenda Oberholtzer, Ephrata, for sharing your recipe.

Shake-N-Bake Chicken

2 cups bread crumbs
1½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon onion salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
¼ cup vegetable oil

Blend ingredients until well mixed. Put coating in plastic bag, and shake one piece of chicken at a time until well coated.

Mixture keeps well in a tight container.

Shake-N-Bake Chicken

1 cup biscuit mix
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons paprika

Mix biscuit mix, salt and paprika in bag. Shake pieces of chicken in bag until coated. Lay chicken, skin side down, in foil covered pan. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

Homemade Shake & Bake

⅔ cup powdered milk (dry)
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
2 teaspoons paprika
2 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning

Remove skin from chicken. Put ingredients in bag. Add chicken. Shake and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 45 minutes. Delicious on fish too. Can be stored in refrigerator indefinitely. Coats 3-4 pounds of cut-up chicken.

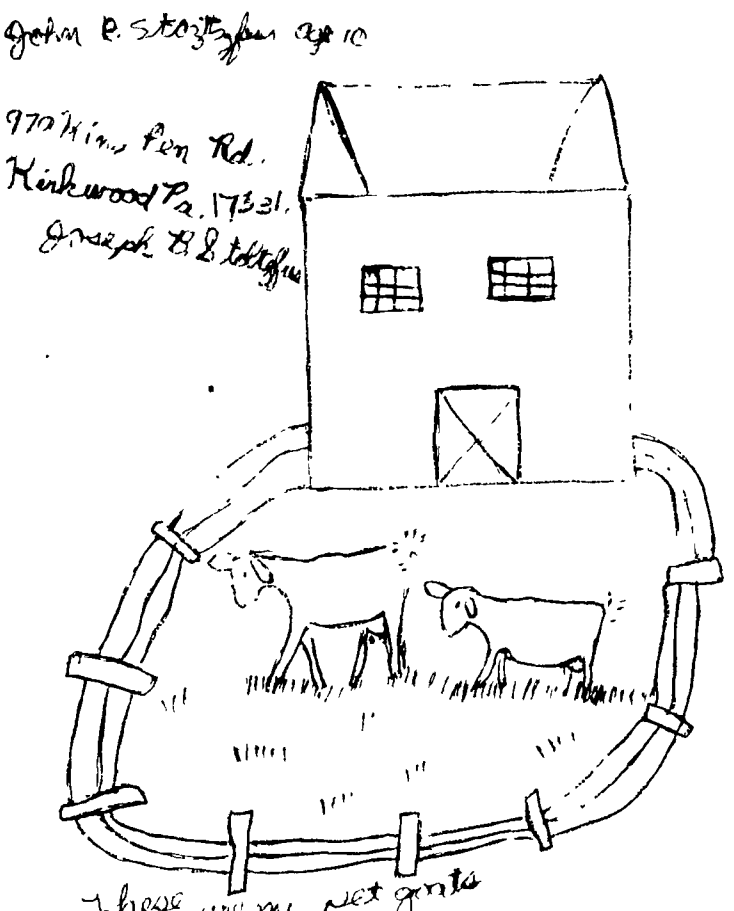
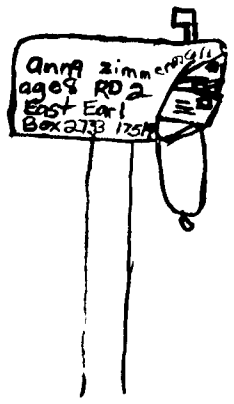
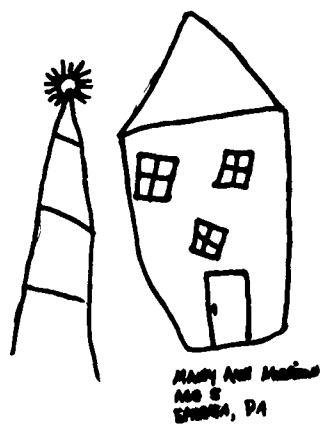
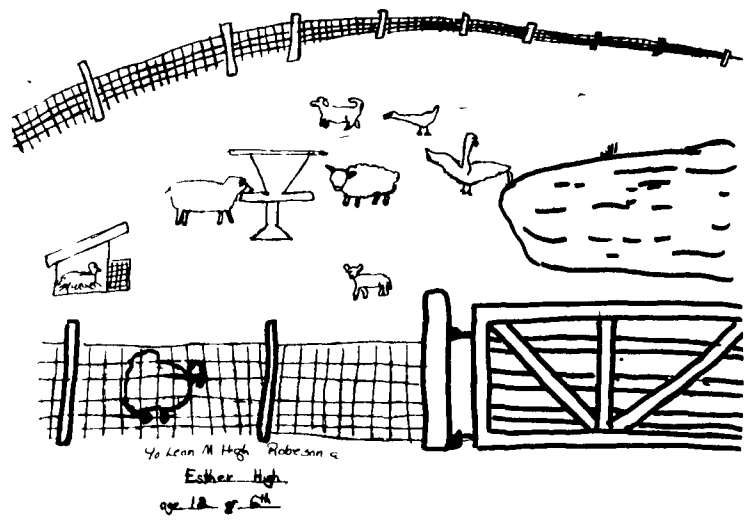
Kid's Korner









BY Esther W. High
Robesonia
Age 12

Chirp, chirp here and there,
I hear the birds everywhere.
Night is slowly coming now,
Turkey gobbles, Oh how!

A baa of sheep for her lamb
now the baaing of the ram.
Capering home to his bed
The lamb should rest, he baa's instead.

The geese are honking in alarm
It's just Boots, he'll do no harm.
The geese eggs will soon hatch,
On which the mother turkey sat.

The birds are tucking themselves in bed,
Soon under wings they'll hide their heads.
It's getting dark, soon I'll follow the birds,
Close the windows, or the mosquitoes will come in herds.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 3

Members of the Society of Farm Women 3 met at the home of Alice Trumbauer in Ephrata. Installation of new member Mary Kathryn Weaver was conducted by Florence Vitiai.

October 23 Men's Night Out was enjoyed by members, their husbands, and friends at Penn National Raceway, which included dinner at the track.

Berks Society 5

A Halloween party at the home of Mrs. Gladys Gutshall was the program for the October 13 meeting of Berks County Society of Farm Women 5. Fifteen members attended dressed in various costumes. Prizes were awarded for the ugliest, prettiest, and most original costume.

The business meeting was called to order by president Carol Stoudt. The first order of business was the initiation of new member Beverly Stoudt.

Plans were discussed for the upcoming Christmas holiday. Several members will be distributing gifts to the residents at Independence Terrace in Womelsdorf and the Twin Spruce Home in Myerstown. Names were drawn for Secret Pals, and plans were made to have Santa Claus attend the annual Christmas party.

Following the business meeting, members played games and enjoyed refreshments.

Lancaster Society 13

The Society of Farm Women 13 met at the home of Nettie Baer on Friday, October 9. Ada Miller, Mildred Leed, and Lydia Denlinger served as co-hostesses.

Following an appetizing array of refreshments, the meeting was called to order by Grace Bigler, president. Roll call was answered by 16 members. Devotions were led by Lydia Denlinger, who read Psalm 33. Reports prepared by the secretary and treasurer were read and approved. Under the direction of Ruth Schroeder, members made dolls for a craft project.

On October 14, the members attended a brunch at the Country Table Restaurant in Mount Joy to observe Farm Women's Day. Senator Noah Wenger was the guest speaker.

Lancaster Society 34

Farm Women Society 34 held their October 19 meeting at the home of Nellene Myer, with Darlene Kreider as co-hostess. Mrs. Mildred Purcell gave a cake decorating demonstration with each member trying their new-found skills out on cupcakes. Mrs. Purcell gave her cakes away by drawing numbers.

A business meeting given by president Carol Byers followed. A donation was given to the Solanco FFA seniors for their Kansas City trip, and members were reminded about the County convention on November 7 at the the Farm and Home Center. On November 19 at 2:00 p.m.

Lancaster Society 8

Farm Women Society 8 met at the home of Grace Bixler on October 17 at 2:00 p.m. Kathy Vogt conducted devotions. Safety slogans were given in response to roll call.

Special music was presented by two granddaughters of Mrs. Bixler: Jessica Bixler played several numbers on the clarinet, while Emilene Drager played tunes on the flute.

Ruth Andrews shared a musical presentation, "My Country Under God", which remembered the bicentennial year.

As the banana split dwindled from its original 6 foot height, the crew that scooped the ice cream admitted they were all nuts and going bananas.

The Scoop On A Canoe And Its Crew That Went Bananas

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LANCASTER — Some people will do anything for attention. And farmers are no exception. To convince people just how good ice cream really tastes, the Lancaster County Farmer's Association built a six-foot high banana split inside a canoe last Friday to celebrate the county farm show.

More than 2,000 Park City shoppers gobbled 140 gallons of ice cream loaded with 12 gallons of strawberries, 150 pounds of pineapples, 150 pounds of bananas and 10 gallons of fudge.

The crew that scooped the banana splits admitted they were all going bananas and slightly nuts from their non-stop free service, but from the overheard comments, the gigantic dessert fulfilled its purpose. "It's great. I love it." Shoppers commented. "Hey," someone called to a passerby, "Come have a free banana split." The skeptical shopper paused, studied the generous dishes of ice cream and said, "You got to be kidding. No one gives away anything for free." But they were wrong.

Turkey Hill donated the ice cream and toppings and the Farmer's Association provided the spoons, dishes and most of the labor to make the annual Park City farm show event a delicious success.

John Cox, market manager for Turkey Hill, said the 6 foot-high banana split took about 15 minutes to make and 2-2½ hours to serve. "You gotta move once you have the ice cream out," he said.

This is the third year Turkey Hill has dished out free ice cream to Park City shoppers. The past two years, they built sundaes. This year, Ruby Bollinger, the Farmer's Association member who spearheaded the event, suggested they fill a canoe with a super banana split.

Ruby Bollinger, Manheim, spearheaded the annual event. She solicited former dairy princesses and members of the county farmers' association to help serve more than 2,000 Park City shoppers.

Cox said, "The ice cream event is a fabulous highlight during the farm city week. It's so much fun to make and everybody likes it."

Advertising isn't the only purpose of the handout. Cox said Turkey Hill likes to help out the Farmers' Association because they do a lot for each other and their contribution builds a relationship with customers and farmers.

"Pouring advertising dollars into impersonal ads seems silly when you can do something like this," Cox said of the event.

Food And Drugs Can Interact

SOUTHAMPTON — Millions of people swallow billions of doses of prescription drugs each year, yet many know very little about how drugs can interact with food and beverages.

Some drugs affect the way your body uses certain foods; Some foods cause certain drugs to work faster, slower, or not at all. And the wrong combination of foods and drugs can cause adverse side effects — or may even prove fatal.

Certain drugs dissolve in the stomach instead of the intestines when taken with soda or juice; thus, the body cannot absorb them.

Large amounts of liver and leafy vegetables can reduce the effectiveness of anticoagulants. On the other hand, dark green leafy vegetables are important for women taking oral contraceptives.

Over-the-counter drugs can also react adversely with particular foods. Antacids and laxatives can interfere with the absorption of vitamins D, K, and carotene. Chronic use of antacids containing aluminum can cause phosphate depletion — leading to weakness and loss of appetite.

A Princess Who Is A Farm Girl At Heart

BY LOU ANN GOOD

RICHLAND — Six weeks ago Rebecca Sonnen joined the long list of royalty when she was crowned the 31st Pennsylvania Dairy Princess. But her father Paul smiles and says from his perspective things haven't changed. "Becky's always been my princess—long before she got her crown."

Although Becky enjoys meeting new people and the publicity that comes with her position, some things haven't changed for her either. Her favorite spot remains her home nestled in the rolling farm land of Lebanon County. The Sonnen's 200-acres stretch across the valley, a creek winds through the fields and splashes over the rocks, cows graze in the meadows and a quaint, stone church sets in the background. It's in this idyllic setting that Becky unwinds from the demands of a dairy princess's hectic schedule.

Since her coronation, she has made numerous appearances at special events like the All-American Breed Shows, the PA Jersey Sale, the All-American Sale, and the New York Eastern Milk Producers Show to hand out ribbons, pose with winners, and promote her favorite beverage—milk.

Publicity engagements have sliced Rebecca's daily two-hour milking stints to Sundays only. She misses the tranquility of spending time in the barn and the cows miss her. Especially Super. For it was Super a deluxe holstein, that first pushed Becky into stardom by winning blue ribbons and grand championships at county fairs. That was seven years ago, four heifers and one bull calf earlier for Super who has now lost her award-winning figure but not her deep attachment to her mistress.

Becky's mom insists, "When Becky enters the barn, Super's ears go back and she looks all around for Becky until she finds her."

Becky's touch has not only grown sparse with Super but the other cows are now unfamiliar with Becky. "The cows kick and jump around since they aren't use to me milking them," Becky said of their 72 holsteins.

Regardless of the cows' reception to her, Becky still considers milking one of the best ways to relax after a busy week. "When I come home from one of the dairy promotions, I'm so exhausted. I have so much homework and I must catch up on what I missed at school. Going out in the barn helps me to relax."

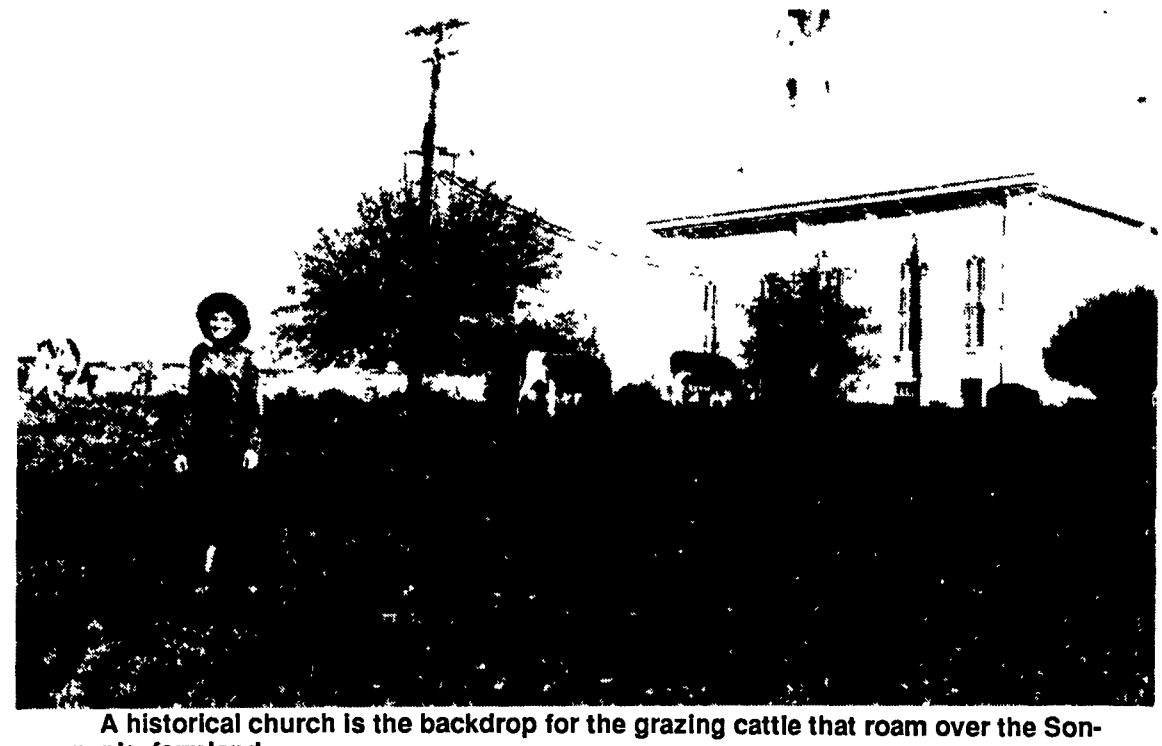
No matter how tired she gets, Becky never seems to stop smiling. Her mother said that Becky is as likeable in private as she is in public. "I always say Becky is the sunshine of my life. She is a neat daughter. She has a mind of her own and I like that. She sticks up for herself and what she believes."

But sticking up for herself and conversing with ease was not always a part of Becky's life. Her mother said, "FFA made her what she is."

Becky agrees, "I owe my success to FFA because it really pushed me into public speaking."

Becky recalls that as a shy ninth grader, she was afraid to even answer the phone in the school's ag department. Finally, her teacher demanded she answer the phone while he listened in on another extension and graded her telephone ability.

Becky must have passed that test for it wasn't long after that that her teacher told Mrs. Sonnen, "I'm going to make a public speaker out of Becky."



A historical church is the backdrop for the grazing cattle that roam over the Sonnen's farmland.

Becky finds fishing in the creek that winds throughout her family's pasture is a relaxing activity. Unfortunately, she never catches anything, but her older brother does.

Super, a prize-winning Holstein in her earlier years, may have lost her figure but she hasn't lost her devotion to her mistress.

Becky admits, "I was intriqued by public speaking. I liked it a lot after that. I gained poise."

But gaining poise did not happen overnight. Becky said, "Becoming a good public speaker was a gradual process. I learned a lot of pointers that helped me relax. My ag teacher stressed that if we were unsure of the best answers, we should pretend we really know and believe in what we are saying."

That confident attitude has paid off for Becky who has accumulated an impressive amount of accomplishments. Besides being state dairy princess, she is FFA president and National Honor Society president at Conrad Weiser High School, advisor representative for her county's Jr. Miss contest, and she placed first in the state FFA public speaking competition.

With all those achievements, does she ever fail?

"Lots of times," Becky admits with candid honesty. "In ninth grade, I really wanted to win the creed contest at the state level, but I came in fifth."

But disappointments only make Becky try harder to perfect her skills. Her extemporaneous speaking success is steering her into communications and dairy production at Penn State next year.

"After college, I think it would be neat to be a breed representative. I'd like to travel a lot." She paused, excitement crept across her face as she explained, "I think there are so many neat jobs. I'd like to try a lot of different jobs."

Becky is optimistic about the future of dairy farmers. She said, "Dairy farms are getting better because they can produce more food on less land. So many people want to go into agriculture related careers. There is so much science and knowlege in developing and getting better cows. Over the years, the quality in dairy cattle has changed a lot."

Becky was especially impressed at the All-American Show. "I never saw so many nice cows before that. It's incredible." Her assestment isn't flighty reasoning since Becky considers herself a fairly accurate judge of cattle. This summer, her 4-H team was first in state competition for oral reasoning in cattle judging.

Becky also believes that the public consumes more milk products that ever before. She credits dairy princesses as one of the prime motivators in making the public aware of the nutrition and good taste of dairy products.

Over the years, Becky has accumulated many trophies and awards for her talents. Here, she stands in front of some of those displayed throughout their home.

But this princess who appears at many public functions remains a farm girl at heart. She said, "I don't like dressing up in a gown and makeup. I'd rather just dress in farm garb."

With that attitude, this farm girl serves as a convincing ambassador who uses her position to tell young and old of the merits of drinking milk. Becky said, "I love representing the dairy industry. I meet so many neat people."

Food Facts About Spices

Q. What's the shelf life of spices and herbs?

Providing they have been stored in a dark, cool and dry place (not over the stove, in other words!). Ground herbs and spices are good for about one year. Whole spices such as cloves, cinnamon sticks, nutmeg and allspices last up to 5 years or more. Members of the red pepper family last up to one year or up to 2 years if refrigerated. This includes red pepper, paprika and chili powder. Dehydrated vegetables such as dried onions, celery and peppers have a shelf life of about 6 months.

Q. You're kidding! I have some spices since I'm married (6 years) in a spice rack on the wall of the kitchen. Aren't they good anymore? Are they spoiled?

They are not a health hazard, but they will not be a taste treat. There are three tests...sniff, taste and color. If you were blindfolded and opened the container could you tell what it is? They should be bright flavored. Color should not be faded. If you want to keep them as decorations, that's fine. But for cooking, do yourself a favor and buy fresh ones. Caution. If you have become accustomed to using faded, stale spices and herbs with a heavy hand, be careful with fresh spices. You will overpower the dish. (I use old spices for craft projects to coat pine cones at Christmas.)

Flavor Enhancers For Dieters

Nutri/System, a weight loss program that has been helping dieters since 1971, believes that obesity could be caused by flavor deprivation.

Nutri/System's more than 800 centers in the United States and Canada provide guidance in proper nutrition, exercise and behavior modification. The company sells participants all their food, offering 27 packaged entrees of about 1,000 calories each for adults, and vitamin and mineral supplements.

The flavor deprivation theory is that overweight people overeat because they crave more taste, texture and aroma in their food. Many nutritionists feel there is no basis to this theory, although one scientist who claims to have data supporting the theory works with the Nutri/System company and will not release the data.

In support of the flavor deprivation theory, Nutri/System now offers new "flavor heightened" entrees, "flavor enhancers" and "flavor sprays" to dieters.

The flavor enhancers are mixtures of spices and flavorings to be added to foods before or after cooking. Flavor sprays are cartridges of flavored water that dieters with an urge to snack spray into their mouths. Flavors such as chocolate, peanut butter and jelly, apple cinnamon danish and strawberry cheesecake are supposed to be adequate substitutes for the real foods so dieters will survive to the next meal.

It is too early to see whether this new twist to the dieting game really improves compliance and weight loss. While spices and flavorings can increase enjoyment of food, the use of flavor sprays has no scientific basis.

How To Gain Weight

Believe it or not, many people in this county feel that they are underweight by at least 10 pounds and want to gain, not lose, pounds. Some are athletes, some are those recovering from illness, but some simply feel they are too thin.

If you feel you are underweight, the first thing to do is see your doctor. Your physician can check for any nutritional or medical conditions that could be the root of the problem. Some possible causes include hormonal imbalances, emotional stress or eating disorders.

But for healthy individuals, the problem is usually that they are consuming fewer calories than they are expending. Heredity can also play a role in thinness. If you come from a long line of thin people, you may have difficulty gaining weight but here are some suggestions taken from Jane Brody's Nutrition Book and Melvin Williams book, Nutrition for Fitness and Sport.

Increase your daily caloric intake by eating high-calorie foods at meals and as snacks. Try to consume an extra 500 to 700 calories each day.

Eat three balanced meals and two or three snacks every day. Eat snacks two or three hours before meals or just before bed so you do not ruin your appetite at mealtime. Some good snacks are crackers and cheese, nuts, sandwiches, puddings, fruit-flavored yogurt and creamed soups.

Eat lots of pasta, rice and bread, and high-calorie fruits and vegetables such as avocados, winter squash, potatoes, dried beans and dried fruits.

Decrease your intake of filling, bulky foods such as cabbage, clear soups and salad entrees. These fill you up quickly and provide few calories.

Exercise regularly to help convert calories into muscle, rather than fat. But don't exercise so much that you are burning more calories than you consume.

Get The Iron You Need

SOUTHAMPTON — Iron comes in three forms. Heme iron is found in animal foods, such as red meats, veal, pork, poultry, and seafood. About 40 percent of the iron in animal and fish flesh is heme iron; of that, the body can absorb about one-third.

Non-heme accounts for the other 60 percent of iron in animal foods, and all the iron in fruits, vegetables, dried beans, nuts, and grain products. Your body can absorb from two to 10 percent of this form. If you consume a food high in vitamin C with an iron-rich food, you have greater rate of absorption.

Additive iron comes in both enriched and fortified products. Enriched foods have certain nutrients — usually iron, thiamin, niacin, and riboflavin — added in levels equivalent to those in the unprocessed versions. Fortified foods contain amounts of some nutrients that are above those naturally present in foods.

Unfortunately, the forms of iron used as additives (electrolytic, "reduced", iron phosphate) are generally not as available to the body as natural food iron. For the most part, dietary factors that increase the availability of natural food iron enhance the body's use of additive iron.

Retiree Honored For Community Impact

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG — Nancy Hogg, Franklin County Extension Home Economist, was honored at a retirement dinner held October 23 at the Chambersburg Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Hogg, 60, who has a Bachelor of Science degree from Carnegie-Mellon and a Master of Science degree from Penn State, has served Franklin County since 1968. During that time she worked extensively with youth and adult programs. The 4-H Family Living projects, including the Round-Ups and Fashion Revue, were her responsibility. She helped the Homemaker's and Farm Women groups to develop programs and provided leadership training for their advisors. She further served the community by assisting the local Council of Churches in starting a Food Pantry for the needy and by serving on the Boards of Directors of both Head Start and Meals on Wheels.

The main feature of the evening was testimonials by individuals who had worked closely with Mrs. Hogg over the years.

John Shearer, Franklin County Extension Agent, expressed appreciation to Mrs. Hogg on behalf of the extension staff, citing her educational impact on the aging, the young, and the handicapped. "You have been an asset and help to all of us," he concluded.

Nancy Hogg

Diane Brown, representing Penn State University's Extension Administration, stated that for nineteen years Mrs. Hogg had done "more than a job in Franklin County. You'll never know the impact you've had through your newspaper column, radio show, and educational programs. You went the extra mile." Brown presented the retiree with a plaque from Epsilon Sigma Phi, the National Honorary Extension Fraternity.

The high point of the evening came with the presentation to Mrs. Hogg of a Resolution passed by the Pennsylvania State Senate recognizing her "nineteen years of dedicated service to the citizens of Franklin County. Thousands have benefited from her nutrition and health education programs," the resolution read in part. Charles Burch, district representative for Senator William Moore, made the presentation.

Further testimonials to Mrs. Hogg's dedication and service to the people of Franklin County were given by Gertie Reichard of the 4-H Development Committee; Wilma Wengerd, President of the Franklin County Society of Farm Women; Rose Marie O'Rourke of the Cumberland Valley Craftsmen; Jean Zimmerman of Franklin County Homemakers; Margaret Burkholder, Extension Office secretary; Linda Golden, President of the Franklin County Agricultural Extension Association; Judith Pheil, Franklin/Fulton Home Economist's Association; Joe Ausherman, Chairman of Franklin County Commissioners; and Eleanor Garris, Regional Director of the PA Association of Extension Home economists.

Mrs. Hogg received a monetary gift from the citizens of Franklin County.

"I will miss my job," she told the audience. "What I loved the most about my job was being out in the county with the people. I've enjoyed all the contacts I've had over the years. You haven't seen the last of me," she went on. "I'm not originally from this area, but I'm staying in Franklin County." Her remarks received a standing ovation from the 136 people assembled in her honor.

Attending the dinner with Mrs. Hogg were her mother, Eva Lauer of Camp Hill; her brother Robert Lauer, Pittsburgh; and son and daughter-in-law, Stephen and Leah Hogg.

Cakes for the occasion were made and decorated by 4-H members.

C. Eugene Wingert, President of the Extension board, served as Master of Ceremonies for the event.

Mrs. Hogg receives Senate proclamation from Charles Burch, district representative for Senator William Moore.

Wayne County 4-H Potato Round-Up

WAYNE CO. — Dean Jamieson, R.D.#3 Honesdale and a member of the Cold Springs-Rileyville 4-H Ag. Club had the grand champion exhibit of potatoes at the recent Wayne County 4-H Potato Round-up. Dean's exhibit of "Lemhi" russet-type potatoes were nearly perfect in shape, uniformity, freedom from bruises, cuts, disease or blemishes and were also awarded the champion rosette in the russet or baking-type potato category.

Carrie Bryant, Star Route, Honesdale and a member of the Calkins 4-H Ag. Club had the reserve grand champion exhibit of potatoes with her entry of white potatoes. This exhibit of potatoes was awarded the champion rosette in the white-skinned potato category.

Grant Stiles, Jr. R.D.#5 Lake Ariel and a member of the Kountry Kids 4-H Club had the other champion exhibit of potatoes at this 4-H Round-up. Grant's exhibit of red-skinned potatoes picked up the champion rosette in that category.

Red Potatoes: Blue ribbon and champion, Grant Stiles, Jr., R.D.#5 Lake Ariel (Kountry Kids 4-H Club), blue and reserve champion, Jason Donofry, R.D.#1 Honesdale (Bethany 4-H Ag. Club), blue ribbons, Kevin Johannes, R.D.#2 Honesdale (Cherry Ridge 4-H Ag. Club), Jennifer Seeley, R.D.#5 Lake Ariel (Kountry Kids 4-H Club), Dean Jamieson, R.D.#3 Honesdale (Cold Springs-Rileyville 4-H Ag. Club), Nathan Gries, Milanville (Calkins 4-H Ag. Club), Carrie Bryant and Zack Bryant, Star Route, Honesdale (Calkins 4-H Ag. Club) and red ribbons, Kelly Mandeville, Star Route, Honesdale (Laurella 4-H Club) and Manuel Seeley, R.D.#5 Lake Ariel (Kountry Kids 4-H Club).

White Potatoes: Blue and champion, Carrie Bryant, Star Route, Honesdale (Calkins 4-H Ag. Club), blue and reserve champion, Dean Jamieson, R.D.#3 Honesdale (Cold Springs-Rileyville 4-H Ag. Club), other blue ribbons, Jason Donofry, R.D.#1 Honesdale (Bethany 4-H Ag. Club) and Zack Bryant, Star Route, Honesdale (Calkins 4-H Ag. Club), red ribbons, Kelly Mandeville, Star Route Honesdale (Laurella 4-H Club) and Manuel Seeley and Jennifer Seeley, R.D.#5 Lake Ariel (Kountry Kids 4-H Club).

Russet or baking-type potatoes: Blue and champion, Dean Jamieson, R.D.#3 Honesdale (Cold Springs-Rileyville 4-H Ag. Club), blue and reserve champion, Grant Stiles, Jr., R.D.#5 Lake Ariel, (Kountry Kids 4-H Club), other blue ribbons, Kevin Johannes, R.D.#2 Honesdale (Cherry Ridge 4-H Ag. Club) Manuel Seeley, R.D.#5 Lake Ariel (Kountry Kids 4-H Club), Nathan Gries, Milanville (Calkins 4-H Ag. Club) Jason Donofry, R.D.#1 Honesdale (Bethany 4-H Ag. Adams County Poultry Queen Crowned

GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Adams Co. Correspondent

NEW OXFORD — Sixteen-year-old Melissa Gebhart, Hanover, was crowned the 1987-88 Adams County Poultry Queen, Friday evening, October 23, at the Adams County Poultry Association's Annual Appreciation Banquet and Queen Contest. Chosen from the four contestants competing for the title at Inn 94, New Oxford, Gebhart received a check for $500 from the Association in addition to her title.

Program Committee person Kay King, mother of Noel King the 1986-87 State Poultry Queen, explained that while the contest was open to any young woman between the ages of 16 to 21 who is a resident of Adams County, the winner need not be directly involved in the industry; however, she must be willing to promote the product.

Melissa, daughter of Ken and Alberta Gebhart, is directly involved in the poultry industry. She works on her parents' hog and poultry operation. The Gebharts raise about 84,000 pullets annually. Melissa's responsibilities include monitoring the feeding and ventilation systems and records keeping.

She is the secretary for the New Oxford High School FFA Chapter and it was her FFA advisor who encouraged her to enter the contest. She also plays on the school's field hockey and softball teams and is a manager for the football team. In the future, Melissa plans to attend Penn State University to pursue a career in agriculture.

Chosen as the Alternate Queen was Donna Small, 20, daughter of Francis and Joan Small, McSherrystown. Donna is presently attending the Central Pennsylvania Business where she is pursuing a career in travel and tourism operations.

The other contestants were Mary Hauf, 16, daughter of John and Betty Hauf, Hanover, and Kimberly Ann Golden, 16, daughter of Patrick and Patricia Golden, York Springs. The judges for the evening were: Jay Irwin, Lancaster County Extension Service, Janet Williams, Gettysburg Times, Lifestyle Editor, and Elwood N. Earhart, Feed Sales and Service, Quaker State Farms.

The evening program included a slide presentation entitled "The Emerald Isle" presented by Adams 4-H Foreign Exchangees Kathy Grim and Jeanne Smith.

Nutrition Tops Cook-Off Requirement

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent

LANCASTER — The recipes for the first "cook-off" for graduates of the Expanded Foods and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) seemed much like any foods contest, but there was a twist. These recipes needed to be fairly simple and economical, and entrants had to supply complete and accurate nutrition information.

According to Brenda Stahlman, coordinator of the EFNEP, a Penn State Extension program in Lancaster County that teaches low income homemakers menu planning and nutrition, the contest was designed to be a learning experience for homemakers who probably never have entered another contest.

It also offered another way for these homemakers, who had been a part of the program for two years, to become more integrated into other Extension Service programs. It was not easy persuading the homemakers to enter the contest, but — in the end — the ten finalists were happy they entered.

Three judges compared the food entries and the nutrition information, and Stahlman says about the judging, "We were tough." There were 15 points for the recipe, 30 points for nutrition information, 25 for menu planning and 10 for creativity.

Carrie Ross, left, holds the pasta salad which won first place in the salad category and Carol Deigel shows off the cherry jello cake which won in the dessert category. Both recipes were entered in the first cook-off for graduates of Lancaster County Extension's Expanded Foods and Nutrition Education Program.

With five categories, there were multiple winners.

Grand prize went to Sharon Krier, Ephrata, for her Wholesome Stromboli, which met the criteria for both tasting good and providing wholesome nutrients.

There was a tie for first place in the main dish category, with honors being shared by Vicki Spangler, Ephrata, for her Spud Bake with Vegetable Medley and Susan Hartung, Ephrata, for her Stromboli.

Pat Collins, Ephrata, took first place in party foods category with Pumpkin Bread. Carol Diegel, Lancaster, won the nutritious snacks and dessert category with a cherry jello cake, which she says she has been making for her family for 20 years. Although she's never won another contest, she said she has always done well in competition with her family. Diegel said she chose this recipe for the contest because "no one in this group had ever tasted it." She mentioned that she also enjoyed the menu planning part of the contest, because with a diabetic son she has to carefully plan menus on a regular basis.

Carrie Ross, Ephrata, won first place in the salad category with a pasta salad. It's a salad that she has created, and she said she was eager to see "if what people say is true." She said she always receives compliments on the salad, and had to think about what she uses to send a written recipe along. She used colored pasta for the contest, and at home she often substitutes other vegetables.

Ross had many complimentary things to say about her involvement in the EFNEP program. "It has made me grow, and it is a real good group. It has helped me learn to budget and to stand on my own feet."

Bert Ford, a nutrition advisor for the four Ephrata winners, said she needed to give her homemakers "lots of encouragement" to get them to enter the contest. "This is the first time for each of them, and they'll be surprised and delighted by how well they did."

Ford said that part of the purpose of their monthly meetings is to work on self-esteem, and she sees the contest as a very positive experience for them.

While this was the first time for the contest, Stahlman says, "It won't be the last."

Toilet Repair Tips

Those mysterious leaks, squeaks and whistles: Ever wonder why your toilet may be making those strange sounds? The trouble may lie in your tank:

- Corroded, leaky, old-fashioned ballcock.
- Bent float rod or lift wire.
- Leaky float ball.
- Misaligned bracket guide.
- Corroded tank drain seat.
- Deteriorated tank ball or misaligned flapper.

A new kit available at local hardware stores includes everything you need to do a complete repair job on your toilet — no extra trips to the store for missing parts. The Toilet Tank Repair Kit from Fluidmaster contains a new valve that eliminates the outdated ballcock, flat ball and rod arm. It signals wasteful leaks and lets you select the most efficient tank water level. Also included is a vinyl Bull's Eye Flapper with stainless steel seat that installs easily, resists corrosion and neatly replaces tank balls, wires and brackets.

Danger - Children And Lighters

About 200 deaths each year are associated with fires started by cigarette lighters. Of these, an estimated 140 deaths are the result of children playing with lighters; most of the victims are less than 5 years old. Children who survive such fires are often severely burned, resulting in disfigurement for life and emotional adjustment problems. Many of these tragedies are avoidable.

Cigarette lighters, particularly disposable ones, are fascinating to many children. They are colorful, fit easily into a small hand, have a wheel that turns and emits sparks, and produce a small flame.

Children less than five years are twice as likely to die in a fire as older age groups and this is largely because of fires started by children playing with matches or lighters. Children as young as two or three years are known to have ignited these fires. When a fire occurs, children frequently run and hide rather than informing an adult or trying to escape.

Microwave Cooking

BY AUDREY HALLGREN

I just received an invitation to "Join The Crowd" for a Halloween party so I thought it would be fun to get into the spirit by sharing some treats that are easy to create in your microwave. Also, children enjoy helping make these Halloween treats especially since there is less risk of them injuring themselves during microwave preparation.

Zap An Apple

4 or 5 medium size apples
Wooden sticks
1 14-ounce bag Caramels
2 Tablespoons water

Wash and dry apples; insert sick into stem end of each apple. Microwave caramels and water in small deep glass bowl on High 2½ to 3½ minutes, stirring after each minute until sauce is smooth, (if caramel sauce is too thin, let stand about 2 minutes before dipping apples.) Dip apples into hot caramel sauce; turn until coated. Scrape excess sauce from bottom of apples. Place on greased wax paper. Store in refrigerator. Let stand at room temperature 15 minutes before serving to allow caramel to soften.

Caramel Popcorn Balls

1 cup light brown sugar
¼ cup butter
½ cup light corn syrup
2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk (½ of a 14 ounce can)
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 quarts popped corn

Combine sugar, butter and syrup in a deep bowl. Cook on High for two to three minutes until butter melts. Add milk and microwave on 70 percent power for five to seven minutes until soft ball stage is reached (234 to 238 degrees).

Stir in vanilla and pour over popped corn. Mix with buttered hands. Roll into balls. Try adding raisins, peanuts or pretzels with the popped corn.

Hot Cider

Microwave room temperature cider on High about 1½ minutes for each cup. Chilled cider requires 2 to 2½ minutes for each cup.

The Great Pumpkin Cake

1 package (18.5 ounce) marble cake mix (2-layer size)
Red food coloring
Flat-bottomed ice cream cone
Favorite vanilla frosting to cover large cake
Yellow and green food coloring

Prepare cake mix as directed on package. Then, to the yellow batter, add red food coloring (about 5 or 6 drops) for an orange-colored batter. Grease and sugar 10 to 12-cup fluted microwave-safe tube pan. Pour orange batter in pan, spoon chocolate batter on top, and swirl with knife to marble. Microwave medium, uncovered, 12 minutes, rotating pan once. Then, Microwave (high) 2 to 3 minutes or until no longer doughy, rotating dish once. Cool 10 minutes. Invert onto serving plate; cool. Set aside about ¼ cup frosting. To remainder, add a few drops red and yellow food coloring to make orange color. Frost cake. Place cone, open-side-down, over hole in center of cake to make stem. Add enough green food coloring to reserved frosting to tint green. Cover cone with frosting. If desired, use decorator frosting or decorations to make a face on the cake.

Low-Fat Dairy Product Recipe Contest

HARRISBURG — Have a recipe that features low-fat dairy products? Get it in the mail now, because the deadline has been extended for the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program's low-fat, low-calorie dairy recipe contest.

The new deadline is November 14. Recipes must be for main dishes, and they must feature at least one low-fat dairy product as a main ingredient, according to Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Board chairman, Jim Harteis.

The grand prize winner will receive $1,000 which doubles the top award of the 1986 "Make It With Milk . . . and other dairy products" recipe contest. Finalists will be named on November 30, and the cookoff is scheduled for January 11 in Harrisburg during Farm Show Week.

Debbi Bryant, Wayne County Family Living Agent, notes that Penn State extension home economists will conduct the preliminary judging, but a panel of chefs, food editors, and nutritionists will judge the finalists.

Judges will score effective low-fat dairy products, taste and visual appeal, originality and creativity, ease of preparation, and nutritional quality. In the cookoff, contestants' skill in preparing and describing their recipes also will be considered.

Penn State Family Living Extension joined the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture this year as a co-sponsor.

The recipe should include the name of the dish, a list of dairy ingredients used, the number of servings, and approximate preparation time. Mail the recipe, along with your name, address, county, and phone number to Contest, Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, 2301 North Cameron St., Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408.

It Is Toys For Tots Time Again

LANCASTER — The Toys for Tots program sponsored by the Boys Club & Girls Club of Lancaster began its 14th season recently with the opening of collection centers for toy donations. The program provides toys to needy youngsters throughout Lancaster County for Christmas. Toys are distributed to the parents of youngsters at the youth agency's "Toy Shop" prior to Christmas day. Toys were available for approximately 2,000 families last year.

The program is a community-wide voluntary effort. Individuals, civic groups and others can help in several ways. Any and all toys, new or used, suitable for infants and children through 11 years of age may be brought to the Boys Club at 333 Dauphin Street or may be dropped at the following collection centers now to December 11.

Lancaster- East Mall/Park City, Main Entrance/East Towne Mall, Lancaster Pediatrics/310 N. West End Ave.

Lititz- Lititz Recreation Center, 21 North Spruce St.

Lancaster Fire Halls- 425 W. King St., 208 N. Duke St., 335 E. King St., 843 Fremont St.

Persons who would like to donate money to buy toys or defray costs of toy repairs, may mail checks to: Toys for Tots, Boys Club & Girls Club of Lancaster, Box 104, Lancaster, PA 17603.

Hundreds of persons are needed to process, repair, inventory and distribute the thousands of toys necessary to meet the need. Individuals and groups may help out at their convenience. The toy shop is located at the Boys Club and is open daily 9:00 AM to 10:00 PM and on weekends. To volunteer, call the club at 392-6343.

Specific tasks include painting and repair of riding toys, checking and repair of electronic toys and small mechanical toys, the washing and preparation of baby toys, checking of various games and preparing them for distribution, cleaning and dressing dolls, sorting and inventory.

For more information, call the Club at 392-6343.

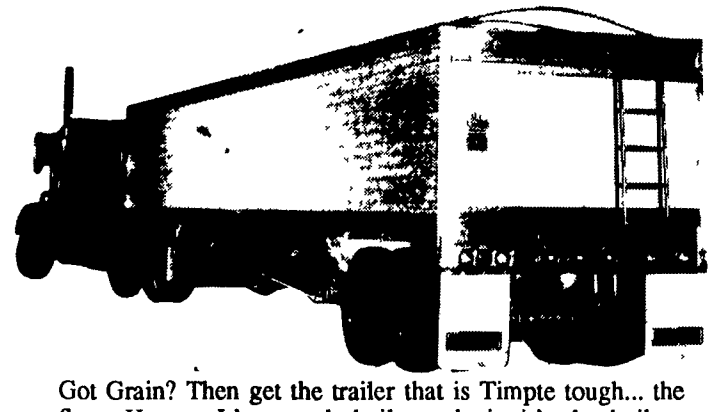
SUPER HOPPER

NEW

REDESIGNED 1988 TIMPTE GRAIN HOPPER



Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough... the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wind drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

Reliable Eby livestock bodies are now aerodynamically designed

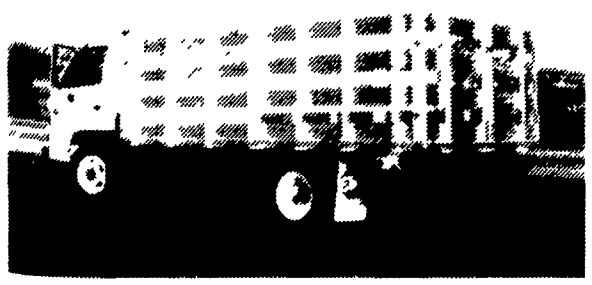
A chicken body built to keep your birds dry and protected



Eby stake body is the right choice for farm or commercial use

Aluminum Bodies for the Agri-Industry

Back in 1938, when Menno Eby Sr. began making wagons and cattle trucks, he was determined to give farmers strong, wooden truck bodies at a competitive price.

Some things change. Others stay the same.

Today, M. H. Eby, Inc. produces a wide variety of sturdy and reliable truck bodies for agri-business. Everything from livestock bodies through stake bodies to grain and bulk bodies. All at competitive prices.

But now every Eby body is all-aluminum. Consider some of the advantages you get over traditional wood and steel construction:

- As much as 50% lighter — allows for increased payloads
- It will never rust through or rot.
- No need to paint.
- Overall maintenance costs are greatly reduced.
- Just an occasional power washing keeps aluminum bodies looking new for years.
- They have much better resale value.

What's more, you can always tell Eby what you want on your body. Everything we make is custom-built. A long list of options available for every body style allows you to design the body you need for your operation.

Give us a call, or write, to find out more about the lightweight alternative.

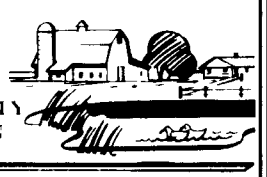
FARM & RURAL PROPERTY DIVISION



WHO'S NUMBER 1?

If you are a Penn State Football Fan, you know the answer.

If you are comparing Realtors, several different measures can be used: One is the size of the inventory; Another is the number of salespeople. Perhaps a better way is to compare the QUALITY and PROFESSIONALISM of the services provided. HERITAGE REALTY's Farm and Rural Property Division counsels each seller on the best way to market his property, prepares accurate detailed brochures for each listing and follows through with a proven advertising and marketing program, including detailed videotaping of all operating farms.

Whether you are buying or selling a farm or rural property in Central Pennsylvania, we would be pleased to put our 15 years of farm and rural property experience to work for you.

Call or write for our free lists, or see our bi-weekly Lancaster Farming ad in the October 24th issue.

Cooks Capture Pork Fest

Beulah M. Stewart of Greensburg, a first time cooking contest entrant, won the Pork Fest Recipe Contest held at the Bavarian Summer Festival in Adamstown recently. Standing (L-R) are: Carol and Ed Stoudt, owners of the Festival and Ed Stoudt's Black Angus Restaurant in Adamstown; Stewart and Herbert Schick, Secretary of the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council (PPPC). The Stoudts also received a plaque from the PPPC for their sponsorship and promotion of pork.

ADAMSTOWN — Beulah M. Stewart of Greensburg, Westmoreland County, took top honors at the Pork-Fest Recipe Contest held recently at the Bavarian Summer Festival in Adamstown, from a field of ten finalists across the state.

Stewart's recipe, "Pork Chops with Dark Sweet Cherries", is an excellent combination of pork, walnuts and dark sweet cherries which will add zest to your October Pennsylvania Pork Month menu planning. Stewart was awarded $125, dinner for two at Ed Stoudt's Black Angus Restaurant in Adamstown and a gift pack of pork products valued at $30.00.

"This was my first cooking contest," Stewart said. "I often watch the cooking shows on television and they use a lot of fruits. That's when I thought the dark cherries would go well with pork," the winner said. "My husband and daughters really liked it, I'm always trying something new."

The first man to compete in the contest since it began three years ago went home a winner with his "Pennsylvania Pepper Pork" recipe. Edward C. Russoli of Allentown captured second place using boneless pork shoulder, rosemary, garlic, yellow, red and green peppers and onions. "I'm going to take this recipe home," said judge Carmen Paone from the Reading Eagle Times. "It's easy to follow, has a great blend of colors and stimulates the taste buds!" he added. Russoli received $100 cash prize and a $30-value pork gift pack for his recipe.

"Pork 'N Plum Packed Pitas" was the winning combination for Josephine Piro of Easton. Piro's recipe used lean boneless pork loin chops, dry sherry, hoisin sauce, ginger root, onions, pea pods, mushrooms and plums which were then packed into whole wheat pita bread. "The recipe is unusual and most delicious," said judge Jack Holcomb from WEEU Radio, Reading. "I really appreciate the use of the fruit in this recipe." Piro received $75 and a pork gift-pack valued at $25.00.

Deborah Yandric of Middletown was the fourth place winner with "Pennsylvania Pork in Lean Green Garden Salad Bowls", winning $50 and a $25 value pork gift pack. Her recipe used hollowed out zucchini squash shells as bowls, when the individual pork salad was served. The salad incorporated pork, mushrooms, red and yellow peppers and onions topped with a sesame herb dressing

State College resident Vivian Baumer placed fifth in the competition with her "International Pork". "I liked the combination," said Carol Stoudt, judge and owner of Ed Stoudt's Black Angus Restaurant, Adamstown. "It was very refreshing, not too difficult and had a clean appearance." Baumer received $25 and a pork gift pack valued at $25.00.

Receiving honorable mention for their recipes were: Mary Aschenbach of Ephrata with "Pork Chops in Orange"; Shirley Kornafel of Nazareth with "Marinated Pork Loin"; Gloria T. Bove of Bethlehem with "Pork Patty Puffs"; Gloria Monier of Jeannette with "Gloria's Chop Suey", and Lorena Beth Hicks of Landisburg, with "Simple Sausage Pie".

Recipes were judged by a panel of three judges including Paone, Holcomb and Stoudt. Recipes were selected for originality, taste, ease of preparation, practicality, appearance and low calorie content.

MITSUBISHI ENGINES.

There's more than just power in the name.

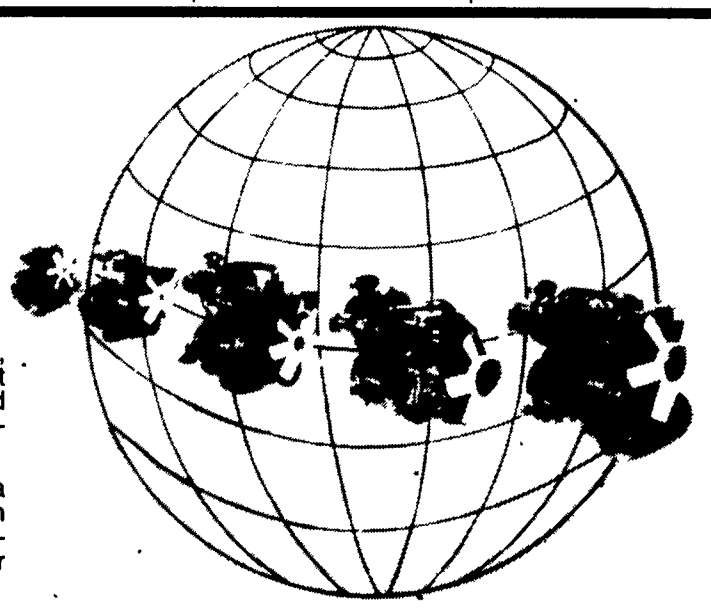
Bred with durability and driven by reliability, Mitsubishi Engine is a division of one of the largest producers of heavy industrial products in the world with over 75,000 employees and net sales approximating $20 billion.

A leader since 1917, Mitsubishi engines cover a wide selection of models from 5 to 5,000 hp—with concentration from 10 to 150 hp in diesel or gasoline. But, if you don't find the model that fits your specifications, talk to us.



MITSUBISHI is an excellent quality product. No other engine line beats the value. Consider these features:

- Distributor based - support service available nationwide
- Owners report easy starting, quiet running - and exceptional fuel economy
- Bosch type in-line injection pumps, the most durable type available.
- Mechanical fuel injection timer for quiet, efficient operation.
- Removable wear parts: i.e. valve seats, valve guides, cylinder sleeves, water pump & etc.
- Forged steel crank and rods.
- Individual heads on some models.

SPECIAL FALL CLEARANCE ON QUALITY DICKEY-john DjGMT Grain Moisture Tester

The DICKEY-john Grain Moisture Tester measures moisture content automatically. You don't have to preweigh the sample. There are no meters to read, no dials to set and no thermometers to lose. As soon as you pour in the grain sample, the testing sequence begins. A digital readout is displayed when the proper weight of the sample has entered the test chamber. The readout is corrected for temperature at the touch of a pressure-sensitive switch. Models are available with direct readouts for corn, soybeans or wheat, and adhesive conversion charts are provided for other grains.

- GRAIN MODEL
  List...$259

Simple, four-step operation

NOW ONLY
CASH $177.85

1 Place the tester on a steady, level surface Then, lift the protective cover up and slide it down out of the way

2 Use the sample cup to pour grain into the testing cell Pour slowly and steadily, taking about eight to ten seconds to empty the sample cup A readout will appear automatically

3 Wait at least fifteen seconds Then, press the temperature compensation switch for a direct readout of the moisture content of the grain listed on that switch Refer to the appropriate chart for other grains

4 Empty the tester by turning it over (If you should forget to empty the test cell, the tester will shut itself off automatically after two minutes)

THE ONE SPREADER FOR A TWO-SPREADER FARM

A Gehl 300 Series Scavenger® II manure spreader handles all types of manure. It saves you time and money by bridging the gap between liquid and solid manure handling. It's the one tough, reliable machine built to cut right through your manure spreading problems. It's available in five sizes — from 912 to 2925 gallon capacities — so you can choose the one that best meets your operation's specialized needs.

Manure from confinement housing can be quickly and easily loaded and delivered to your spreader with a versatile Gehl skid loader. The heaviest loads are no problem with a Scavenger® II manure spreader. It's built with heavy duty chain drive and rugged construction throughout. Your first glance will tell you the Scavenger® II is unlike any spreader you've ever seen.

Handles All Kinds Of Manure - Liquid, Semi-Solid, Pen Packed, Even Frozen

Over the past 5 years, we have sold thousands of T.A.'s to satisfied customers in 25 states across the U.S. Some of our best customers are I.H. Dealers.
We do complete job or center housing while you wait or will sell you the parts.
Our prices on T.A.'s with the Dana Sprag, is still $595.00 with a 2 year warranty.
We also have units and parts available to rebuild old style T.A.'s, including Ramp & carrier sets for $300.00

Clutches, Pressure Plates PTO Drives & Water Pumps

We have clutches available for most all IH tractors; including many heavier than original. We also have clutches for many other brands.

- Compare Our Prices -

All clutches & T.A.'s will ship U.P.S. and are sold on an exchange basis. Core charges Apply.

QUALITY USED PARTS

We are continually increasing our inventory of late model tractor parts. We have a good selection of quality used parts at competitive prices.

ATTENTION!
International Harvester Owners
Tighten worn steering arms on 56-66-86 series IH tractors without welding, splitting, or bolting.
A taper is machined into the new steering arms. A sleeve is then broached to match the original splines of the spindle. The outside of the sleeve is tapered to match the inside taper of the arm. These two, finely-machined surfaces then meet for a neat, permanent, surelock fit. A key is installed for added strength and safety.

AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE OWNERS SPEAK OUT ABOUT HOOBER COMBINE SERVICE

HOOBER'S COMBINE SERVICE SPECIALISTS ARE EXPERIENCED IN ALL CROPS AND MOST ALL FIELD CONDITIONS

We Asked Our Combine Service Customers This Question:

"What Can C.B. Hoober & Son, Inc. Do To Improve Our Service To You?"

Here Are A Few Replies.

I really can't think of any one thing to improve on. I'm sure there are a few, but I've always found when I needed advice, parts or service someone would try to help day or night. If all dealerships would try as hard as you guys, farmers would be better off.

DAVE BECKER
Elizabethtown, PA

I live in the State College area and I think Hoober's service has been outstanding. If I have a service call to be made, the airplane service to fly mechanics is great.
I wish Hoober could have dealerships in different parts of the state, but it's still amazing how well they can serve the people in such short time. I'm very well pleased.

EUGENE CORL
State College, PA

It's a job well done - the best I've seen yet.

JOHN SHEARER
Spring Grove, PA

Dolomite Construction Co. is also in a service oriented business. I would only hope that my customers feel as satisfied with our service as I am with yours.
In the farm business, you are the best we do business with.

BOB BLEMIS
Dolomite Construction

Not all places we walk into do we get the attitude that the people behind the counter want to solve your problem.

AARON KAUFFMAN
Parkesburg, PA

C.B. Hoober is a pleasant place to do business. Everyone is very courteous. We have no complaints at all. Ken Diller really knows his combines & we appreciate his patience in explaining things to us. We would rate C.B. Hoober at the top of the list of businesses we deal with. Everyone is very honest & sincere, a rare quality nowadays in business.

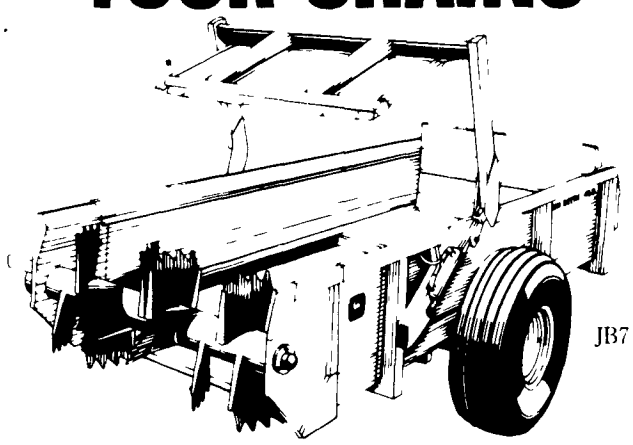
FREE YOURSELF OF YOUR CHAINS



- John Deere Hydra-Push™ spreaders have no chains. And none of their problems. This unique design uses a moving panel and sliding floor to push manure into beaters. Fast as 15 feet per minute. There's no fallback and it's virtually self-cleaning. A real time-saver.
- Ask us about all the Hydra-Push spreader features.

Fill faster with Lancaster Level-Flo.

You can blow in as much as three tons of haylage a minute—over 100 feet up—with a new 12 center fill Gooseneck from Lancaster Level Flo. High profile and 33% larger diameter reduce friction to make plugging a thing of the past. And the Lancaster Level Flo 12 goose neck is fully enclosed to make sure your silage and haylage go into your silo—not on the roof.

For 70 Years We've Helped Farm Families Succeed.

Many families took their first step to successful farming when they stepped into their local Farm Credit office.

They came to us for a loan to buy the land and build the house and raise the barn.

As farms are passed on from generation to generation, many of them grow into family corporations.

And Farm Credit remains a part of the picture. With loans to help plant the seeds and harvest the crops. Or buy more land for future generations.

There's a very good reason why we want farmers to prosper. It's because we're farmers, too. The Farm Credit System is owned and controlled by the farmers who use it.

So the next time you need a loan, look up the family member who isn't in the photographs you see here.

But who's always been in the background.

Polled Hereford Association Holds Sale

BY SHARON B. SCHUSTER
Maryland Correspondent

FREDERICK, MD — "It's a fun time to be in the cow business," said Ernie Smith, area coordinator for the American Polled Hereford Association. The capacity crowd at the Maryland Polled Hereford Association's Red, White and Blue sale got in on the fun with some lively bidding at the Frederick fairgrounds.

Ten-year-old Jennifer Altobelli of Dover, Pennsylvania made a high bid of $2050 to take home the grand champion senior heifer, S & J Miss Shannon. The big but feminine Miss Shannon is "a top of the line Bravo heifer." She was bred AI to Renegade on June 23 of this year.

Andrew Altobelli, father of Jennifer, said that he tries to upgrade his herd at Paradise Farm with at least one or two additions to the herd every year. "My daughter and son both show animals," he explained, and I think she will be a good brood cow. We like the Renegade bull." Altobelli received a certificate with the heifer and bought through the Youth Purchase Plan. "I felt it was s good deal on a good cow." The docile heifer was consigned by George D. Brennan and shown by Suzanne Schmidt. Schmidt added that Miss Shannon had been shown previously by a five year old girl — her namesake.

Thirty-six lots were sold at an average of $826. Eighteen steers sold at an average of $574. "We've been apologizing for what prices have been the past few years," said Ernie Smith. "But we no longer have to do that. I don't know when we've ever had a better market or when we will have a better market than right now," he added.

JVF Tam II was selected grand champion cow by Judge Howard Hoffman. Consigned by R & T Acres of Gaithersburg, she is safe in calf to performer, with a projected calving date of February 5. The big dark red cow with "a picture perfect udder," was purchased by Sandra Garcia of Frederick, for a top bid of $1050.

$1100 bought the reserve champion cow, Tam Mystic 14P 32T, consigned by George D. Brennan. The 6 frame heifer was sold to Fooks Homestead, Myersville, Md.

Dale Sheets of Sparks, Md., bid a cool $1025 to take home S&J Miss Cool Lady, reserve champion senior heifer. Grand champion junior heifer, TK Lady Hunt Club, consigned by TK Polled Herefords was purchased by Karen Ann Emory of Hughesville, Md. for $985. The reserve champion junior heifer went to Jason Fulmer of Mt. Airy, Md. Church View Lady 82W was consigned by Church View Farms in Millersville, Md.

Auctioneer - Bryan Blinson

THE EGG INDUSTRY AND SALMONELLA

By: Owen D. Keene,
Associate Professor of Poultry Science
The Pennsylvania State University,
University Park, PA 16802

During the last five years there has been an apparent increase in incidence of Salmonella infections in humans in the Northeast as reported by The United States Center for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta, GA. There are over 1,600 different Salmonella serotypes known. One of the serotypes, Salmonella enteritidis, has been the serotype mentioned as the organism implicated in some of these outbreaks.

Although Salmonella enteritidis is found in many species of animals, CDC has indicated that some outbreaks were from the use of raw or uncooked eggs or egg products. All of the egg associated outbreaks involved USDA graded shell eggs and none involved pasteurized eggs or egg products.

I don't have to tell you that this is a very serious matter for the egg industry because some of these outbreaks may have originated from eggs produced by flocks in the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic states. Along with the continuing decline in per capita egg consumption, public concern about this could reduce consumption still further. Also, if human outbreaks of Salmonella could be traced to specific flock or farms, the liability implications would be uncertain.

There are many ways that eggs can become contaminated with Salmonella. The most probable and the most common reason for Salmonellas foodborne outbreaks in improper food handling and preparation. Consumption of uncooked egg products increase the risk. Salmonella are bacteria that are widely prevalent in the environment and they are primarily found in the intestinal tracts of humans, and all other animals including birds.

When eggshells are highly soiled with fecal material the risk of Salmonella contamination increases. The internal contents are contaminated by Salmonella that enter through the pores or hair line cracks in the shell. Another possible way of contamination is ovarian transmission. A few serotypes of Salmonella may infect chickens, then the chickens build immunity and recover from the disease, but the organism remains in some of the tissues. The hen could shed the organism via the ovary into the egg. The unanswered critical question for the egg producer is whether or not Salmonella enteritidis is shed into eggs or enters by surface contamination of the shell. The latter would be the easier to control by egg washing and sanitation.

Extensive market egg surveillance in the Northeast by Penn State, Cornell, the Universities of Pennsylvania, Maine and Connecticut has been negative for Salmonella enteritidis to date. However recently, in a few flocks that were implicated epidemiologically to human outbreaks, evidence of the presence of Salmonella enteritidis has been found in tissues from the birds but not the eggs.

Egg producers and processors may have to change some of their routine practices to protect against this problem. It is imperative to produce eggs free of fecal contamination. Eggs may have to be gathered and processed more frequently. They should be washed and sanitized immediately. Egg gathering and egg processing machinery must be cleaned, washed and sanitized after each run of eggs or sooner if eggs are broken or heavily soiled. One infected broken egg may contaminate many other eggs, which may contaminate many more.

Do not allow eggs to sweat. Remove all hair line cracked eggs. Cracked eggs can be a major source of contamination. Why take chances? Be sure that the eggs that go to market are clean.

Arabian Horse Open House Scheduled

LEBANON — Sunset Hill Arabians in co-operation with the Pennsylvania Arabian Horse Association South Central District is pleased to announce an Open House to be held Sunday, November 8th from one until five PM.

Broiler Placements Down

HARRISBURG — Placements of broiler chicks in the Commonwealth during the week ending October 10, 1987 were 2,301,000, two percent below the previous week but 15 percent above the corresponding week a year earlier. Average placements during the past nine weeks were nine percent above a year ago. Settings for broiler chicks were 3,440,000, seven percent above the previous week and 14 percent above the same period a year earlier. The current three- week total of eggs set is three percent above the comparable period a year ago.

Expected marketings, based on placements seven to nine weeks earlier less mortality allowance, in Pennsylvania for the week ending December 5, 1987 will be 2,278,000 twelve percent above a year earlier, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

Broiler-fryers slaughtered in Pennsylvania under Federal Inspection week ending September 30, 1987 totaled 1,815,000 with an average liveweight of 4.49 pounds.

Animal Health Problems From Chemical Agents

R.C. HAMMOND, V.M.D.
Extension Veterinarian,
Univ. of Maryland

When animals become sick or die and the cause is not easily determined, poisoning can at times be logically suspected. Many things must be considered in making the diagnosis. Among them are: how many previously healthy animals are affected at the same time showing similar symptoms and similar lesions on necropsy? Was the animal exposed to poisonous plants? Are industrial poisons from a nearby plant a possibility? Do the animals have access to an orchard that has been sprayed? Have the animals been sprayed or given some type of medication? Has there been some change in food or water?

Since poisonings are extremely difficult to diagnose, a veterinarian should always be called. Symptoms may be specific but in any case of suspected poisoning it is best to seek laboratory aid. Carefully chosen specimens should be collected and sent to the laboratory. Collect some of the contents of the rumen, the stomach and the intestine in every case of suspected poisoning. In virtually all cases of poisoning, it is advisable to get a sample of the liver, because many of the poisons are detoxified there. Additional samples may vary with suspected poisoning.

Metals such as lead, arsenic occur occasionally in Maryland animals, but prussic acid, nitrate, pesticides, aflotoxins are more often suspected now.

Hydrocyanic, or prussic acid poisoning is caused by the ingestion of plants that contain toxic quantities of the cyanides or of the glucosides that cause cyanides. The most common plants causing this problem are wild cherry, sudan grass and sorghums. The trouble usually comes when plant growth is retarded, and then followed by a period of rapid growth. An example of this is: a dry period in the summer, followed by autumn rains. This causes the growth-retarded plants to start growing profusely. Plants that are damaged from wilting, frostbite or dry weather will contain much higher amounts of the cyanide. If animals eat large amounts at one time the chances of getting poisoned are much greater.

In cases of acute cyanide poisoning the blood will become bright red in color. Symptoms develop in ten to twenty minutes. The animal will die in one to two hours unless treated promptly. If prompt action is taken, treatments with sodium nitrite and sodium thiosulfate intravenously are effective although it may be necessary to repeat the treatment several times.

Sorghums or sudan grasses should be pastured only when healthy and growing. If damage or wilting has occurred the forage can be put in the silo. However, it must be aged for six weeks before being fed.

Nitrates are often suspected of producing toxic conditions in cattle. Heavily fertilized grains, corn or grasses may contain too much nitrate. Drinking water may contribute to the problem. Water supplies have been shown to vary from 10 ppm to 2300 ppm. The most important factor in producing symptoms is the rate the animal eats the material containing the nitrate. Animals well fed on carbohydrates are much less susceptible to nitrate poisoning than undernourished animals.

Organophosphates used as worm medications or pesticide sprays have killed many domestic animals. TEPP (tetraethyl pirophosphate) is one of the most toxic compounds known. One drop in the eye will cause death. Parathion is next, and although it is half as toxic as TEPP, animals sprayed with it may die within an hour. Malathion is one of the least toxic organophosphates that we have. Diazinon, ciodrin, dichlorovis and trichlorofon are somewhere between.

Organophosphate poisonings kill animals by paralyzing the respiratory center. Atropin sulfate is the time honored antidote but a new class of compounds known as oximes are now being used.

The principles of treating poisonings do not vary, even though actual treatments do. A treatment schedule requires three steps. First, any residual poison should be removed whether on the skin or in the intestinal tract. Second, the specific antidote should be given if one if available. Third, the animals life should be supported by symptomatic treatment.

It is always best to avoid poisonings, but if they occur a prompt diagnosis followed by specific therapy can often save many animals.

New Study Says Pork Leaner Than Statistics Indicate

DES MOINES, Ia. — A just-completed study by Iowa State University researchers reveals that pork has considerably less fat content than long-established U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics would indicate. In fact, six of the seven muscle cuts evaluated in the study averaged 4.3% fat or less, well below American Heart Association guidelines for food that should be considered for inclusion in a prudent diet. Eighty percent of all the raw boneless rib chops evaluated contained less than 6% fat.

Drs. Kenneth Prusa and Jane Love, researchers with the Iowa Agriculture and Home Economics Experiment Station at Iowa State University, conducted the research which was funded by the National Pork Producers Council with producers checkoff money. The study was designed by Dr. Lauren Christian, an Iowa State animal scientist.

Prusa and Love studied pork carcasses from 47 different Iowa pork producers, in categories from .7 to 1.3 inches of backfat. The researchers measured the amount of fat in seven different muscles before cooking, and the fat, moisture and tenderness of cooked boneless rib chops.

Rib chops were prepared by removing the bone, trimming closely, and broiling to 171 degrees. According to researcher Love, the cooked chops from the lowest backfat category had only 2.7% fat, while cooked chops from all backfat categories averaged 4.3% fat content.

Commending on the significance of the study results, Dr. Prusa said, "From what we found, there is no reason to exclude pork from your diet. Lean pork can be a high quality part of a balanced diet."

Robert Kline, a dietitian and Director of Consumer Affairs for the National Pork Producers Council, was not surprised at the wide discrepancy in fat content of pork between the new study and USDA's Handbook 8-10, which has long been used as the established authority on nutrient composition. "Handbook 8-10 is based to a certain extent on information that has been accumulated over the past 30 years. The statistics in it about pork do not reflect the hog of today which is about 50% leaner than it was 20 or 30 years ago, thanks to genetic improvements and better feeding practices."

Kline hailed the new Iowa State University research as a major breakthrough for pork in the area of consumer perception. "These results underscore the fact that today's pork is much leaner than most people thought," she said.

The new Iowa State University research was especially good news for the pork industry's new premium, boneless center loin "America's Cut." The new pork cut, developed with producer checkoff funds earlier this year, is now available in thousands of retail supermarkets and restaurants and has proven extremely popular with consumers. "The Iowa State study indicates that the average center loin from which the "America's Cut" comes, contains only 4.3% fat," said Kline. "That's well below the USDA data published in the latest edition of the government agency's Handbook 8-10 which indicates a fat content for center loin of 7.3%."

PA Retailers Make Most Of Summer Beef Promotion

HARRISBURG — Beef was the center of attention at supermarket meat cases throughout Pennsylvania this summer.

One of the most successful, comprehensive Pennsylvania beef retail promotions was completed recently by the Pennsylvania Beef Council, the Beef Industry Council, and Beef Board. The promotions increased consumer demand for beef by capitalizing on the product's popularity as an outdoor cooking and grilling favorite.

The promotion consisted of a wide variety of elements, all of which combined to give beef a lot of exposure at Pennsylvania meat cases. These promotional elements included all-new beef point-of-purchase materials, innovative merchandising ideas, the added marketing muscle of two popular barbecue product cooperators and the support of the beef industry's ongoing national advertising and promotion campaign, "Real Food for Real People."

The promotion also featured a national retail barbecue display contest. Winners of 12 regional contests competed against one another for a national grand prize of $1,000, a first prize of $750, and a second price of $500. Displays were judged on their originality and creativity. Co-sponsors of the contest with the beef industry were Kingsford Charcoal and K.C. Masterpiece Barbecue Sauce.

Winners from the region that included Pennsylvania were Vincent Pegnataro, Colonia, NJ; David B. Hess, Washington, DC; Douglas Leo Birrer, Womelsdorf, PA; John E. Zook, Ephrata, PA; and John Fenk, Bridgeville, PA.

The national grand prize was Tom Klingerman of Publix Supermarkets in Holiday, FL. Klingerman's display prominently featured a wide variety of beef point-of-purchase materials, homemade barbecue promotional materials and two Western-clad mannequins who were preparing overly large hamburgers for an overly large barbecue.

"We had tremendous participation in the contest from Pennsylvania retailers," said Robert Coleman of the Pennsylvania Beef Council. "The displays were excellent and everyone who participated should be commended for their enthusiasm and creativity."

"These promotions are designed specifically to increase consumer demand for beef. So merely by participating in our summer beef promotion, Pennsylvania retailers are already winners," he said.

This fall, the beef industry is cooperating with Sara Lee Corp. on a major promotion involving beef and croissants. In February, yet another major beef promotion with coincide with Meat Month, which has been expanded from previous one-week efforts.

White-New Idea Introduces Coil Tine Harrow

COLDWATER, OHIO — A new coil tine harrow for White 220 Series field cultivators was recently introduced by White-New Idea Farm Equipment Company.

The new harrow attachment makes a combination that prepares a finished seedbed and is available for 10'4" through 47'2" sizes.

It provides reduced tillage passes, levels out ridges and ruts, breaks up clods and improves chemical incorporation.

Individual coil tine teeth are ¾ inches in diameter and 14½ inches in length for extra-long wear life. Three bar design gives coil tine teeth stagger of 2½ inches to work soil. Four working angles of 3, 18, 33 and 48 degrees for coil tines allows you to match aggression of coil tine to field condition. Section mounting allows folding and transporting and each section's mounting arms have down pressure springs for easy adjustment.

This coil tine harrow from White-New Idea has teeth that are ¾ inches in diameter and 14½ inches in length for extra-long wear.

Gehl Box Spreaders Incorporate Operator Convenience

WEST BEND, WI — Years of experience in designing and building beaters, drives, aprons and chassis are reflected in the new, full line of Gehl box spreaders. Many of the features are unique to the industry.

For example, special Gehl-Tuff flooring — which has a smooth, durable, slippery top surface — prevents the apron from freezing to the floor and lets manure slide out with little resistance. As a result, the operator can start heaped loads fast, even on cold days, without excessive wear and tear on the drives and apron chains. And the T-bar apron chains are built extra strong to keep the load moving.

"Operator convenience was a big factor in the design of these spreaders," says Brad Boncher, Gehl Material Handling Product Manager, noting the low profile which makes the boxes easy to load. "Price and performance were also major considerations. In fact, cost efficiency is built into every Gehl spreader to keep the price low while maintaining high quality."

Boncher points out that the sides are constructed of 12-gauge, corrosion-resistant "Gehl steel" for strength and long life. The transmission has a polyethylene shield that sheds manure and won't rust like metal. The beaters are welded on, not bolted, for more strength; symmetrically positioned into a rooster comb pattern to allow wider, more even spreads. And the constant velocity pto reduces chatter when the operator is spreading on turns.

"Even with all these desirable features, the price is very affordable," Boncher notes. "And to wrap up an even more attractive package, we've added a 10-year warranty on the floor and sides."

Gehl box spreaders come in a choice of five spreader sizes, ranging from 135-bushel to 425-bushel heaped capacities and single- and tandem-axle models.

Case IH, Hesston Form Joint Venture

RACINE, WIS. — Case IH of Racine, Wisconsin, and Hesston Corporation of Hesston, Kansas, announced today that they have completed the formation of the joint venture for the design and manufacture of hay and forage equipment for sale in North America.

The joint venture, to be known as Hay & Forage Industries, is owned equally by the two companies and will operate out of the facilities in Hesston, Kansas, previously owned by Hesston Corporation.

Jerome K. Green, president and chief executive officer of Case IH, and Mario Chessa, president and chief executive officer of Hesston, said that the two companies would share equally the estimated $40 million initial investment required for the new venture.

Equipment manufactured by Hay & Forage Industries will be marketed separately by Case IH and Hesston under their respective brand names and distribution systems.

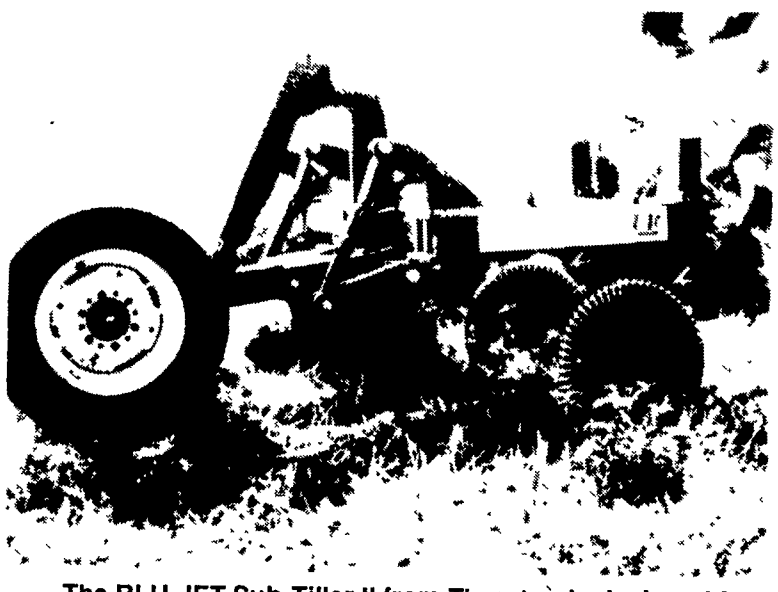
Charles H. Miller has been appointed general plant manager of Hay & Forage Industries and will be responsible for plant manufacturing and engineering operations.

Miller joined Case IH in 1970 as manager, production planning and control for the company's plant in Burlington, Iowa. He has held various positions at Case plants, the latest being general manager of the company's plant in Terre Haute, Indiana, from 1985 until its closure in early 1987. His most recent position was director, corporate purchasing for Case IH.

Case IH, a worldwide manufacturer and marketer of agricultural and construction equipment, is a subsidiary of Tenneco Inc., Houston. Hesston Corporation is one of a group of companies owned by Fiat Trattori, S.p.A. of Torino, Italy, which manufactures and markets farm equipment products worldwide under the name Fiatagri.

Tenneco Inc. is a diversified company with major business interests in oil, natural gas pipelines, agricultural and construction equipment, shipbuilding, automotive parts, packaging, chemicals, minerals and land management.

Fiat Trattori is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Fiat S.p.A. of Torino, Italy, which is engaged in various manufacturing and service sectors, including automobiles, commercial vehicles, farm and construction equipment, metallurgical products, civil engineering, aircraft engines, rail cars, diesel and ship engines, machine tools and others.



The BLU-JET Sub-Tiller II from Thurston is designed for use in fall and summer.

Thurston Offers Fall/Spring Sub-Tiller

THURSTON, NE — Quick-change points on BLU-JET's Sub-Tiller II now make it easy to use one machine for fall and summer tillage.

Designed for use in standing row crops, summer till points increase moisture absorption 10" to 14" deep without root disturbance. Roots are given room for healthier growth and are able to go deep through the shattered hardpan to reach trace minerals.

After harvest, the Sub-Tiller II's fall till points penetrate 14" to 16" deep and fracture the soil up to 20" on either side of the shank. Rigid or spring cushion coulters easily cut through heavy trash. And because the crop residue is not disturbed, erosion is controlled and cattle can continue to graze.

Today's heavy equipment causes severe soil compaction. Don't let it squeeze your profits. Put the two-season conservation tillage companion to work, BLU-JET's Sub-Tiller II. Available in 3, 5, 7, and 9 shank units, 3-point or pull-type, with shear bolt or flex trip design.

Banquet Hall Added To Fire Company Building

SYRACUSE, NY — One of the oldest volunteer fire companies in the U.S., the Eagle Fire Company of New Hope, PA, has taken on a new look with the addition of an adjoining 9,000 square-foot banquet hall recently completed by Agway Buildings.

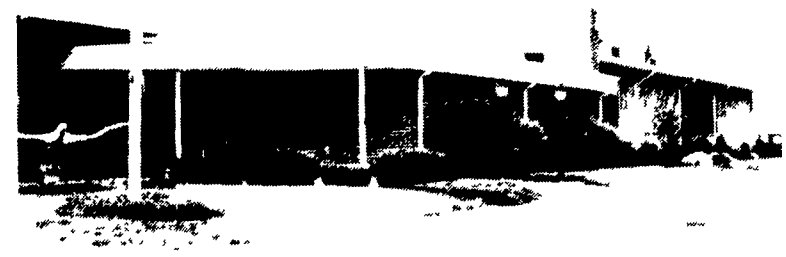
Established as a bucket brigade in the 1820s, the Eagle Fire Company has been a focus of New Hope's social activities for a long time. According to Woody McIlmoyle, Eagle Fire Company president, the new hall may be the largest facility of its kind in the area. Available for public use, it will serve as New Hope and surrounding Solebury township's assembly hall, theatre facility and bingo parlor, and house other events where a stage or large kitchen are required.

The structure is unconventional in that it does not resemble the archetypal block steel "fireman's hall." The fully insulated, wood frame, timber column building is cedar-sided to complement the existing fire house.

The size and capabilities of the interior, however, are what make the new banquet hall so desirable to the people of New Hope. The 5,000 square-foot dance floor/banquet area will seat nearly 300 people comfortably and the 1,000 square foot kitchen will feed them amply. A 50-foot by 20-foot stage will provide the proper setting for New Hope's high school graduation, auctions, and local productions.

"For many years, our engine room has doubled as our banquet hall," McIlmoyle said. "That meant we could only use it during the summer when it was possible to put the engines on the street. The entire community is thrilled to have such a wonderful facility available to them."

The Eagle Banquet Hall project, including architecture, engineering and construction management, was handled by Agway Buildings, a design-build construction organization. Agway Buildings is a division of Agway Inc., the Fortune 500 agri-business cooperative headquartered in Syracuse, NY.



The new addition to the Eagle Fire Company in New Hope, Pa., was designed and built by Agway Buildings to benefit the entire community.

Ag Marketing Conference To Be Held

UNIVERSITY PARK — Today's affluent consumers who frequent direct markets and gourmet restaurants may seem unpredictable to producers trying to second guess their tastes. One day kiwi is in, the next it's passe; now it's dried flower arrangements but by Christmas, it may be jams, jellies and specialty nuts. This year fresh brook trout has been a big seller, but next year it may be game birds.

If you are a producer of specialty crops or animals, finding the right markets can be as critical to your profits as developing the right product. You can learn how to develop profitable commodities and target your marketing efforts by attending the Alternative Agriculture Marketing Conference at The Inn at Reading, Reading, Pennsylvania on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 18 and 19.

Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff and the dean of Penn State's College of Agriculture Lamartine F. Hood, will open the conference with comments on agricultural diversity and profitability. The conference, subtitled "Make it by Marketing," is open to growers, producers, marketers, educators and anyone else interested in producing, marketing and selling specialty commodities.

Campbell Soup Company's director of fresh produce marketing Frank Dudowicz and marketing research manager Mara Rastovsky will lead the first session with a discussion of food trends, followed by a presentation on how to research a market by Penn State agricultural economist James Beierlein.

Participants can then attend sessions on direct or indirect marketing. Robert Lewis, marketing specialist for the New York Department of Agriculture, and David O'Neil of the Reading Terminal Market will address the group on direct marketing in New York City. Chris Stevens, president of the Harvest Group, Inc., and Jack Czarnecki, owner-chef of Joe's Restaurant, a gourmet restaurant in Philadelphia, will discuss marketing to restaurants. Thomas Ney, director of Rodale Food Center and food editor of Prevention magazine, will present "Food Service with a Philosophy."

Those interested in indirect marketing can attend a session on cooperative wholesale marketing presented by Herbert Marsh, horticulture specialist with the University of Massachusetts and a session on large terminal markets with Frank Weichek of the Philadelphia Terminal Market and Ira Cohen of the New York Terminal Market at Hunt's Point. Wayne Knoblauch, extension specialist at Cornell University, will present a session on evaluating your options.

Program director of USDA's Small Scale Agricultural program Howard W. Kerr will give the banquet address, "Marketing: The Linchpin of Agriculture."

Thursday sessions will be targeted to specific marketing issues. Participants can select one of three tracks. The first includes "How to Fail in the Produce Business," "Organic Farming Cooperatives" and "Promoting your Products."

The second track is focused on animal production and includes "Livestock Alternatives," "Aquaculture: Trout and Pay Fishing;" "Crayfish" and "Game Birds and Speciality Fowl." The third tract focuses on alternative crops and includes "Ornamental Crops;" "Cut Flowers;" "Salad Sprouts from Production to Marketing;" "Producing and Marketing Speciality Crops and Edible Flowers;" "Crops for Industrial Use" and "Herbal Dollars and Scents."

Robert Rodale, chairman of the board of Rodale Press, Inc., will give the closing luncheon address, "How Agriculture Can Have a Bright Future."

Space is limited. Speciality producers and marketers are encouraged to register early. Preregistration fees, accepted through November 9, are $15 for the first participant and $10 for additional participants from your operation, business or family. After November 9, the registration fee is $20 per person on a space available basis. The registration form includes information on housing.

The Alternative Agriculture Marketing Conference is sponsored by the Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland state Departments of Agriculture and their university Cooperative Extension Services as well as the New Jersey Cooperative Extension Service.

For a copy of the program and registration form, contact your county Cooperative Extension Service office or write to: Penn State Short Courses in Agriculture, 306 Ag Administration Building, University Park, Pa. 16802. You may also call the Short Course Office at (814) 865-8301.

Atlantic District 30 To Meet

Compare Our Quality Features ...Then Try To Beat Our Price!

For $8,898.00*, we don't think you can.
The new Solids II Plus Spreader from New Idea offers more features for your dollar than any other manure spreader on the market today. A virtually leakproof four-bladed expeller provides an even spread pattern over a 50 ft. area. The simplified drives are the easiest to maintain of any spreader available today.

Durable design and convenient operation.
The wide bottom design of the dual auger system allows increased load capacity without adding height to the sides. Dual augers powered by a constant velocity PTO move manure from the rear to the front of the spreader. These dual augers also help to eliminate bridging of dense pen or poultry manure.

We build them and we back them.
The New Idea Solids II Plus Spreaders are built to do the job...and we back them with a full warranty... Financing programs are available through Allied Products Financial Services Corp. Ask your dealer for details.

Let us prove you can't beat our features and price! Visit your New Idea dealer today or call 1-800-543-9598. In Ohio, call collect 1-513-228-0103, ask for Operator 299.

Wayne Co. Gets A New 4-H Agent

HONESDALE — Debra Bryant, Star Route, Honesdale, has been appointed Family Living/4-H Agent by the Pennsylvania State University Cooperative Extension Service and assigned to Wayne County. She began her duties on September 15.

Bryant earned both her Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees from Cornell University. Her undergraduate work was in the College of Human Ecology with a major in community service education and a minor in clothing and textiles, while her graduate studies concentrated in the areas of education and rural sociology. She also attended the University of Scranton to obtain a teaching certificate in biology.

Recently Bryant was employed by the Wayne Highlands School District where she served as a substitute teacher and guidance counselor. Additional work experience included a graduate teaching assistantship at Cornell University and employment with the United Cerebral Palsy Child Development Center.

She served a three year term on the Wayne County Administrative Board of the Farmers Home Administration and has been a member of the Wayne County Extension Executive Committee.

As a member of the local Wayne County Extension staff, she will be responsible for developing educational programs in the family living area for both adults and youth.

Debra is married to William Bryant and they have four children - Carrie, Zachery, Emily, and Michael. She can be reached by contacting the Wayne County Extension Office, Courthouse, Honesdale.

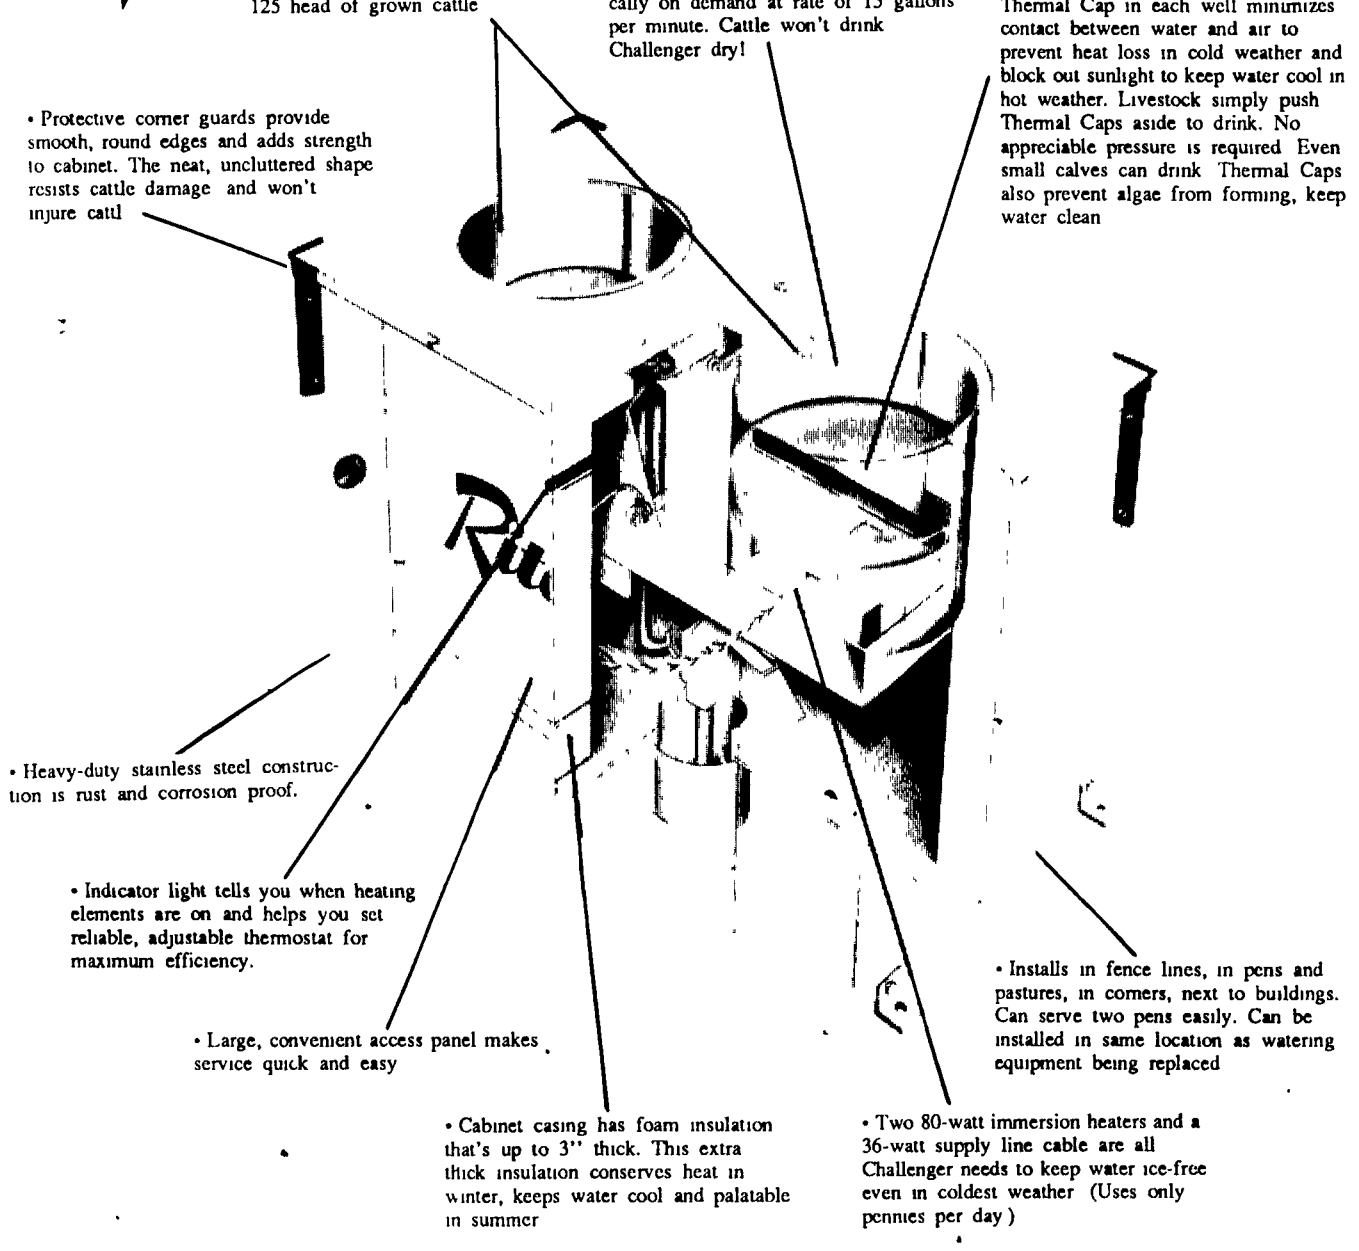
Ritchie®
WATERS 'EM RIGHT®

Check out the Challenger.™ Put this great new Ritchie in your plans.

EFFICIENT SUPER ENERGY DESIGN



• Two drink design will water up to 125 head of grown cattle

• Deep drinking wells dip into big trough of fresh, clean water Full-throated valve refills trough automatically on demand at rate of 15 gallons per minute. Cattle won't drink Challenger dry!

• Insulated, floating, removable Ritchie Thermal Cap in each well minimizes contact between water and air to prevent heat loss in cold weather and block out sunlight to keep water cool in hot weather. Livestock simply push Thermal Caps aside to drink. No appreciable pressure is required Even small calves can drink Thermal Caps also prevent algae from forming, keep water clean

• Protective corner guards provide smooth, round edges and adds strength to cabinet. The neat, uncluttered shape resists cattle damage and won't injure cattl

• Heavy-duty stainless steel construction is rust and corrosion proof.

• Indicator light tells you when heating elements are on and helps you set reliable, adjustable thermostat for maximum efficiency.

• Large, convenient access panel makes service quick and easy

• Cabinet casing has foam insulation that's up to 3" thick. This extra thick insulation conserves heat in winter, keeps water cool and palatable in summer

• Two 80-watt immersion heaters and a 36-watt supply line cable are all Challenger needs to keep water ice-free even in coldest weather (Uses only pennies per day)

• Installs in fence lines, in pens and pastures, in corners, next to buildings. Can serve two pens easily. Can be installed in same location as watering equipment being replaced

A number of top-yielding characteristics.

Record yielder.

Excellent standability through harvest.

Here's the new Champ! At 252.4 bu./acre, G-4446 set the new all-time record in the Pennsylvania Five-Acre Corn Club's Shelled Grain Class in 1986.

Of course, this doesn't surprise the farmers who've seen it top their own yield trials. In fact, it's been one of the best performers we've ever seen in the 105-day class.

One of the reasons for its success is impressive late standability. When others are dropping bushels to the ground, G-4446 stands firm and holds onto its ears. It also husks easily and tests heavy, making it a favorite for either picking or combining.

Call us for full details, and to get your Hoffman Seed Book. 1-800-233-0137 (in Penn. 1-800-732-0456).

RATES AND TERMS: Cash or terms of not less than ten percent (10%) down payment with the remaining balance amortized over a period not to exceed 25 years; or a period for which the property will serve as adequate security; whichever is less. The interest rate will be determined at the time of approval of the credit requested based upon Farmer Program ineligible interest rate published in FmHA instruction. The current rate is 11.00%; however this is subject to change prior to approval.

ARCHEOLOGICAL IMPORTANCE: FmHA responsibilities under the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (as amended 1980) require consideration of historic and archeological resources In consultation with the State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO), it has been determined that there is a high probability that significant archeological sites may be located on this farm property. Any future plans for land use change (including construction activity) must be reviewed by the SHPO The purchaser agrees to implement and/or give due consideration to the SHPO review recommendations, as required of a Federal Agency under the regulation of the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation under 36 CFR part 800 The Pennsylvania SHPO may be contacted by writing to the PA Historical & Museum Commission, Bureau for Historic Preservation, P O Box 1026, Harrisburg, PA 17108-1026 or by calling (717) 783-8946

ARCHITECTURAL IMPORTANCE: The purchaser agrees that any alteration, rehabilitation or demolition, in whole or in part, of any historic structure on the property will be carried out in conformance with the recommended treatments in "The Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitating Historic Buildings" Prior to the commencement of work, the owner will notify in writing the State Historic Preservation Officer of all alteration, rehabilitation of demolition which might affect the historical or architectural character or integrity of the historic structures The State Historic Preservation officer will be given ample time (30 days) to comment on whether the proposed work conforms to the recommended treatments in "The Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation and Guidelines for Rehabilitating Historic Buildings"

LONG-TERM FISH AND WILDLIFE CONSERVATION MEASURES: The following measures are recommended to meet FmHA mandates to conserve, protect and enhance important resources and to fulfill the mandates of Executive Orders 11988 and 11990

1 That the Quittapahilla Creek and its adjacent wetlands be protected by a deed restriction establishing buffer zones extending fifty feet into the property from the ordinary high water line The buffer zones should be left in a natural vegetated state and should not be mowed Access by livestock should not be permitted in the buffer zone except for restricted areas for crossing and watering Watering and crossing areas should not exceed 10 percent of the length of the buffer zone

2 Representatives of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, the Service, the Pennsylvania Fish Commission and the Farmers Home Administration are permitted access to the property for the purpose of insuring compliance with this deed restriction.
